The Standard. SATURDAY, MARCH 11, 1871. THE GOVERNMENT-HOUSE ROBBERY. DEFENCE OF THE TREASURER ROSENDE.

Our readers will remember the noise that was made last November when it was discovered, on the morning of the 3rd of that month...

"On the 3rd Nov. 1870 when the servant of the Treasury Office went to clean up the place he found that the doors and iron safe had been already opened...

"The prisoner, Rosende, declares that in his morning walk on the 3rd Nov. he did not go further into town than the corner of Calles Buen Orden and Piedad...

"My client admits that he went down town on the morning of the 2nd to buy some liquid for taking out status at the shop of Torres and Barton...

"As regards Narvaja his evidence is quite contradictory. At first he said he knew nothing, but afterwards declares that he saw Mr. Rosende a few minutes before 7 on the morning of the 3rd...

"As regards Felix O'Gorman, he says he met Rosende about 7 o'clock that morning at the corner of Potosi and Chacabuco, apparently buried in deep thought...

examination it was found that he has been very remiss from Sept. 26th 1868 down to the day of the robbery. "This count properly has nothing to do with the robbery...

"The prisoner alone possessed the double set of keys of Chubb's safe, and the agent in this city states that Messrs. Chubb always destroy the models of each key as it is made...

"Domingo Centralo proves that two or three months ago a young man of gentlemanly appearance, hair cut short, moustache and thin imperial came to the foundry...

"Whereas the law passed by the Salta Legislature on Dec. 26, 1866, imposes this tax on all wholesale houses that sell liquor...

"The Italian residents have made up their minds that the Government and Municipality of Buenos Ayres are neither competent nor willing to take any decisive action towards stemming the pestilence...

"The diamond fields were still engrossing public attention. The fund continued about the average in number and size. Captain Lucas's party have picked up 55 diamonds valued at £140,000...

the 'mayorazgo' who, after several attempts to keep the cat in the bag, disclosed the name of the real Simon Pare in the business, who turned out to be the Minister of the Interior. H. E. had ordered the staff to be kept for his gardens and quinta. The National Government has chartered four vessels to be engaged in taking immigrants who so desire, from the Ajalme here up the rivers and to the Interior, free. All new arrivals who wish to go will have the same privilege...

"The Judge and an attorney disagreed, and the late Judge brought a revolver into requisition and 'made for the attorney, who retreated to the hall with the Court in full pursuit. The Attorney stopped; the Court hung fire; the prisoners, shaking with fear, made their exit by means of the door and the window, while the jurymen, who involuntarily rose from their seats with fright, made a grand rush for the stairway, soon gained the street, and scattered in every direction..."

A strike is feared amongst the serenos of this city, who, it is said, have not been paid for two months. The workmen on one of our railway lines got an unpleasant fright on pay day last week. They were all assembled and being paid by the officials, when a cadaverous-looking man entered the office and claimed some wages. He was immediately recognised as a man who had been in the employment of the company, but had been written off the books as 'died of yellow fever' a fortnight before. The poor man then looked as if he had just risen from the grave, but is now nearly quite well.

A contemporary asserts that many doctors are leaving town through fear of the epidemic. If such be the case, let their names be published in a 'fashionable departures' column every morning. It is, no doubt, 'la mode' to cut and run just at present, and absence of body is preferred to presence of mind as an antidote to the plague; but we cannot spare the doctors just now.

BEEF-PRESERVING. NEW ENGLISH SYSTEM. Rosario, March 7th. Having received from a friend in England a prospectus of a new scheme for preserving meat, I thought a short extract might be of interest to your readers. The prospectus itself consists mainly of testimonies from private individuals and various newspapers. From the Daily Telegraph is the following:—"The method employed by Mr. Jones, the celebrated provision merchant of Botolph Claydon, London, is based upon the theory that atmospheric pressure causes water to boil at a higher temperature than it would otherwise do. The tins containing the meat are placed in a bath of chloride of calcium and water, and by the application of the principle of Torricellian vacuum the boiling operation commences at a temperature of 180 deg., which is gradually increased to 220 deg.

"The benefit of the boiling process being commenced at a comparatively low temperature is that the meat is not overcooked. Each tin has to be connected separately with the air-chest by a pipe passing into an aperture in the lid, and the connection is severed by cutting each pipe through about half an inch from the tin, and firmly compressing the portion left attached to the lid, so as to make it air-tight. "This system is now being worked under a license from the inventor, Mr. Forbes, of Aberdeen, and promises to enrich both that gentleman and Mr. Jones, who licenses his patent to him. I would not have troubled you with this but that my friend in England tells me the system is exciting some attention there, and any method of solving the problem how meat to be preserved? is of importance to this Republic. You will see that there are numerous testimonies to the success of the process in preserving meat, game, fish, &c. To authenticate my remarks I enclose the above-mentioned prospectus, and remain, Yours respectfully, H. A. B.

IRELAND. The Lord Lieutenant held his first levee for the season at Dublin Castle. There was a very numerous attendance representing all departments of the public service, the municipal bodies, the professional classes, and a fair sprinkling of the resident nobility and gentry. It was one of the largest levees ever held under a Liberal Government, many political opponents mingling with the supporters of the Ministry in a demonstration of loyal respect for the Queen's representative. The presence of a couple of Roman Catholic clergymen was noticed as a novelty, attributable to the legislation which has abolished invidious distinctions and placed the members of all religious creeds on the same level. The Bishops who formerly attended were not present, and there was but a limited number of Protestant clergymen. No dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church attended. Lord Hartington, the new Chief Secretary, has lost no time in entering upon his public duties. He arrived on Saturday, and immediately assumed
