Oron, Oct. 23, 1871. I write in sorrow and alarm to request that you will inform H. E. the Governor of the Province that the town of Oran has disappeared, nothing remaining of it but ruins.

The losses and injuries to persons are not yet known accurately, but everything is being done to discover if any persons have been crushed by the fallen houses or are beneath them.

Private letters from Dr. Julio Aguirre to his father, of the same date as Mr. Caprasco's, state that the whole town disappeared in ten seconds, not a stone remaining on a stone.

News has been received from July to the effect that the earthquake was felt there with fearful violence, and that a volcano has burst forth in eruption.

A conflict between the English Government and the Oriental Republic would inevitably entail grave consequences on the commerce of Montevideo.

The continuous depredations on the estancias of English subjects not only by the rebel army, against which reclamations were useless, but even by the Government troops.

In his interviews with the Government, the English Minister urged personally the points above stated; but from the moment of Mr. MacDonnell's arrival there arose a misunderstanding between him and the President of the Republic.

The "Chamellevic" of the Oriental Republic adheres to these rules common to diplomacy in all parts; and if foreign representatives in Montevideo were to tolerate the rigorous observance of this diplomatic etiquette, they would find themselves frequently obliged to break off relations with the country to which they are accredited.

In wishing to strictly observe the above cited rules, the Minister for Foreign Affairs made a decided false step, by subjecting foreign representatives to treatment which in Europe brings nations face to face in battle.

Further intelligence of the late disastrous earthquake in Salta was received yesterday. On the 22nd October at 11 o'clock p.m., when most of the inhabitants of the doomed town of Oran had retired to their houses, the first shock was felt.

House, and himself collect the duties, and to avoid complications, see that obligations on foreign loans were duly attended to.

THE ALSINA BANQUET IN CORDOBA. PROFESSOR GOULD'S SPEECH. It is with great pleasure, gentlemen, that I find myself here this evening, and permitted not only to join with you in the welcome to our distinguished guest, but also to share the satisfaction which, as an Argentine citizen and the second magistrate of the republic, he cannot fail to experience in witnessing the wonderful success of the great national undertaking to which we owe the honor of his visit.

tramped again half a league from the Salafu river, and remained there till next morning, as Mr. Crawford feared it would be too late by the time we got through the mud of the pass if we pushed on at once. Next day we were very fine, and we passed the river without difficulty, and headquarters reached Bragado at three o'clock in the afternoon.
