and nearly all the standing crops of maize have been destroyed. The large plantations of tobacco, which at one time looked so flourishing, have been the constraint of the control of the GOMEZ'S ARMY.

It is affirmed by people, lately from the Urugusy, that Gomez's troops are in a most deplorable condition ; desertions are of every day occurrence, and but shortly since 23 infantry, with an officer at their head, landed at Con cordia. The want of cavalry is severely felt, for without that important branch of the service, Gomez cannot move. Joined to all these disagrecable circumstances, the payment of the men is in arrears. As this, however, only comes to us through Flores' sources, we rather opine that it is but a gross exaggeration. Gomez's army should display a little more activity, and chaw up Flores.
