ON 'CHANGE.

The stock market ruled very flat today, and we were tried to be pushed up but they gave way. The market was thought to be the immediate cause of the general stagnation in the market...

The instruments have remained in good order through the year, and have maintained their positions with as much steadiness as could be reasonably expected.

Valuable gifts of books have been received from the National Observatories of Russia, England, and the United States. The Smithsonian Institution has also favored us with a second set of its "Contributions to Knowledge."

Money ruled easier today, all the banks discounting at 4 and 1 per cent. The Provincial Bank 8 millions asked and granted. Speculation is being done on Friday to reduce interest rates from 1st March and amortization 5 per cent.

As intimated in my previous report, the inferior quality of those parts of our buildings, which were entrusted to the original contractor, has called for frequent repairs. I believe that most of these defects have now been remedied, so far as is possible.

The Provincial Bank meeting today a very important measure was brought before the Board, namely, that henceforward no discounts be allowed except on the application of the party himself or his broker, who must first be registered in the books of the bank as a bank broker.

The want of water will probably always be a source of embarrassment and the endeavor to supply it attend with considerable trouble. The elevation of the Observatory above the level of the canal from which the water is taken is about thirty-two meters, and the lateral distance, somewhat more than 250 meters.

The above figures are really most important. The growth of the stamp paper is wonderful, whilst the falling-off of the Saladero tax, Barraca Bridge, &c., is also significant. As the Province truly remarks, the gains of the Provincial Bank for one year are greater than the whole total revenue of the Province.
