THE STANDARD.

"Nil falsi audeam, nil veri non audeam dicere."—Cicero.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1862.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

THE prosecution by Cam. Escola seems to have miscarried: at least we hear nothing of it. As it was concocted in the Tribuna office, the only object was, probably, to attack the STANDARD, and now that one of our leading merchants turns up as guarantee, we expect it will die of inanition like the Guardia Monte accusation.

The calle Larga of Barracas was impassable after Tuesday's rain, since neither Municipality nor Ministry heed the repeated complaints on this muddy subject. Possibly they are waiting for the Chascomus railway to solve the question.

The Rev. Mr. Fergusson, new Scotch chaplain for Chascomus, favored us yesterday with a visit: he seems favorably impressed with his first ideas of Buenos Aires and will, no doubt, be cordially welcomed by his parishioners.

We call attention to an advertisement, of to-day, requiring a medianero in cotton-planting: this is a new item, which we may regard as the first-fruits of our [labours] in this particular.

[A] certain brewer is suspected of [hav]ing given employment to so[me] of Mr. Ascasubi's Frenchmen [illegible] some valiant officers have [bee]n heard to threaten him in professional terms.

"Our absent friend" still afflicts us with literary [efforts], almost as stupid as Sr Jordan's geography: neither will serve for a text-book in our University, but both have the merit of originality.

Another of our messengers has vanished, and for two days our readers, of the Northern section, have received their papers irregularly. Patience! Within a couple of months we shall be on a better footing; with steam-press, new type, and proper messengers the STANDARD will not be behind its brethren.

The Ocean Circus is positively leaving for Montevideo, although some believed that the unaccountable termination of performances, in the face of crowded houses, was a dodge, got up to cause sensation. The "Indigena" will scarcely be very successful in the sister-city, if Hiram's ex[hibition] be simultaneous with that stupid production.

Consul Hutchinson of Rosario will shortly receive a supply of cotton-seed, gins, etc, from Manchester, being thus enabled to make an active and beneficial opposition to us, in this idea.

Mr Rickard's project to bring out some Irish farmers to San Juan is mentioned, as a State measure, in the Journal of that province; but it is doubted whether any sons of the Green Isle will consent to try their fortunes in that Ultima Thule.

M. Cavenago has nearly concluded his treatise on cotton-planting. He is encharged by the Minister of the Interior to distribute 2 cwt. of seed which we have promised to the Government, for the upper provinces.

An insulting anonymous letter, attributed to the Tribuna, has been received by the Ocean Circus [illegible] among other signatures, that of [illegible] Gilbert Ramsay, which we believe a [illegible] forgery.

MONTEVIDEO AT THE [EXHIBITION].

[illegible] He begins with a translation of "[illegible] mentions," thus reverting, first, to our beef? [illegible] have been admitted by many, including Miss Burdett Coutts. It has been recommended to Miss Florence Nightingale, not for the recovery of her health, but that she may introduce it into military kitchens. By parenthesis, Marshal O'Donnell's success in Africa is ascribed to the care with which he saved his bacon, beef &c., and Mr. Webb is now in Paris, advising Napoleon III to feed his Mexican army on R. Plate beef, to enable them to fight Juarez' gauchos.

Mr Neth states that charqui Argentino will soon be as famous as gutta percha—let us hope also more digestible. He adds "tallow is a fait accompli;" and the Banda Oriental should get up a cotton-fever under the impulse of the hour. M. Video [illegible] declared first-rate, and there is no doubt the [illegible] may not put on their boots. Even the Tobacco of Uruguay is superior to Turkey or [illegible] but this is evidently a puff.

It is a pity that the Oriental Consul in London has been at so much expense in publishing these pamphlets, but we are assured the Government whom he [illegible] so ably served will not suffer [illegible] to be out of pocket.

He concludes by [illegible] Pres. Berro that he is arranging the exportation of a number of Swiss emigrants: and indeed the republic of Uruguay seems to possess a London agent worth a score of "absent friends."

MELANCHOLY OCCURRENCE AT SEA.

About half an hour after the Steamship Tyne had left Pernambuco, on Friday afternoon the 28th Nov. on her outward trip to Rio, a melancholy and fatal accident took place, which cast a gloom over all on board, and marred the pleasure of an unusually agreeable passage in all other respects. About half-past 5 P.M. that afternoon, the cry was raised "A man overboard." The man at the wheel instantly threw a life buoy over, which must have alighted near the struggling person in the water. A boat was immediately lowered, and gallantly manned by two of the officers and six hands, who swiftly and vigorously pulled to the spot where the sad event occurred. By this time the ship, though slow had got a considerable way off, but it was steered round the boat. The second officer, Mr. Brace, who was in charge of it, called out the sad tidings to Captain Jellicoe. "We've got the buoy, Sir, but no one on it." Every one heard the painful intelligence with the utmost regret.

Hope, however, again revived, when, the boat having been brought alongside the ship, a cry was raised on board, "We hear some one shouting." Again the boat put off in the direction of the imagined sound, and what appeared strange, a lusty cheer was raised by the men in the boat. This was at once [illegible] by the passengers as a sign that the person was found, and they, with glad vehemence, returned the cheer, but some old tars shook their heads. It turned out that the cheer was only to attract the attention of the unfortunate man, should he be still struggling in the water; but there was no answer from the deep. When search was made on board, it was discovered that the poor carpenter, John Mon[illegible], was a-missing. It appears that he was at his post, replacing the staunchions at the opening on the main-deck, for the shipment of baggage, and that, losing his balance, he fell over and soon sunk to a watery grave. It may have been that he speedily became the prey of some of those voracious sharks which are said to abound in these tropical waters, or that, as a drowning man will grasp at a straw, he retained his grasp of the iron staunchions, which had also gone. The carpenter was a quiet, steady man, and a general favourite; and as he has left a wife and four children, the liveliest feelings of sympathy and regret were awakened in the breasts of passengers and crew. These feelings found expression in a handsome subscription in behalf of the widow and orphans. It is much to the credit of the passengers, both first-class and second—for the working man was as ready as the rich merchant to subscribe—that the goodly sum of £76 was raised among the passengers, the Marquess of Sligo heading the list with £10. This, with £20 raised by the officers and crew among themselves, will, it is hoped, in some measure, in a spirit of Christian resignation, mitigate the sad and irreparable loss which the family have sustained. It is right to mention, that when the alarm was raised of a man overboard, a young Scotch gentleman was about to gallantly plunge after him, but was restrained by some friends from such a daring design.

He accuses [illegible] and says that [illegible] reputation is tarnished [illegible], prepares Italy to expect [illegible] party of action, with whom he closely connects General Garibaldi, and ends up by expressing his astonishment that a people so [illegible] with legality and order [illegible] should show itself so [illegible] for a man who has committed such "extravagancies as has the prisoner of Varignano."

Madrid, Nov. 8.—The Spanish papers of to-day announce that the representative of Spain at Washington has received instructions which, it is to be hoped, will bring about a satisfactory solution of the Montgomery affair. Constantinople, Oct [illegible]—According to advices received here from Athens, disturbances took place in the Piræus whilst the ship having King Otho on board was still in sight. Four persons were killed. The National Assembly will meet within eight days hence, and will, it is said offer the crown of Greece to Prince Alfred of England.

The "Times" Paris correspondent [illegible]—The difficulty now is as to Otho's successor. Various candidates are spoken of—the Duke of Leuchtenberg, Greek by religion, but Russian; a nephew of Otho, but the Greeks will not hear of a Bavarian—they would, a Greek remarked in my hearing, take the first man they met on the Boulevards rather than another of that [illegible] any other German family; a son of Victor Emmanuel, but he is a Catholic, and the [illegible] of the Constitution requires the successor of Otho to be of the Orthodox faith; and moreover, Austria and Russia would object. A son of Queen Victoria is mentioned, but this, I suppose, is, on political and religious grounds, completely out of the question. A native Greek, Prince Ypsilanti, is pointed at, but he is said to have Russian tendencies, and some of his countrymen believe that a native Greek raised to the throne would be driven from it in four months. But whoever be the man, it is undeniable that the Greek people can hardly have a worse ruler than the one they have just cast out from among them."

THE MOVEMENTS OF THE CONFEDERATE STEAMER ALABAMA.—Some particulars in addition to those published yesterday with reference to the movements and operations of the Confederate war steamer Alabama, or "290" have since transpired. The steamer is described as being armed with six heavy guns amidships, a pivot gun on the bow, and another astern. The Emily Farnum, the vessel captured and afterwards released as a "cartel", has brought to Liverpool a report of the capture and destruction of the American whaling bark Elisha Dunbar, of New Bedford. The account given by Captain David R. Gifford, of that vessel, is as follows:—"Sept. 18 1862.—Strong gales and rainy from the southward. At 2 p.m., after running about four hours, was brought to, by a shot across our bow from the Alabama, and was ordered on board the steamer with my papers. Capt. Semmes took them, and allowed me a small trunk and each of my officers and crew a bag of clothing. We were then put in irons and placed in the waist of the ship, where we remained exposed to the weather, wet through and cold. The ship was then set on fire. [illegible] the first lieutenant had a sail spread over us, and put some planks and handspikes on deck [illegible] and there remained for three days with the [illegible] breaking over us and rain continuing [illegible]. The weather then moderated, and we dried our clothes. On board the steamer we found Captain [illegible] of the American whaling bark Virginia [illegible] and crew. The Alabama had destroyed his vessel [illegible] the same [illegible] as ourselves. On [illegible] was released and put on board the ship Emily Farnum, Captain Simes, from New York for Liverpool; and on the [illegible] was transferred to the brig Golden League, of Thomaston, for New York. Before the Emily Farnum had [illegible] the Alabama, the British ship, Captain Harar[illegible] days out from New York for London, with [illegible] bushels of wheat and large quantities of butter, lard, &c, was set fire to, and she continued to burn all night. Captain Semmes, of the Alabama, is reported to have made particular inquiries with reference to the large American clipper ship Dreadnought, Captain Samuels, bound from Liverpool for New York, which he alleged had on board [illegible] munitions of [illegible] for the Federal Government. The only bills of lading on board the Emily Farnum certificated by the British Consul, were those for lard and tallow, from Messrs. Trout [illegible] oder, and Co., of New York, who fortunately had taken precaution.

The only cure.

The Southdown sheep wash is the only effectual cure for the scab in sheep, the Estancieros in the Banda Oriental, and in this province have universally tried it when the wool began to fall off and now they reap the benifit; every sheep in their flocks gives an entire fleece; the value of the wool saved by the timely application of this remedy would more than pay for all the sheep wash which the farmer might require for the next twelve years.

So many remedies have been advertized and failed that the agents feels he has to contend with a direct prejudice, but as some of the principal sheep Estancieros have used the wast and proved its utility he can confidently refer to these parties if necessary
