FLORES' FESTIVAL.

Much to the regret of many of the Flores residents, "last smiling suburb," the village of the Plain was on last Sunday, on the occasion of the opening of the new Church, proclaimed by law a City. What earthly advantage the little town will gather by this most preposterous Act of Parliament we cannot discover, unless it serves as a pretext for increasing the taxes, and lessening our duties. The roads and houses of the deck the Flores residents will not smell the sweater on account of this law, and since there is no prospect of giving to Flores her own, and making it the capital of the province, the Governor might have reserved for other and more ambitious country towns a destination which the Flores man of the least common sense values.

The feast on Sunday would have been freed from many rigors and annoyances had the Committee of Management left the Church doors open, instead of keeping them closed and locked up to 12 o'clock, an hour after the appointed time. All the ladies, who with religious punctuality assembled with prayer-book and chair in hand, were kept standing in the sunning sun before the church door. A little after 12 o'clock, H. E. Gov. Rojas drove up in a coach and four. Padre de Vito at once appeared on the scene with the keys of the church doors in his hand, reminding one much of St. Peter, and in the twinkling of an eye threw open the portals to the flood-tide of Flores humanity that poured in on us, des, filling to its utmost the stately edifice.

The committee, composed of the following gentlemen, accompanied by the young residents: Messrs Ruiz Governor or his chair; Messrs Ruiz, Valdés, Juanita, Díaz Valle, Quintana, Losa, Llano, Díaz Valle, Quintana, Terrenos, Harriague, Nigles and Villa Longa, Governor Medina, was accompaniment, and Messrs Toledo and Llano. The religious, or Cathedral, committee was composed of the Archibishop, the Nunca Sr. Matera, Padres Jordán, Benavente, and the Parish Priest. Sr. De Vito. High Mass began at half past twelve o'clock, being 12 hours later than the time mentioned in the invitation cards. The Archibishop officiated, and at 1 o'clock Mass was said in the church, and every street and lane of the country town resounded with flags from the trees, lamps, windows, doors and hedges. "En fin," Flores was fairly turned inside out on the occasion.

sion; and at the conclusion of High Mass, a select few were led in by the parish priest to his private rooms, where a grand lunch was served. Whilst the lunch was going on at his assets. But so long as we fail to teach the Entre-Ríos authorities that such crimes, when allowed to pass unpunished, affect their own pocket, all our preaching amounts to nothing.

Whilst the lunch was going on an equally generous movement was passing in the Plaza, where the church Committee distributed beautiful medals amongst the assembled crowds; fully 600 were given away. The 18th Feb., 1882, is indeed a red-letter day for Flores; and the thousands of children that crowded the plaza had amusement free in the "callecas," as the older portion of the community had free theatre in the evening. At four o'clock in the afternoon the great indigenous game of "sotija" was played with much spirit, and some well known young men of the young city took part in the sport. Four military bands held the plaza and disengaged grand music beneath the trees until the sun went down. The dusk on the road, in the tram cars, was such as only the Flores road can afford.

At half past six o'clock the lanterns of Flores, Sr. Victoria, the popular Juez de Paz, led the Governor and his friends to his banqueting hall where a grand dinner was spread, and before the repast was well over the fireworks in the Plaza, and the bunt-bums of the locals invited friends and strangers to leave the festive board.

In recording this great commemoration on the occasion of inaugurating the Flores Church, we are induced to say that, perhaps in few other suburbs, here or elsewhere, is there to be found so magnificent a temple. The Flores Church is simply magnificent, and speaks volumes for the tact and liberality of the Flores people. The cupola is a masterpiece of art, and it is probable that in the long run Flores will be declared the Capital of the Province, we must not grudge the outfit which is to be found in so few other suburbs, here or elsewhere, is there to be found so magnificent a temple.
