RAILWAY FIGURES. It is a significant fact that few people in B. Ayres have any stock in the local railways, and it we want to have a fair appreciation of their value and progress we must not consult Argentine congressmen or editors, but the London capitalists and English papers.

merit the love and esteem of his people by going through the city hospitals, and eight extra infirmaries for yellow fever, visiting the patients.

The picture-shops have lifelike portraits of the new President, Jose Ellauri, who is a good-looking man of five-and-thirty, with an expression of open-dealing which, I believe, accords with his general character.

Seven hundred immigrants, including German and English settlers, have been sent outside, so as to avoid risk of the fever. Magistrate the preparatory to Carnival are such that you would never imagine we had Yellow Fever for a guest among us, and many question the propriety of holding Carnival under such painful circumstances.

The Bishop of Rio Janeiro is rapidly recovering from an attack he had of the prevailing fever. The convent of St. Anthony has been taken by Government for a hospital.

The Republic continues to attack Baron Maua about secret service money as M.Video in 1851. The editor Canha is a personal enemy of Maua; they had a lawsuit at B. Ayres which Maua won.

Three hundred miles of narrow-gauge railway have now been conceded in the Province of San Paulo, and 120 miles are actually in construction.

Yesterday was the fifth anniversary of the murder of General Flores: the family and a number of friends attended funeral obsequies on the occasion.

Our American cousins have as much as all the rest of the world collectively, but no country at all comes up to England in proportion to her size except the little kingdom of Belgium.

Visitors and estancieros are flocking into town for Carnival. The hotels are full, and among the guests at the Oriental are ex-Governor Cabal, of Santa Fe; Mr. Mavero, of B. Ayres, and sundry railway and tramway people.

English physicians are beginning to recommend the River Plate as they used to do Madeira, and people pick up health here so rapidly that they form golden opinions of our climate, as it deserves.

Not a blessed paper in town remembers George Washington's birthday but the STANDARD. South American republicanism is evidently not "bred in the bone."

There seems to be a fatality attached to the Northern Railway; another stoppage occurred on Friday. The engine "Progreso" started with a train from the Tigre at 3.20 p.m. of 25 de Mayo.

The immediate result of the Calvo trial has been the withdrawal of the Figuieras Railway, although it had been launched with great success.

The news from Rio about the fever is still shabby in the extreme. Fifty-one deaths a day from yellow fever alone, and other diseases of a fatal kind, such as typhus fever, unpleasantly life.

The first stone of the Hypothecary Bank was laid in Calle San Martin, opposite Standard Court, on Friday. We had intended to be present, but were running about town looking for our Montevidean advices while part of the ceremony was going on, and when we returned the row at the Bull-ring had auction in our patio was so tremendous that we could not hear Mr. Balbin's speech across the street, though we saw him standing on a ladder, with a trowel in one hand and a bucket of mortar in the other, evidently from the expression of his face making a stunning speech.

Two young donkeys at Lima lately fought a duel about a girl. The favored swain had one of his optics put out, and 'la novia' immediately transferred her affections to the conqueror, oblivious of the rule that, if a gentleman loses an eye in a lady's service, she is obliged to marry him. The two-eyed fellow, by last accounts, was making splendid running with the fair one, and Polyphemus was deliberating on the best method of 'felo de se.'

The Spanish papers announce that the Prince of the Asturias, the son of the ex-Queen of Spain, is pursuing his studies of the Josephine at Vienna. It will be remembered that His Highness was a fast friend of the Prince Imperial at Paris; and he has now his way into the affection of the eldest son of the Emperor of Austria. The Archduke Rudolf and he are constant playmates.

Carlotta Patti had a narrow escape lately of hearing the knell that once again a time-gunned Duncan to Heaton or to Tiber. She was travelling on a railway in Georgia, U.S., when a fire-class accident occurred. Half her fellow-travellers were roughly hewn, but Carlotta and her troupe escaped unscathed, Providence deferring the shaping of their ends till another occasion.

The Health Commission are beafling up the 'convencillos.' There is a strong impression, in town that these establishments are just as filthy and overcrowded as ever they were.

A new contract has been made with the caterer to the luzzareto at Esmeralda. It is said he is bound over to give 'table grub' and more of it than his predecessors could manage.

We received English papers to 23rd Jan. by the Liffey. As we published dates to 29th several days ago, we consign them to the waste-paper heap.

Thanks to the energy of Mr. Michael Uribealra (this seems a Welsh name) Vice Lord Mayor, some of the streets were swept for Carnival. Mr. U. has also issued a number of edicts that do him great credit, and would be of infinite benefit to the public if there was the remotest probability in creation of their being carried out.

A terrible scene occurred with the wild beasts at the burning of Barnum's Museum in New York. It seems from the account that there were about 100 animals caged in the building, and as the fire and heat increased they gradually became excited. The bears and tigers showed most fear, but it was a fear in which rage was strongly developed.

The elephants were more composed. There were two full-grown female elephants and one baby elephant. The mother and the old one drew near together, while the old one put her trunk round the young one's body, but the third elephant gave itself up to despair, and, falling down, refused to move; it was accordingly burnt, while the other two were led out by the keepers. Ten camels also lay down on their knees, and, refusing to move, perished in the flames. The monkeys and ostriches showed great signs of fear, and it was found impossible to extricate them from their cages.
