The SARSAPARILIENT RESOLVENT is the best remedy in the treatment of Consumption of the Lungs and Bronchitis. It purifies the blood and loosens the phlegm, so that expectoration is easy. It supplies the waste and decay of the body with new and healthy material, and repairs the emaciated body with new strength—it secures a good appetite, and checks the waste and dissolution of the lungs. A few doses in consumption will do good.

ELEEMOSYNARY MAIL SERVICE

The "free, gratis, and for nothing" mail service of the Argentine Republic continues. Yesterday the Halley took the mail bags to Montevideo, so the crisis is in a measure relieved, but the mails for Rosario and the river ports remain; perhaps to-morrow or next week, or next month, there may be a steamer. As the service is gratuitous, it is impossible to say when an occasion may offer. The Post-office is in such a fearful state, crowded from floor to ceiling with letter, papers, &c. that the clerks can with difficulty assort the letters coming in, or stow away those supposed to be going out. The state of poor Paris is nothing to the inscribed upon the countenance of every official in the establishment. Republic. We looked into the letter fame." department yesterday at 2 o'clock The clerks were serene and calm, each and all of them looked 'as if something would turn up," and turn up to propose that all the undelivered letsages therein contained published in late numbers of the London Times, but way to meet the emergency. We, equal to either fortune, offer to publish all such notices for half the cost of an Argentine postage stamp, and to forward the paper each night by a row boat to our Montevidean sentinel, the themselves are in jeopardy; and, who would refuse an effort for so praiseworthy, so noble, an object? Of all the clerks in town, and their name is legion—of all the public officials in the Plate, Heaven bless the mark, thern is not to be found a more polite, obliging body of men, than the clerks of the Post-office-patient. attentive, urbane; they stamp your letter, hand you the change in such a winning manner, that although imbued with the conviction that the department is retrograde and asleep, you separate the official from his post and recognize the "caballero" behind a mail bag. Take them all in all, the Post-office clerks are a worthy body of men, and every way deserving of higher salaries and a less shabby Post-office. The little influence which we possess in public affairs we invoked yesterday for the public, to-day we employ it'for the Post Office clerks. The establishment is, as it were, in a state of siege, Quarantine has shut the place in; the letters keep arriving, but there is no getting them out. Far beit from us to charge the Postoffice with extorting from the public, or wringing from merchants and others any higher charge than that allowed by law, but we advert to the inward postage charged on letters, for the carriage of which from Europe the country has not paid one solitary farthing. The Rental of the Post office is enormous, and fully sufficient to pay for a regular mail service, at least in the rivers. The eleemosynary system must be abandoned, a Post-office establishment which rivals almost the Custom-house in its business must not be a beggar to every ship captain, or "sending the hat round" in the Bolsa to defray the cost of carrying the mails service-and, why should the Argencall upon the whole staff of the Postoffice to resign en masse' if another begging petition is got up.

They get up a smile still, but it has a true. dash of terror in it. There is a republican party now in England. There have hitherto been only republicans; eccentric and harmless people. The new party met last night in St. James Hall. Professor Beasly, a learned historian and professor of history in the London University, took the chair. The appalling accident in Calle de Charcas a few days ago, when a house building in that street fell, killing five neons and wounding two, has caused a most painful sensation in town, and attracted renewed attention to the wretched system of house-building introduced into this country by foreign master builders, and tolerated by the authorities. The house in question came down by the run without a second's warning. It is marvellous that such accidents are not more frequent, and equally so that many new houses with gorgeous exteriors do not tumble bodily, and bury inmates, furniture, and passers-by indiscriminately. In many of the most fashionable of them the walls of the 'salas' commence to crumble away after six months occu pation, such are the worthless materials used. It is high time for the Government to seriously investigate this abuse. 'Whited sepulchres' most of the new houses in Buenos Ayres may

On Sunday it was supposed he was better, but it was the strong iron frame that in the discharge of duty had journeyed through the backwoods of the United States, ridden twenty years ago through the 'pajas' of the pampas, and travelled by night and day in times of cholera and sickness through the streets of Buenos Ayres. It was this powerful constitotion with which Providence had gitted the good man that battled with the enemy which for him had no fears. Though he believed that his end was near at hand, few looking at his apparent vigor could believe it. Even on Sunday night he was able to move through his apartment. ILLA SARMIENTO A Suburb of Cordoba. Building Lots $f.100 each. This charming suburb commands a fine view This charming suburb commands a fine view of the city of Coruoba in the low ground and the Sierras in the distance. It is proposed to estab-lish here the new water-works of the Anissacate Aqueduct as projected by the Engineer of the Province, Col. Thompson.

The air is peculiarly salubrious and invigorating and the site is destined to be one of the favorite summer-residences in the Republic. Villa Sarmiento comprises 70 cuadras (or 140 acres) half of which are already taken by English mer-chants and native families of Buence Ayres.

There are two plasss, called Colon and 25 de Mayo, and the streets are 20 yards wide. The blooks are 100x100 vares, and each lot for building is 20x50, price $ft.100.

With the growing importance of Cordoba this ocality will rise greatly in value, and the site is o well suited for country houses, coupled with the abuntanbe of lime and timber, that families car have a delightful residence, within 2 days journey of Buenos Ayres, at a mere nominal cost.
