INDUSTRIAL PROTECTION.

. It is not our object at present to dis rb the screnity of the Argentine Government by any bitter invectives or satirical remarks, but as there seems to be a sort of full in the political world, and our public men are occupied in discussing matters of the most trifling interest, we think it an opportune mo ment to show up the great apathy of democracy in all that really concerns industry and agriculture.

We admit no doubt that the present administration is identified with the Argentine Central Railway, that President Mitre and Minister Rawson have done all in their power to establish this company, and if these two men did not occupy the high positions which they lo, we certainly think that they should be the first officers of that company.

To our mind, however, the railway concessions of the Government, and the subscription to the stock are acts of comparatively minor importance in a Government which rules over such an extent of country, and guards the varied interests of so many different provinces. Our public men seem to regard this matter in a very different light, and to judge them by their acts it would seem as if they thought the passing of railway bills, concessions to steambout companies, and conditional land grants. the sole sphere of their duty; never for one moment considering that all the railways that English capital can build, and all the steamboats that shipmasters can run on the rivers will not augment one lota the staple produce of the

TOYA, OR THE LAST DAYS OF POWPEH.

The Opera which will be played to-The Opera which will be played to-night at Colon is taken from that ro-mance of Bulwer, supposed by many to be his "chef d'œuvre," and written by him on the very site of the catastrophe, amid the disinterred city and its won drous monuments. It is unnecessary to remind our readers that Herculanes and Pompeii were destroyed by an eruption of Mount Vesuvius 1800 years ago, and their very position was unknown till about 30 years back, when they were discovered, almost entire, under a covering of only six or sight feet of volcanio soil, Iona was written by a master comparatively unknown, E. Petrella, but is said to contain some very pretty songs and harmonies. It is in four Acts, and has never before been produced in Buenos Act I. opens with a tavern Glaucus, an Athenian youth, is car rousing with some gay patrician friends, while the gladiators of the circus are drinking in the background. Salustic drinking in the background. Salustio jests with Glaucus about his passion for the charming Ions, a maiden under the patronage of the High Priest, Arbaces. Glaucus, (Lelmi) sings a bacch anal, and the chorus joins. Scene 2d represents Burbo (Walter) maltreating his slave Nidia, (Mollo), whereupon Glaucus buys her and offers her liberty. but she prefers to remain in the service of her liberator. Scene 3d is a solilo' quy of Iona (Briol), and the following introduces Arbaces (Celestino), who tries to poison her mind sgainst Glau-cus, of whom she is enamored. In Scene 5th Nidia comes to Iona as a present from Glaucus, but the slave soon feels jeslous of her mistress, being herself, too, in love with the Athenian.

It is to be hoped we shall have some mes scenery for this highly dramatic opera, and that the chorus will come off well. It appears that the unfortunate, man who was murdered, Fausto Ugarteche, had been to the theatre and left about 12 o'clock at night to go to a dance, accompanied by a friend. On arriving at the house in question, Ugarteche perceived a fellow dancing inside named Chaves, with whom he had some difficulty at the last elections: he therefore determined not to enter, but it seems that Chaves saw him, followed him some squares and stabbed him in the heart, who expired immediately. Our colleague very properly remarks that the authorities are greatly to blame, as the murderer returned to his house and gemained for a few days perfectly unmolested. ### THE NEW BRIZILIAN LINE

The following we extract from a New York paper. Our readers will perceive that the gang of democratic bolitionists, who are charged with causing all the misfortunes in the United States, have now raised their lian line of steamers: the reason for such opposition being, that there is slavery in the Brazile. No wonder that the great Republic of North America is brought to the verge of ruin, when men with such ideas are allowed to have voice in the councils of the nation.
