THE MAGELLAN MAILS. HENRY V. OF FRANCE. The following is a copy of the new Constitution to be proclaimed in France.

1. Civil liberty. 2. Religious liberty. 3. Liberty of the press. 4. The free access of all French citizens to all civil and military functions.

Now there cannot be any doubt for any impartial mind that the above conditions are those on which Constitutional Government is founded.

The Biel entered port yesterday morning. She kindly brought up the Magellan's mails. The news being important our go-ahead neighbours at Montevideo of course managed that there should be no steamer for Buenos Ayres on Thursday evening.

We intend publishing to-morrow some very interesting memoirs about Buenos Ayres in the 17th century. They will make our readers laugh, and laughing is healthy.

The Government Oficina de Trabajos placed 720 persons in good situations, and employments during the month of October. This speaks volumes for the utility of the institution and the energy of its popular manager Mr. Fred. Gowland.

ARTIFICIAL GUANO. La Manuelita, Moran, Nov. 19th.

To the Editors of the STANDARD, Gentlemen.

Complying with your suggestion for me to exhibit samples of the Saladero guano, for which the Nat. Government has granted me a patent as inventor, I hasten to send you herewith two glass cases containing said guano, begging you will place them on exhibition in your office.

The samples which I sent to London were subjected to close analysis, and showed 21 per cent of moisture; nevertheless they realized from 8 to 10 pounds sterling per ton.

A mercantile house in London authorizes me to advance 245fts. (say 45) a ton on all artificial guano certified by me, to any parties producing same.
