PHOTO-DRAWINGS.

This new style of picture, introduced by Mr. S. L. Reignolds, of London, makes the finest and most effective style of Portrait known at the present day. Their purity of colouring and delicacy of tone is such, that some of the first English artists have been unable to determine whether they are Photographs, or simply and purely Water Color Drawings. The process is peculiarly applicable to the reproducten and enlargement of Card Photographs, enabling the artist to introduce accessories and backgrounds, change dressees, or alter figures; and, in fact, to make a harmonious portruit, which will be a Picture on which the eye rests with pleasure, as well as a faithful likeness.

Pegasus, a splendidly made halfbred, both from his appearance and the fame of the stable from which he came, was a decided favorite with the public. He was backed to a large amount against Porteño, and 3 to 1 was readily given on him against any other horse barring Porteno. The whole five started well, but shortly after passing the Stand Porteno took the lead, and although hard held made the running throughout. After passing the half round post the second time, Pegasus gradually diminished the distance, and here a most exciting race took place. Mr. Eccles Haigh reports:-

During the last fortnight business in the manu facturing districts has assumed a somewhat brighter appearance. Most of the makers are pretty well stocked with orders; but the increased amount of machinery now in operation, combined with its greater efficiency from continual improvements, prevents that bustle which used to ensue when the consumers had tolerable orders to work on-and hence the consumption is in reality larger than it appears.

As to wool, the supply has hithorto preponde rated over the demand, and no doubt will do so for the next six months, during which time the means the 'cheval de battarie' of the the bulk of the Colonial Wools wills rive; but stocks now on hand are by no means heavy, and there can be no doubt that we are fast approaching the time when the consumption will quite equal the production, which will put an end to the unseum on the mornings of the 3rd, 4th, deasa t nature of the business we have latterly peen accustomed to. THE PERFUME OF A HEMISS PHERE .- Throughout an area occupied by more then one hundred millions of civilized beings Murray & Lanman's Florida Water is to-day the standard perfume in society. Europe the patronago of the wealthier classes is about equally divided among a variety of toilet essences and extracts, but in North and South America this famous perfume takes precedence of all others. The causes of its great popularity may be stated in a few words. It is not a chemicai compound, but the genuine quintes sence of aromatic flowers, and for this reason its perfume never degenerates. Being free from the oils which form the basis of the French perfume it leaves no stain, and its spirituous element being perfectly pure, it is eminently refreshing and healthful.
