THE LIEBIG'S EXTRACT OF MEST COMPANY.

HISTORY OF THE INDUITRY.

It is a significant fact, that the people in Europe know more about the Liebig Extract of Meat Company at Fray Bentos than even the residents of the River Plate, and it speaks for the general turn of the public mind, that a nation so remarkably wideawake on all the grand political topics of the day should be completely in the dark respecting an industry which, whilst it has astonished the whole scientific world, has achieved a commercial success hitherto unexampled.

Who in Buenos Ayres knows that the money operations of M. Giebert, the general Manager of this Company, rivals any monetary institution in this place.

Who in this city is aware of the fact that this celebrated Manufactory human beings on its premises, but supports a rising town of about 2,000 inhabitants; keeps a large pottery establishment in Europe solely at work to supply earthen jars; affords employment to a staff of 40 operatives at the head office in Antwerp, where the re-packing is attended to: holds regularly paid agents in every corner of the civilised globe, from the Cove of Cork to the Sandwich Islands. from Hong-Kong to New York, and maintains a fleet of mercantile shipping, freighted with the rudest staples, outwards, and homeward bound then a town boasting of two mud rauwith the richest, the best, and the chos. Mr. Giebert, of Hamburg, who had spent many years in South America and among other places in Uruguay, where thousands of oxen and sheep were slaughtered merely for their hides and fat, had resolved to ascertain among scientific men in Europe if this meat could not be saved and turned to profitable account. In 1861 M. Giebert, after a lengthened residence in Brazil, where he held posts of high trust and importance, visited the River Plate. He inspected the various saladeros at work, saw the lazy, slovenly manner in which the business was carried on, the immense loss of valuable food, pitied such wanton waste, and turned his attention to devising means to better economise the great staple of human food-beef. MEETING OF DIRECTORS.

The half-yearly general meeting of this Company was held yesterday -July 21st-at the London Tavern, Mr. C. S. HAYNE in the chair.

Mr. E. Ayres, the Secretary, having read the notice convening the meeting, the report, an abstract of which appears elsewhere, was taken as read. The Chairman, in moving the adoption of the Report, regretted the loss they had sustained by the death of Mr. J. B. Thomson, who had undertaken the management of the concern at a very difficult time, and he had met the difficulties in the most advantageous manner for the interests of the Company. The thanks of the Company were due to Mr. G. B. Matthew. the former representative of Her Majesty's Government at B. Ayres, for the interest he had taken in the affairs of the Company upon the death of the late manager. Mr. Crabtree, of the Great Northern Railway, on the 4th of object of Sar.
