THE MERCEDES TRAGEDY.

The story of poor Connell is now almost forgotten, the w.dowed mother has dried her tears, and the bones of our unfortunate countryman have returned to their kindred dust. But the ruthless policeman still lives, and our attention is now called to the matter by a judicial notice that Antonio Diaz is to be tried to-day for "assault and abuse of authority."

We are blamed, perhaps with some justice, for instituting comparisons between this country and England, but we cannot refrain from adverting to the serious turn this case would take if tried in an English court of justice. Any outrage by a policeman is there visited with tenfold severity, and the perpetrator of the present bloody deed would certainly be hanged.

It is not to be wondered that Connell's case excites such little interest, being of common occurrence throughout the camp, and moreover people are little apt to bestow any spare sympathy when the sufferer is a drunken fellow who brings disgrace on his countrymen, and is himself the first offender against the laws.

Public morality has been poorly recompensed for the outrage by the imprisonment of Diaz, and we trust the courts of Justice will vindicate their reputation by inflicting condign punishment, and not leave the degrading impression that they sanction a horrible crime by impunity, simply because the offender is an agent of public authority.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

"Burr versus Green," is the talk of the day: any rate of exchange would have been preferable to the present rate of discussion. Another serious complaint has been sent us against the River Plate Bank—so serious that, although brought to us by a leading English merchant, we declined to entertain it, until redress is sought in the proper quarter.

The calling out of the National guard by the Government has caused no small surprise in town: it appears that the troops of the line are about to leave for parts unknown and the Government therefore, very properly determines to mobilize the National Guard. It is the general impression amongst politicians that a war is impending, but, as we are rarely or ever free of these gloomy forebodings, we are accustomed to them.

This country is in no position whatever to go to war, and we have the greatest faith in the firm peace, non-intervention, and the President Mitre. A war with Paraguay, no matter how it ended, would plunge this country into ruin; while, on the contrary, if we steer clear of our neighbours' quarrel, our prospects could not be better.

We call our readers' attention to a legal advertisement in another column; six splendid estancias to be sold at the Cabildo, on the 19th, 20th and 21st of next month. We advise our friends to be on the alert, as money in town is very scarce, and the estancias must be sold. The government valuation of these estates amounts to over two millions and a quarter.

The sea or drought in some of the northern partidos is becoming alarming. Several of the sheep-farmers have been obliged to move away from Pilar; and now we hear that the drought is extending to the partidos of San Antonio de Areco, Lujan, Villa de Mercedes and Fortin. The camps in the South could not be in better condition, but the farmers say that it is almost impossible to sell a flock of sheep: the people in the camp districts are this year so very poor, many of them have their wools lying in deposit, waiting for prices to improve.

The people in the town of Dolores seem determined that the Southern Railway shall be extended to their town. A large, crowded, and influential meeting was held on Sunday. Fine speeches were made, and resolutions passed. A committee was named to go up to Buenos Ayres, at once see Governor Saavedra, chat with the Minister, and insist upon the railway being extended. When this dolorous committee arrives in town we will acquaint our readers. There can be no doubt whatever that the Southern Railway is incomplete until finished to Azul; but these extensions cannot be made without money, and if the people so ardently desire the road to be continued, they should at least subscribe for the stock.

Our colleague, the 'Pueblo,' has opened an office in the Boea for the purpose of receiving subscriptions and advertisements. The idea is rather a good one, and will probably result favorably for our colleague.

The National Government has paid $20,000 to the committee, which was formed to assist the refugees from Montevideo. This seems to us a very large sum, particularly as the subscriptions by the public were very large.

Probably the most important news yesterday was the resurrection of De Boots. He was met yesterday in the streets after an absence of a year and a-half. Our readers may expect shortly another 'poet's corner.'

People who have coaches, gigs, &c., should not forget to apply in time for the license, as the time expires on the 31st of this month, after which a heavy fine is imposed.

The Government has at last sent off the Eucalyptus globulus to the provinces, with nicely printed pamphlets to instruct the various Argentine Governors how to rear the tender plant. If the Government had only taken half the interest in cotton that it does in this ornamental tree, we should be exporting now several thousand bales of cotton, but the Government never would have anything to do with cotton, and as many of our readers may be unaware of this political prejudice, we may mention that a certain American gentleman who is now in the States, and who was the intimate friend of Dr. Alsina, Dr. Rawson, and others, persuaded those influential men that cotton never could be raised in this country, and that the "Standard" was doing a deal of harm in agitating the subject: as a matter of course the American ideas were adopted, and Government ever since looked upon cotton as a "Standard" humbug.

The 'Nacion Argentina' of yesterday denies in toto the existence of any secret treaty between this Republic and Brazil, which our Paraguayan colleagues affirm has been entered into; we think that the 'Semanaire' is misinformed, as no treaty whatever, according to the Constitution, is of any validity unless ratified by Congress. The Argentine Government may lean towards Brazil, but no treaty can be entered into without the approbation of the Senate.

Mr. Thomas Allen of the Western Railway has kindly notified us that a pocket-book has been found in the Parque station containing a sum of money and a letter addressed to Mr. John B. Dowling. We are requested to say that if the owner applies to Mr. Allan or to the porter, and properly describes the contents of the pocket-book he will receive same.

The new correspondent of the 'Nacion Argentina' in Montevideo is decidedly the best of all the native papers: he writes with an esprit seldom met with amongst native writers; his review of the Montevidean press was very severe, he says that the 'Mosa de Redaccion' invented by "el amigo asenato" proved a failure, and in fact so it has, because our colleagues never attended properly to it; the only native paper which now attempts an Editor's Table is the 'Cosmopolita' of Rosario.

We have received the second number of the German paper, and return our Teutonic colleague our best thanks for his kind and flattering remarks about 'Standard.' We hope this German paper will be as well supported as it is edited.

General Mackern is the officer in North America now attracting most attention. Our colleague, the 'Nacion Argentina,' says that in one of his recent victories he captured no less than twenty-one thousand cannons. We think this must be a burster of our colleague, and can only account for so unheard of a victory, by supposing that the General in question is a near relative of our popular stationer in Calle San Martin, and, as a matter of course, an Irishman.

Some idea may be formed of the scandalous financial state of the country at present, by the fact that a leading native broker called on us yesterday to say that he has some splendid 'rodeos' of fat cattle for sale at sixty paper dollars a-head, and several of the best flocks of mestiza sheep in the north at thirty paper dollars per, on a credit of twelve months, and yet no buyers can be found. The scarcity of money in the country districts surpasses belief; men worth millions have not five paper dollars in their houses.

The British gunboat Dotorrell arrived yesterday morning from Colonia. We salute our hospitable friend, Captain Johnson, and welcome him to Buenos Ayres.

We are happy to say, that of the eight guns thrown overboard, the Dotorrell has saved seven, and has come now for a diver to look for the other gun. She left last night for Colonia.

President Mitre yesterday visited Mr. Mackern's popular English book store: he looked well and melancholy, and we believe bought some English books.

We have received two more communications respecting the great suit of Burr versus Green, but have no room for them until to-morrow.

LANDS IN THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

The present seems to us a favorable occasion to call public notice to the important matter of lands in the Argentine Provinces.

A company having just been formed in England for the colonization and working of the lands ceded to Sor. Etcheagaray in the Province of Cordoba, it is time that all practical men who feel an interest in the advancement of the Republic should devote their spare time to the subject of Lands and draw attention to a country which earnestly invites to its shores a hardy industrious and numerous population of emigrants. The favorable treatment which the Cordoba colonial scheme has met with among English capitalists will no doubt prove the forerunner of many similar enterprises for the establishment of new colonies to turn to account our fertile plains. It is for this great and beneficial purpose we intend to treat of the benefits of settling our almost uninhabited territories, giving in succession a report of the chief advantages and general quality of land in each Province, which cannot fail to become valuable if Providence favor us with a happy continuation of Peace.

Alberdi says—"The object of every Government in America should be to populate, and the best means for doing so are the secret of peace and civil liberty."

We fully concur in the sentiment of this illustrious Argentine, and maintain that all the efforts of Government, of public companies, and of private individuals should be especially directed to increasing the population of the Republic; for, it is clear that the greater our population the more we consume and produce. By augmenting both these items of economy we advance in a wonderful manner the welfare of each citizen which is the infallible basis of public prosperity.

It affords us sincere pleasure to note the unceasing and laudable efforts of Government to preserve peace in the Republic, knowing that without peace every labor to procure immigration must prove vain and fruitless. Lasting and solid peace, with confidence in the actual order of things and security for the future, are indispensable conditions for inviting foreign settlers. And our present rulers have so much the more merit for keeping out of hot water that of late many complications arose, which almost provoked them to interfere and thus compromise the tranquillity of the country. We earnestly hope that the blessings of peace may be continued to us, and hereon we place our flattering prospects in the matter of Lands and Colonization.

PATRIOT.

'ESTRELLA DEL NORTE' STEAMER.

Captain Price's popularity in the river Parana is nowise diminished since he started this little steamer on the San Nicolas line. Although more pressing matters of the day prevented us heretofore from doing justice to the benefits he has conferred on the trade and population of our river-ports; we now gladly extract an article from the 'Amigo del Pueblo' (San Nicolas) which shews how this improved means of communication is appreciated, and urges its claims to Government support on grounds which we fully endorse.

We write these lines out of regard for the welfare of the towns on the Parana, between San Nicolas and the Tigre. There are 20 little towns from here to Buenos Ayres, and these are so many central depots for receiving the produce of the adjacent districts. But their natural advantages depend on frequent intercourse, and commercial interests require that the news of the capital should be transmitted as speedily as possible. At present the only means of communication are the steamer Pavon and the diligences: the former does not touch on the coast, and the inhabitants in many places have the mortification of hearing her whistle without condescending to visit them. The lazy diligences come with great irregularity and defeat the purposes of commerce.

If the 'Estrella del Norte' had a subsidy from Government, the owners could afford to call at all the intermediate ports, to take passengers and mails. As she goes and comes four times a week, the river towns, with the aid of one or two other small steamers which the Co. intend soon to place on the line, would be able to maintain daily communication with Buenos Ayres.

We think the Government is in duty bound to aid the enterprise of Messrs. Price and Davis which confers on us special benefits that we cannot expect from the Pavon steamer. A sense of justice ought to give weight to this appeal, for it is based on the growing and important interests of these towns hitherto almost debarred of communication. Our trade along the coast to San Fernando is deserving of protection, being the life of the interior districts; it would receive a great impulse if we could do away with the lumbering bullock-carts, which sometimes stick for a month in the marshy roads, and supply their place by the cheap and speedy steam-boat conveyance.

Taking in account the immense advantages which should thus result to Baradero, Zarate and the other small villages, we trust that the Government will vote a suitable subsidy to the owners of the Estrella del Norte.

THEATRE COLON.

'Eranani' the most complete, and smooth work of Verdi was given on Sunday evening to a good house but we grieved to notice a paucity of the fair sex.

The opera was well given: there is much more precision and force than formerly in the band and chorus, and the principals were in excellent voice and all distinguished themselves. In the Bandit-lover Lelini sang well and except in the piano passages of 'a morir' preserved his beautiful voice intact throughout the trying role, but there was the usual deficiency of histrionic power in his impersonation of the part, Madame Briol was charming and liquid in all her singing, and approached the tragic on her declamation of Elvira.

Walter was as usual artistic in all he did, and sang the charming morceau [the finest melodies of the opera] of the King with exquisite grace. Sor. Nerini the new basso made his first appearance in the character of the vindictive Silva and exerted himself to the utmost to please, he was received most kindly and the first recitative seemed to give the audience promise of an acquisition in basses, but his singing of 'Infelice' destroyed the illusion, proving that in the middle register of his voice only exists the volume expected; while in the upper and lower notes a painful deficiency was evinced: however Sor. Nerini is a correct and conscientious singer and as we have here had no bass for so long, we must not be too critical, and accept that we have with as little grumbling as possible.

We are pleased to notice a great improvement in the theatre as regards order and punctuality, the curtain rising at the advertised hour and entre actes being short. An important addition during the winter season would be a cloak room for ladies.

MONTEVIDEO.

Standard Office, March 21st.

The Provisional Government has passed decrees naming D. J. Bustamante private secretary to the Governor, Sors, F. Munoz, and D. B. Montaldo auxiliary officers to the Ministry of Government; it has also promulgated a decree naming a commission to classify the different officers belonging to the army. The Governor's secretary was to have received a salary of one hundred and fifty dollars per month; Sor. Bustamante generously refused it for his own use, and has directed it to be applied to charitable purposes. The last of the Blancos have surrendered: a considerable force under the command of the Comandante Muñoz surrendered to Colonel Borges delivering their arms, &c. We can now say that peace has been fully and radically established, the last of the late Government force having given up the ghost. The Blanco cause is defunct, its leaders and chiefs are either dead or self-exiled, which amounts to pretty much the same thing, its soldiers subjugated and scattered. This unfortunate country which for over a year has been convulsed by civil-war, has at length righted itself; we are again launched into the current of life and commerce under new auspices, the silvery voice of peace is again heard throughout the land, where scarcely one month since the red goddess of war had reigned triumphant, and our heartfelt prayer is that her voice swelling with the Atlantic breeze, may be wafted far and near, that its echoes may resound from the wild mountains of Brazil to the fertile plains of Paraguay, and its gentle tone be heard high o'er the fierce cry of war.

It is a remarkable fact that, ever since peace has been restored, Montevideo has advanced with giant strides. It is no longer the same city that it was a month ago. Peace, peace is all we require, and Montevideo five years hence will be what Buenos Ayres is at present. We have a liberal Government, whose greatest desire is to make up for lost time and raise our riverine city to its proper standard. We have an enterprising commercial community, amongst which our own countrymen figure as the very first and most influential. A new and glorious prospect opens to Montevideo. Already have we felt the salutary effects of peace; every day new buildings are springing up, new enterprises started. The Paraguay arrived in due time, and sails for Liverpool on the 22d inst. We again have had a fall of rain, I believe it deluged some of the country districts. We cannot too much rejoice at this event, as we were in imminent danger of that plague which so often visits these countries, a 'seca.' The last Government decree has created an immense excitement amongst the Colorados.

Crinolines, especially large ones, are getting into disrepute here of late. It appears that yesterday a lady wearing an immense crinoline entered a drapery establishment. After having been shown some very costly goods, she bought some insignificant article, paid for it, and was walking off; the shop-boy politely reminded her that she had forgotten to pay for another article, which, as she was rather shy about carrying a large parcel in her hand, she had secreted about her crinoline. The lady looked rather 'sold,' she paid and 'skeladdled,' which has demonstrated the usefulness of ample crinolines.

The Government have struck a number of Custom-house clerks off the roll, replacing them by members of its own party.

The Government has of late been very busy remedying abuses, &c. I was very seriously thinking of putting in a petition, praying the Government to have a broken seat, which exists in the Plaza, repaired. How many disasters has it not caused, how many unfortunates of both sexes has it not victimised?

On Saturday evening the band played in the Plaza; of course I went to enjoy the music and see the fashionable world that was there congregated. I was walking round and round, when I thought I should perhaps have a better view by crossing through the Plaza. I chanced to perceive an unoccupied bench, in a quiet, shady spot, and was slowly advancing towards it, when I perceived that a lady and gentleman had just come up to it; they were evidently engaged in a most interesting conversation, as they did not even look to see if the seat was dry [a heavy dew was falling]; I passed along. Hardly had I got one pace further, when I heard a cry, 'loud and shrill.' I turned, and lo and behold! both lady and gentleman had come to grief, or otherwise to the ground. They had unfortunately, above all others, chosen this wretched thing, which once was, but now no longer is, a seat. The gentleman swore at the Chief of Police, the lady reproached the gentleman with his want of attention [I considered if he had not been so much so, they might have escaped the rather unlucky accident.] Nothing exists of the above article but the iron frame and back: the seat itself has not been seen of late, it is supposed to have taken its departure with its Government.

Montevideo, March 20, 1865.

There has been a report to-day that the French steamer Saintonge was lost, the news coming by a vessel arrived from Brazil to-day, but the origin of the report has been on account of the non-arrival of the French packet Navarre, of the European line, at Bahia, as is supposed on account of the machinery getting out of order.

There was great excitement in the vicinity of the mole on last Saturday on account of the opening of the Standard Office; many were the versions of the cause of the excitement, many thought it was on account of the last remains of the celebrated barricades in front of Evans's store had been removed and the streets repaved, others thought it was some unfortunate person who had fallen in the great hole in the mole, but later in the day the truth was known, as in passing by the long-closed doors of the Standard office they were found open, with the new agent as large as life, sitting in state, behind his throne, meditating on the uncertain state of all human affairs. The excitement gradually subsided, and the crowd disappeared. On Saturday evening there were some very mysterious lights appeared on the azotea of some houses in Calle Riucan, about 10 p.m., many were the conjectures as to the cause, some thought it was some trick to attract some vessel ashore, as the light did not appear natural nor regular. I however ascertained to-day that it was some experiments made by some scientific gentlemen of the electric light. Everything is going on very quietly here: the Bell-ringers gave their first performance in Solis last night, and were received with great applause.

NEWS FROM THE PROVINCES.

The Pavon arrived yesterday 4 hours behind time, bringing little news of importance, except another Indian invasion in Cordoba.

The 'Cosmopolita' mentions the arrival of Dr. Rawson in Rosario on Monday and his departure next day for Cordoba. The earthworks of the Central Argentine Railway have already crossed the Caracará. Mr. Perkins has been named sub-inspector of the Blenchochors Co.

From Cordoba we have dates to the 17th inst. The 'Eco' contains long articles about the Posse assassination, which several learned Doctors have shown to be very useful. The resignation of the Ministers has been accepted, and the garrison continues its evening practise. The survivors of the Paz family, murdered by Government officials, have been brought to Cordoba in a carriage sent by Government.

Private letters from Paraná represent the cotton-plantation of Messrs. Forrest and Davidson in a most flourishing state.

BUREAU VERSUS GREEN.

THE REJOINDER.

Portabatur doctoris River Plate Banci Innumerabilibus sollicitudinibus.

Buenos Ayres, March 22, 1865.

To the Editor of the Standard, Dear Sir,

I read the 'Standard' this morning with great pleasure at finding the game was not entirely in my own hands, respecting the Exchange affair of the River Plate Bank, but that a candidate for some literary renown has come forward to take Mr. Green's and Mr. Gregory's part—strange coincidence the initials of the writer correspond with these just named. I will willingly excuse Mr. A. G. y G.'s English, and merely proceed to give you my ideas on Mr. Green's defence.

In the first place my complaint has been brought before the public both mercantile and non-mercantile, and was never looked upon by me as a mercantile transaction, but as a Banking one, for the mere reason that I was dealing with a Banker and not a Merchant. As regards Mr. A. G. y G.'s discussion on the "importance of its views," he unfortunately is given to "running off the rails" so much, by never sticking to the point on which hangs the very centre of my complaint.

Mr. A. G. y G. should be aware that ere I presented my letter of credit to Mr. Green the money and my own money too had been laying nine weeks in the hands of the River Plate Bank in London, and that neither the bank here, represented in Mr. Green, was giving me one fraction of accommodation, by accepting my credit. I am told that I supposed the bank had no other business or operation to attend to but my letter of credit; unfortunately error, but fortunate would it be that many thought so, for then so many would not have to go to the bank but to return with "not in," ringing in their ears.

As regarding Mr. Gregory's cleverness, if this transaction is to be taken as a sample, I can only say, "I don't see it." Unfortunately, Mr. Gregory thought he had a "new chum" to deal with, and however clever he may be in some things, I am inclined to think his cleverness will not be tried much oftener in similar cases. In fact, I trust, "the biter has got bit." As Mr. A. G. y G. can see, if he will take the trouble to look again, that I am not in the habit of bartering, or as he has it, 'riggling,' at a bank counter; though most assuredly a few more "hauls" on my pocket of a similar kind would certainly make me "riggle" pretty considerably.

I should think myself that the public would be invariably the best umpires on any transaction, so very simple on the one side, and so "miserably mean on the other." But Mr. A. G. y G. says the public are not to act as judges.

I wonder if Mr. A. G. y G. has seen quite as many "parts of the world," and their various banks, as I have? But in a few words to answer this paragraph in Mr. A. G. y G.'s letter. I must only say, I never before met with a bank that would think it worth their while to run the risk of getting severe public censure, for the sake of 20 paltry pounds.

The next paragraph alluded to Mr. Green's being, "not visible," or, as would be a little more correct, "invisible." But Mr. A. G. y G. makes a very curious statement when he says Mr. Green is visible until some hours after the offices are closed. I suppose that means to Mr. A. G. y G. as a visitor; for what earthly use would it be for me to call on Mr. Green after business hours, I don't know: especially, as the amiable, speedy, attentive, and gentlemanly Mr. Gregory would not also be there to dictate this Vest Bank's Exchange for those who don't understand the proper art of 'riggling,' as it appears necessary here to do.

It is necessary to point out to Mr. A. G. y G. that a Bank manager should go to his office at 10 a.m. and leave at 3 p.m. for which I presume he is paid, and I fancy I have paid my share also; but never had the satisfaction of receiving its worth; and I can answer for at least half a dozen others who came in the short space of half an hour, and retired only to expend more shoe leather on another attempt.

Mr. A. G. y G. persists in talking on the mercantile community, and I do not doubt he is well aware I do not belong to that eminent class, but am only a simple rustic, tending my herds and flocks, and striving to earn an honest crust, and therefore am not probably capable of comprehending such immense commercial transactions. In fact, to be plain to Mr. A. G. y G. 'I am an Estanciero.'

What Mr. A. G. y G. means by being badly impressed by the treatment of Mr. Gregory, I don't know, but will leave him to explain himself.

Mr. Gregory's amiability certainly was not extended to myself, as regards his speed, I don't know, as I never saw him run; his attention appears to be pretty good, as regards making money (never mind how); and then again, I am thrown in the back ground, as Mr. A. G. y G. speaks of the "man of business" again, "who has ever walked into the Bank once." I alas! had to do so, but I don't ever think I shall a second time, as I consider the Bank has walked into me.

Mr. Gregory, according to Mr. A. G. y G. may be a very excellent, able, and clever man in the fulfilment of his "employment," but if in this kind of affairs consists Mr. Gregory's excellence, ability, and cleverness, I cannot hold a very high idea of Mr. A. G. y G.'s capacity for judging character; but again I must state it as my duty, that if those talents are to be employed in the manner that has caused this correspondence, the River Plate Bank, instead of being an honor to our country, and a means of accommodation to us here, is discreditable in every sense of the word, and the sooner one and all in that establishment alter their general mode of treatment of some classes of customers, the better for the concern.

At present complaints are on all sides, and I trust that until some other treatment is adopted by the Bank authorities all parties who may have a grievance will come forward and publicly complain. Alluding to what Mr. A. G. y G. calls my amusing threats, I trust he does not also consider them vain; for I take this means of informing him and M. Green that I am intimately acquainted with the actual starter of the Bank.

At the same time, I truly believe that all impartial persons fully concur with me that my complaint was just—at least, all those "serious honorable merchants" of Buenos Ayres can but think so.—

I have now said my say, and there the matter rests; and if I shall be the means of warning others, who are poorer in this world's goods than I am from being duped in the same way, I have acted my part as a man and a brother, and wishing you a long farewell,

I am, Gentlemen, Yours truly, HENRY BURR.

THE "SAINTONGE" NOT LOST.

Mr. Maxwell publishes the following notice in the Sala de Comercio: "The rumoured loss of the Saintonge is untrue, as the Captain of the barque James Scott, who brought the news, only says that he sighted a steamer about 80 miles off Cape St. Mary, steering East."

SOUTH AMERICAN BEEF IN LONDON.

Turpentine punch is a popular remedy in the wards of the Meath Hospital. It is of special service in the low stages of fever, and the following are the ingredients which enter into its composition:—An ounce of turpentine, two ounces of brandy, eight ounces of boiling water, and sugar sufficient to sweeten. Half of this should be taken for a dose, to be repeated, if necessary, every third hour.

AUSTRALIA.

THREATENING NEWS.

(From the South Australian Register.) Many of our readers will recollect that a few years ago—immediately, in fact, after the closing of the Crimean war—a Russian nobleman visited these colonies. He came from Victoria to South Australia, by way of the River Murray. He was an experienced traveller, an accomplished linguist, and an acute observer of men and manners. He brought the highest credentials with him, for he was a man of mark in his own country, and his name was known in many parts of the world. He travelled, however, in the quietest and most unostentatious manner, and his mission to Australia would not have attracted notice but for the fact that a gentleman well known in these colonies who travelled with him down the Murray spoke in Adelaide of his high attainments, his vast amount of information, and his amiable character. This caused a notice of the distinguished stranger's visit to appear in the newspapers—a most unlucky mistake in one respect, for it gave the direct offence to the Russian nobleman who was the the object of that notice. He was indignant that public attention should have been drawn to his movements, harmless as they then appeared to be, and he complained with inexplicable warmth that any notice whatever should have been taken of his peaceful journeyings in these foreign lands. Of course, the press did not understand all his outcry, and could only conclude that the illustrious Count was a little eccentric in his manner. He explained personally and by letter that he was a private traveller, and that he had a great objection to every kind of publicity. Here, then, the matter dropped. The Count went on his way, receiving polite attention from the Colonial Governments, and noting down every scrap of information that could be gleaned as to the population, wealth, and resources of Victoria, New South Wales, and South Australia. He was assiduous too, in learning every thing that could be ascertained relative to rivers, roads, and harbours. In fact, he was making a photograph of these colonies, and was collecting every fact of interest or importance that related to them. All this seemed harmless enough, and the local governments were quite willing that the Count—whether he wished to publish a volume of travels, or to make a Blue-book for Imperial purposes—should have full use of all the information which they could place at his disposal. Up to this time no more has been thought of the Russian nobleman. We may now, however, fairly ask whether his very quiet journeying and his great indignation at being publicly noticed might not be in some degree explained by the news just received from England. The 'Times' says it has recently come to light that Russia had determined, in the event of a fresh war with England, to strike an immediate and sudden blow at the Australian colonies. Our exposed position, our slight means of defence, our weak points were all known even to the minutest detail at St. Petersburg. The Russian Count had certainly not travelled with his eyes shut, and the Russian government had no doubt supplemented his information with much more that was useful and interesting.

This astounding piece of intelligence ought not to be lost upon the colonies. Whatever the Home Government may do, the local authorities must see to their defences with more earnestness than they have recently shown.

SAVINGS BANK.

BANK MAUA AND CO.

No. 103 Calle de Cangallo, BUENOS AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt and appreciated in the River Plate, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Maua and Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in that city a safe and profitable depository for their savings.

The sum deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing, and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of clerks, artisans, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness, or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries, and other frivolities.

The Bank of Maua and Co. of this city, following the noble example of their firm in Montevideo, now offer the same facilities in this city, and will open a Savings Bank at No. 103 Calle Cangallo, from Nine a.m. till Three p.m. on Week Days, and on Sundays and Holidays from Ten a.m. to Twelve m., for the reception of the savings of the classes already mentioned.

The Bank will deliver to each depositor a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited; in the former case the interest will be calculated up to date.

The Bank of Maua and Co. is sufficiently known to the Public by the benefit derived from the course of its operations, which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles, and always directed to promote the general welfare.

The Bank of Maua and Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighbourhood.

Buenos Ayres, September 19, 1865. P. Maua and Co. WILLIAM LESLIE

CONDITIONS.

Cure your Sheep. Pure Spirit of Tar, or the only cure for scab in sheep for sale in 1, 2, and 5 Gallon Tins at TORRES & BARTON'S. Defensa, Nos. 65, 67, 69.

THE ONLY CURE FOR FOOT ROT IN SHEEP. And a certain destructor for maggots.

In all classes of animals. Let the sheep infected with this disease in the feet be put into a dry place, after remaining an hour, take a brush and cleanse the dirt from between the claws then shaking the bottle well, dip a stick or feather into the liquid and anoint the diseased part all over, after which let them stand dry for an hour; if properly applied, one application is generally sufficient.

To destroy maggots it may be used in the same manner but sometimes requires to be applied three times; it also cures all sort of ulcers arising from them, and may be applied to any cut to prevent the flies from forming maggots.

Experience has proved it to be the best preventive that can be applied after castrating stallions and one application of this liquid may save a valuable animal.
