LATEST FROM ENGLAND. London papers of Nov. 24th have the following news—

A fall of 3 shillings per ton has taken place in coal, as was anticipated for some days.

Fears of a famine in Bengal are on the increase, and the Indian Executive is buying large quantities of rice to send to the distressed districts.

Mr. Goschen's speech on Art Education has been highly spoken of in all circles.

The Home-rule meeting at Rotunda, in Dublin, was attended by several members of Parliament who previously held aloof from the movement as they were opposed to an Independent Parliament.

It is now resolved to ask merely for a local Legislature for Irish questions, and continue to send Members to the Imperial Parliament at Westminster.

The recent bush fighting has rendered the position of the Ashantees critical. With the Wassas guarding the Prai, their only chance of retreat is direct northwards, and even in that direction they may meet with resistance.

Glover had got a powerful force at Aera, and has no doubt ere this started on his expedition up the Volta, and he will, it is hoped, be able to intercept the retreating invaders.

Grave dissatisfaction is felt at Berlin at the recent course of events in France; a seven years military Dictatorship anguring ill for the continuance of peace in Europe. The Prussian Government is also displeased at the neglect of the French authorities to ensure the Bishop of Nancy for his inflammatory pastoral.

Intelligence has been received in Madrid by telegraph from the Commander-in-chief of the besieging forces at Cartagena, to the effect that the batteries are being worked with satisfactory results, and that shells are now sent inside the walls. The military have been withdrawn from the bombarded fortresses, which are now manned by convicts. Contreras and Galvez are now the sole rulers in Cartagena, all the other military leaders having been arrested. A formidable and determined plot has been discovered.

Tweed, of Tammany ring notoriety, has been sentenced to twelve years imprisonment in the New York Penitentiary, and has been ordered to pay a fine of $12,750.

Reports published in New York, on Saturday, state that it has been determined in a Cabinet Council at Washington to send an ultimatum to Spain demanding the abolition of slavery in Cuba; the restitution of the Virginias, together with the survivors of her crew and passengers; the delivery of the persons responsible for the Santiago executions; an apology to the U. States; and payment of damages.

Mr. Disraeli, in the Glasgow City Hall, on Saturday afternoon, received the address of the local Conservative Association, and replied to it in a speech of an hour and a quarter, making many points that were taken up with sympathetic promptitude by the large and enthusiastic assembly. The chairman on the occasion was Mr. Baird, of Auchmeddon, who, political considerations apart, is now one of the most popular men in the north, as a consequence of his recent princely gift to the Church of Scotland.

It is stated by the Paris Monitor that the Comte de Chambord has been for the last week in France, and that he has seen a number of his friends. In the recent crisis he left his partisans free to vote as they thought fit.

It is announced from Madrid that Señor Figueras left there yesterday for London on a diplomatic mission connected with the Cuban question; and also to carry out some financial negotiations. Owing to the steps taken by Mr. Layard, Gen. Sickles, the American Minister in Madrid, has suspended his preparations for departure.

The Dublin Exhibition was finally closed last night with a grand musical performance of Handel's Coronation Anthem, Mozart's Mass in C, and a cantata specially written for the occasion by Dr. Waller, and set to music by Sir Robert Stewart. Madame Pauline Rita, Mr. Pearson, and Mr. Wm. sang the solos, and the choruses were rendered by an orchestra of 400 performers. At the close cheers were given for Sir Arthur and Mr. Cecil Guinness, Sir Edward Lee, and Mr. Emden. An immense number of people visited the building during the day, and it was not cleared till 11 o'clock. Great regret is expressed at the closing of the Exhibition.

On Saturday evening, a farewell dinner was given at Willis's Rooms, by the members of the Oxford Circuit, to Mr. Henry James, on his promotion to the office of Attorney-General. Mr. Huddleston, Q.C., leader of the circuit, was the chairman; and he was supported by Lord Romilly, Master of the Rolls, and Baron Pigott, both old members.

Yesterday Mr. Disraeli attended Divine service in the Glasgow University chapel. He wore his rectorial robes, and took his seat on the right of the pulpit, which was occupied by Principal Caird, who preached the sermon.

The idea is mooted of submitting the attain of the Virginias to the arbitration of a great Power, probably Germany.

Mr. Baring, the head of the great mercantile house of Baring Brothers & Co., in Bishopsgate-street, died at Bournemouth on Tuesday last, the 18th inst., having completed his 74th year. His health had been feeble for some time, and it is more than two years since he was compelled to relinquish an active part in the management of the vast transactions of which his house is the centre. The founder of the mercantile house was Francis Baring, of Larkbeer, in the county of Devon. In 1810 he was succeeded by his eldest son, Sir Thomas Baring, who had as a partner his next brother, Alexander Baring, member for the City of London, the presenter, in 1820, of the famous "Merchants' Petition" in favour of Free Trade, the negotiator of the Boundary Treaty with America which bears his name, and who was in 1835 raised to the peerage as Lord Ashburton. Sir Thomas Baring was succeeded in the title in 1845 by his eldest son, Sir Francis Thornhill Baring, who, in 1866 was created Lord Northbrook, and his son is now Governor-General of India. Thomas Baring, whose death we now record, was born September 7th, 1769. After the usual course of education at Winchester College he joined the banking-house of Hope & Co., at Amsterdam, and remained with them till 1828, when, in company with Joshua Bates and John Baring, he entered the London house. His eminent capacity for business soon made him a leading member of the partnership. It was in the front rank of the great European firms concerned in the negotiation of loans and advances to foreign States. Mr. Baring enlarged the influence of the house, and had the satisfaction of seeing Baring Brothers & Co. become more and more established as a centre of international finance. For a long period of years he was chairman of Lloyd's. He was a director of the Bank of England from 1848 to 1867. His politics were Conservative, but with a large infusion of independence and liberality. In March, 1852, Lord Derby pressed upon him the office of Chancellor of the Exchequer—an office which Mr. Baring declined, preferring his sphere of quiet usefulness as a member of the mercantile body. It is also true that, at least on one occasion, he had the opportunity of becoming a peer, if he had so desired. The death of Mr. Baring removes an influence and a presence from the City and the House of Commons which will not be soon forgotten.

The treaty between Her Majesty and the Emperor of Brazil for the extradition of criminals was published in full in Friday's Gazette. It will come into force, agreeably to the provisions of the Extradition Acts, on December 1. The Treaty includes among the offences for which extradition can be demanded on either side murder and the attempt to murder. The other crimes referred to in the Treaty are manslaughter, making or uttering counterfeit money, forgery, embezzlement, false pretences, crimes by bankrupts in respect of bankruptcy, statutory crimes by bailiffs, bankers &c, rape, abduction, child stealing, house breaking, arson, robbery with violence, piracy under the law of nations, destroying a vessel at sea or the attempt, grave assaults on ship board, conspiracy to revolt on ship-board. It will be observed that piracy by the law of nations is mentioned in this convention, though omitted from other modern treaties. The usual articles provide for procedure, demand that sufficient evidence to justify extradition be given within two months of the arrest; that the claim shall be barred by what in the country of refuge is held sufficient lapse of time; that political offences are excluded, and that, except where naturalization has followed the crime, no British subject shall be rendered up by Great Britain, nor Brazilian by Brazil. The high contracting parties renounce all claims against each other for expenses, and the Queen engages that the stipulations of the Treaty shall apply to the Colonies. The clause on the latter head varies from the common form. It runs as follows:—As Her Britannic Majesty has the power to adopt special arrangements in the Colonies and Possessions respecting the delivering up of delinquents, Her Majesty will facilitate the reclamations of Brazil in this respect as far as may be possible, with due regard, however, to the provisions of this Treaty.—The negotiators of the Treaty were—for England, Mr. George Buckley Mathew, C. B., and for Brazil, the Marquis de St. Vicente, Counsellor of State, Senator and Grandee.

The Government of Marshal MacMahon has won a complete victory. The proposals designed by himself and his adherents have been carried by large majorities, varying from 30 to 68; the Assembly has suspended its sittings, and in accordance with his promise, the Duc de Broglie's Ministry has resigned. The whole business was wound up with great rapidity.

The first succession to a German throne since the establishment of the Empire will be solemnised in the coronation of the King of Saxony and of his Queen, an event which, it is generally hoped, will be graced by the presence of the Emperor William.

Official circles at Washington still hold the belief that war with Spain will be averted. At Baltimore a mass meeting has passed a resolution of address, for the occupation of Cuba. The army in that island is now an effective force of 54,000 men.

A bill was filed in the Vice-Chancellor's Court by the Brazilian Minister to restrain the sale of some valuable works of art, taken in execution at the residence of Prince Louis de Bourbon, Count of Aquila, and his wife Januaria de Braganza, sister of the Emperor of Brazil, under a judgment obtained by Jackson and Graham, for a debt incurred in the ordinary course of their business. A demurrer was put in, which the Vice-Chancellor allowed, saying at the same time that the bill was one which deserved no support, as it was filed for the purpose of depriving honest creditors of debts justly due to them.

The bill for the judicial organisation of the Empire of Germany is wonderfully sweeping. It abolishes trial by jury, the high courts of minor States, and the ecclesiastical jurisdiction over marriage. A public minister is to be appointed to every court of justice, excepting those courts which are purely commercial; and a High Court of Cassation is projected, the locality of which, it is supposed, will be Leipsic.

From St. Petersburg we learn that the Neva is quite frozen over, and that a heavy fall of snow had set in.

MR. ASHBURY OF THE EOTHEN.

This spirited yachtsman leaves our shores to-day, with the promise of returning if possible next year, to see something more of the River Plate and extend his trip to the West Coast.

Yesterday he entertained a large party on board the Eothen, and to-day another company of visitors is invited. He has formed a very flattering opinion of B. Ayres, and his speech at the Chascomus dinner on Christmas eve was so much to the point that we have great pleasure in giving it to our readers.

He said—Gentlemen, in returning you my best thanks for the honor you have done me in drinking my health I beg to assure you that I regret my brief stay in B. Ayres will not allow me to acknowledge in suitable manner the hospitalities I have received here from my countrymen. But I take with me the pleasant recollection of this fine country, with its superb climate, progressive spirit and increasing commerce. As an Englishman I am proud to see my countrymen occupy so prominent a place, and so many great enterprises bearing the stamp of English capital, science and management. Foremost I may point to this Southern Railway. Although I can hardly call myself a railway man there is perhaps no one in England more largely connected than I am with railways in the four quarters of the Globe. Hence I find myself at home among railway men and on railway matters; and much and widely as I have travelled there is no country which seems to me to offer a finer field than this for railway enterprise. The work is comparatively easy, the undeveloped resources of the country boundless, the trade and population growing with a rapidity of which we have little notion in England. Under these circumstances you need not wonder if I tell my friends in London that this is the place for them to invest their money, and as regards the friends I now see around me I sincerely hope, whether or not I come again to Buenos Ayres, to see you at Grosvenor Square whenever business or pleasure recall you to England.

Mr. Ashbury having sat down the company afterwards drank "The Land we live in," and wound up by singing God save the Queen.

We take from the Anglo-Brazilian Times the following—

"On the 8th of November the splendid steam yacht Eothen arrived at Rio de Janeiro and immediately excited great attention, it being known that she belonged to Mr. James Ashbury, the owner of the famous Cambria, which won the notable Transatlantic Race with the Dauntless, the crack schooner of the New York Club.

"During his stay in Brazilian waters, at Pernambuco and Bahia as well as at Rio, Mr. Ashbury received all visitors with the thorough cordiality of an English gentleman and a representative Yachtsman, and entertained them most sumptuously on board the Eothen. A picnic which he gave on board, on the eve of his leaving Rio, was a most pleasant gathering, and amongst the guests were the American, French and Brazilian Admirals, and several other persons of high distinction. In fact, the Yacht Clubs of England could not have had a more worthy representative than Mr. Ashbury.

"On the 25th of November H. M. the Emperor did Mr. Ashbury the honor of inspecting his yacht, and spent nearly two hours on board. His Majesty's visit was of a strictly private nature, Mr. Buckley Mathew being the only person invited to meet him.

"His Majesty afterwards sent to Mr. Ashbury his photograph, in large cabinet size, bearing the following inscription:—

"As remembrance of my visit on board the Eothen 25th November 1873."

"We trust that the Eothen is the precursor of many British and North American yachts in our beautiful harbor. In no other part of the world are more beautiful scenes of nature to be found than in Brazil, and it is a matter of surprise that they have not been more generally visited by Yachting men and tourists."

LOSS OF THE FLAMSTEED.

The Ebro brings particulars of the loss of this fine steamer of Lamport and Holt's which left Lisbon on Nov. 18th and touched at Madeira on the 21st. She sighted on the 24th, off the Canaries B. M. Ironclad Bellerophon, which signalled to her for news or papers from Europe. The captain of the Flamsteed lowered a boat with London papers, to send aboard the ironclad, and as a high sea was running took the boat in tow in direction of the Bellerophon. When near enough to speak from one ship to another without trumpet the ironclad made a manoeuvre to cross the Flamsteed's bows, and was driven against her by the tide, opening a big hole with her spur. For seven hours the crew and divers of the Bellerophon strove to repair the damage, but in vain, for the Flamsteed sunk after the passengers, crew, mails, baggage &c. had been transferred to the Bellerophon, which conveyed them to St. Vincent's. From this latter port the Ebro brought 11 of the passengers and the mails. The Bellerophon carries 15 heavy guns, and her tonnage is 1,270 tons.

THE NEW COMANDANTES.

Beneath is a list of the new Commandantes for the year 1874; although unimportant to the general reading public, it must interest our country readers. We scan the list with undisguised satisfaction, since the names thereon inspire full confidence in the peace of the camp for the ensuing year. Not in the long string of names do we detect a single warrior, whilst the pastoral and commercial proclivities of the new commanders engender the belief that at least in the camps of Buenos Ayres the sword is virtually turned into the sickle or the sheep-shears. From Alpha to Omega, our new commanders are quiet, decent people; here and there we note friends who never in their lives drew a sword or cocked a revolver, but their power now, "there is none to dispute." The power of this country is in their keeping; and if at the close of the new year their scabbards are still in their right places and their swords as rusty as an iron mogn, then shall we thank them for their time of office and pass their names, spelt by the unlettered muse, to archives that to the present have remained unoccupied.

PARIS LETTER.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

Nov. 17.

The Republicans, that is to say France patriotic, continue to display a growing irritation at the tantalizing obstructiveness of the royalists; they cannot be blamed for this, though wise-dom and policy council to maintain a little longer the expectant attitude. They must not commence to faint in the day of adversity. The idea is working itself into the mind of the country that a sound system of laws is better than the ten years personality of a President, and that MacMahon can neither be made a King nor an Emperor, nor armed with powers superior to a Constitution, nor in opposition to the National will. After waiting night three years in the present undefined form of Government, which in its day did good service, but at present is neither fish nor flesh, nor good red-herring, the people can afford to submit for three months more till a constitution be calmly discussed and drafted. It is only the establishing of a Dictatorship for ten years or for eternity, for in practical language the terms are synonymous in the confiscation of individual public liberties, that royalists deem twenty-four hours sufficient to effect. Thiers is silently and effectually playing the trump cards for the Republic; his influence is already felt on MacMahon, who is not disinclined to convolve the electors to fill up all present vacancies for the Assembly; this act would restore him some of his lost popularity, and enable the people to forget he is not a lover of the Republic; he may now become so, as Henri V. like other pretenders is down among the dead men, and France says, there let them lie. The Republicans of all shades have united their colors to the mast: to end the provisional; to found the Republic; the provisional; to found the Republic; to secure it by sagacious laws to which MacMahon down to the humblest citizen must equally subscribe. The Bonapartists in face of the possibility that the Republicans as a last resort would dissolve the Assembly, would ap-deal to the country, are inclined to sneak out of their cry. Thiers predicted they would, as that the royalists, even before them.

The Republicans have only to conquer eight more votes in the Assembly—there are eleven vacancies to fill up. The Royalists have, on the other hand, to conquer—France. Perhaps for the first time in history, we have the spectacle of a Ministry not defending a President, but sheltering itself behind him; both it is believed, intend to retire together, or live on together. If the former occurs, the nation will not disappear with the calamity, nor will the end of the world arrive. Trade, commerce, industry, men of sense and of sympathy with crowds out of work, are disgusted with these successions of parliamentary malices and helplessness. The present discussion should end them. The nation has no objection to accept MacMahon, if it be guaranteed the Republic and without further waiting. Such are the ideas and feelings that animate the grand majority in the country.

In the political history of no nation was ever witnessed such downright rottenness and shamefulness in the conduct of public men as now reign. Nothing in the way of conscience exists, and the follies of one day are only surpassed by the passions of the next. It seems that men take a pride in being inconsistent, and consider it patriotic to break in the evening what they promised in the morning. Were they but gifted with the power, or rather did they exercise the power, of seeing themselves as others see them, they might recoil before the ulcers so freely exposed. And yet these blind leaders of the blind will presume to anathematize Communists, whose faults or whose crimes lay in being obstinate in extreme doctrines. 'Tis a mad world, my masters!

The severest blow the Bazaine trial has yet received is the announcement by some journals that for the future they will only notice it whenever anything important takes place, and this just when the shady half of the trial has only been reached. Such a collapse will kill the Duc d'Aumale, who couched upon having the eyes of the universe upon him till the fudging of the court was delivered. The Duke is also deeply affected at the failure to bring Henri V. to the throne, and which has only secured the suicide of Orleansism, and its burial at the four cross-roads with a stake driven through it by public contempt. MacMahon's failure of memory has also produced its effect.

As it is the fashion in France for every one who can to claim damages against the Government, where such can be shown, Bazaine ought to plead for compensation for the attacks on his character. Were the French given to the weakness of presenting one another with pieces of plate—where the receiver so often contributes the lion's share to the expense, as in the case of other nations—they could find in Bazaine's position grounds for recompense, as he has been the unconscious means of vividly showing up the disorganisation as well as the demoralisation of the army.

Paris does not lack amusements, nor crowds to witness them. In addition to the two-headed nightingale (one of the wandering Christy's original minstrels, perhaps) we have no less than eight lions, which permit their tamer to make himself at home among them. It is in a kind of Alhambra this ferocious exhibition takes place. Disappointment is of course general that the tamer has not as yet been devoured. Metra is occupied with the composition, 'The Lions' Quadrille,' and which may be looked forward to as a success. The Infants' Exhibition opened yesterday. It was a very so-so affair; but then the exhibitors seem to be only occupied taking possession of their space, and there is no reason to expect they will be prevented from helping themselves to such as largely as they please, as the 'Show' comes off in the nave of the Palace of Industry in the Champs Elysees. The day was too cold for many children, and besides the glories of the toy world were not revealed. Were the poor makers of these allowed free space, they might be enabled to gain a living for a few months. With this Babies' Show perhaps the Era of Exhibitions, like that of Revolutions, is closed. One of the chief attractions was some three bands of music playing at the same time, and the noise sent the children into raptures. The finale of an orchestra gave an overture of nursery rhymes, where 'sou's' trumpets, penny whistles, 'mirlitons' and rattles were introduced with amusing effect. At the reading of the inaugural address the usual mutual-admiration clauses were introduced; the complimentary 'passage to the reigning dynasty' was the only one not appended. Only think of politics in Babydom!

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Christmas Day brought us three days later from Europe per

The solemn ceremony of swearing in the new Constitution came off in Plaza Victoria on Christmas Day. It was as solemn, as short and as sharp as any one could desire, thanks to the tropical sun, which poured its rays on the chief actors in the ceremony and the few who collected to look at them.

After the swearing came a Te Deum, and after that a tea meeting at the Municipality. In desperately hot weather there is no 'refresco' so delicious and healthy as cold Bohea; it beats brandy and water, champagne, claret cup, or even Hesperidina legitimo.

The attendance at the swearing was mainly of ladies, all 'decoletes' to a bewildering extent. A fashionable wedding came off at the Scotch church on Wednesday, when Mr. John Campbell, of the leading English firm Barbours, Barclay & Co., led the beautiful Miss Mary Robson to the altar of Hymen.

The ceremony was performed by the Scotch chaplain, the Revd. James Smith, before a select circle of friends. Yesterday was the hottest day of the season; we are afraid to mention the height the STANDARD thermometer reached at noon, lest our subscribers should feel blistered.

The intense swearing all over the province on Thursday is supposed to have had something to do with the rise in the temperature. 'On dit' that H. E. the President of the Republic has taken a suite of rooms at the Hotel Anglo-Argentina at Flores, for the summer.

We regret to hear that a fire broke out on Wednesday at the President's island residence at Carapachay, and made considerable havoc with the preparations for the New Year's Day reception which His Excellency intends to hold there.

Justice is to be done. The murderers of poor Mr. Southam and his daughter have been condemned to death by the Santa Fe Courts. It will be a source of satisfaction to all well-wishers of the Republic to find that outraged humanity and Law have been vindicated in this deplorable case.

The amount of swearing done at Flores on Wednesday and Thursday was enough to make the hair stand. It began on Wednesday night with the inauguration of the new theatre, when there was a tremendous push for places, and swearing in proportion.

Then came the swearing of the Constitution, and the tramway carried 14,000 people from town to join it. What the sweating was, therefore, be more easily imagined than described. At night it rose to a fearful pitch in consequence of the rush for places in the cars going towards, and the delays, crowding and other attendant miseries.

The cars ran to town well into the night, and not even a stable boy connected with the tramway got a wink of sleep, which, of course, produced more swearing. Even the horses looked as if they were swearing mentally, and the mules, if kicking and buck jumping mean anything, swore from morn till dewy eve.

Between plum pudding and swearing Christmas Day was a hard one for Buenos Ayreans, and the whole community were miserably bilious countenances yesterday. The apothecaries did a roaring business all day.

The bathman again, by all that's d—testable! This irrepressible neighbor started a young chimney yesterday, which vomits smoke ten times more foul than the old one. What do you say to this, my Lord Mayor?

The Rev. James Smith, the much esteemed Scotch pastor, will perform divine service on Monday next, at the Livingstone estancia, near Lobos. We are most happy to learn that Dr Octavio Garrigos, the distinguished President of the National Chamber of Deputies, is rapidly recovering from his recent attack of gastric fever.

We have to return our warmest thanks to Mr. Hesperidina Bagley for a munificent Christmas Box, a case of his inimitable liqueur, now the everyday drink of civilized Humanity. Mr. Bagley's present comes at a critical time. The cellar has been represented by Molly Thompson's initials for such a long time that we almost despaired of ever seeing it full again; and a dry cellar this weather is the reverse of a joke. We thank you, Mr. B. May you frustrate the knavish tricks of all your enemies, for we agree with Phillips that 'nothing can be meaner than to forge Hesperidina.'

In our last issue one of our contributors which given to boating made us say that there were 190 gentlemen present and 16 members enrolled at the meeting of the Boat Club on Tuesday. By cutting off the hundred in each case the figures will be correct. The Cuzco and Tycho Brache's passengers will be out of quarantine to-day. We congratulate them. Quarantine under the best auspices is the essence of misery; but in this blessed Plate a week of it is sufficient atonement for the sins of a life time.

of the Republic that Caraballo has been whipped again, that Jordan is making for the river to embark, and that Customs officers may be sent up at once to the ports. The rebels intended to sack Nogoya, but the victorious War Minister was too quick for them. The annual examinations at the French Convent come off to-day. The French Sisters have always played a noble and prominent part in the education of youth, and in all good works in Buenos Ayres. Who can forget the heroic devotion of these ladies during the Plague?

A terrible fire broke out in the stables in Calle San Martin, opposite the Catalinas Convent, on Wednesday night. A number of good horses were burned to death and crushed by the falling debris. The Bomberos were on the spot, and succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading.

We heard of a serious accident happening to one of our countrymen yesterday. He was run over by a carriage which was driving very fast at the time. The wheels passed over the pit of his stomach, causing very serious injuries. His thumb was also injured that an amputation had to be performed. We understand that he is in a critical state.

A wealthy subscriber at Salta sends us an account of a frightful murder committed on Mr. Ham's camp. This appalling crime, of which a promising young Irishman named Mathew Pierce has been the victim, is terrible evidence of the insecurity of life and property even in our most thickly populated camp districts. Particulars to-morrow.

The reports about cholera yesterday were encouraging: not a single fresh case, and all the sick recovering. This is cheering. Doctors despairing, apothecaries thriving.

Our English contemporary gives an enigma—Why is the STANDARD like Mount Vesuvius? A lady-subscriber sends us the reply—"Because it's so hard to extinguish."

We observe in the Tribuna of Thursday an auctioneering advertisement with the heading "Delirium Tremens". There is no accounting for tastes, but our contemporary should not, in our opinion, allow any auctioneer to band in an advertisement, or article with such a heading.

There has been a fiasco at the San Fernando Canal. The Dredge, and the barges and everything else has touched bottom. The Dredge is stuck in the mud, and any of the stuff it scooped up and threw into the barges immediately went back to the bottom with them. Here's a pretty go.

A shed at the famous Agua Prat factory on the beach took fire yesterday, and blazed for an hour. Damage slight. A kerosene can blew up sky high and fired the shed.

We received West Coast and Central American papers yesterday. There is nothing in the former. From the latter we learn that President Neira had attempted a 'coup d'etat', failed, and was kicked out instantly, a Colonel Espinosa chasing him with a cocked pistol and making it decidedly unpleasant for H.E. There is not much fighting going on for the moment amongst the C.A. Republics, but they are abusing each other like pickpockets. The Star gives a terrible account of the massacre at Cuba. The Virginian victims were driven in vassara carts to the Cabildo, and there shot down like dogs; the marines then fell on them with their musket-butts and bayonets, dashing their brains about the street. Young Cespedes, a lad of 16, was most brutally butchered. The commander of the Niobe demanded a fair trial for the British captives, but was told the Virginian was a pirate, and he had no right to intercede. Sixteen little boys (Jamaicans) of only 14 years of age were amongst the slaughtered. The remains of Cespedes, Ryan, General Varona and Captain Fry were thrown into a ditch, and several of the members of their bodies were left lying about unburied. The above horrible details are obtained from Mr. Crompton, agent of the West India and Panama Cable. They are truly awful.

There was nothing done in National Bonds to-day, but buyers are offering freely; there are no sales, and the rate may be quoted at 80. Holders say that the amortization this quarter will be $3. The stock rates very stiff, and we heard to-day that another remittance of Bonds will go forward per Ebro.

The Cedula market rules about the same, if anything a shade weaker. The sales to day were as follows: For cash $20,000 80 1/2; do 2,000 80 1/2; do 27th 20,000 87; do 28th 20,000 87; do 29th 45,000 80 1/2; do 30th 45,000 80 1/2; do 31st 45,000 80 1/2; do 1st 10,000 87;
