

THE STANDARD

PACKET EDITION

Per R. M. S. TAMAR

SATURDAY, MARCH 6, 1880

THE REVIEW.

As they say, 'a nation is happy whose annals are dull; then the historical page must be every thing else felicitous; for, should the world cover there, not for the size of it, another place with more stirring annals and exciting events. Our normal political state is not water; and these continued excitements that we suppose we may lay down the theory that Argentina and Argentine-republicans can endure anything rather than a quiet life. It is hardly necessary, after all we have written during the week, to go back for 6 or 7 days in our history and trace the causes which led to the military review at Palermo on Sunday. Every concrete Argentine understands the question, and every foreigner too; in fact, the opinion is general that all understand the affair but too well, and possibly one's satisfaction at these military reviews would be all the greater if the consequences of the review were less apparent.

The Argentine Republic is not the United States; the caste differences of race never offend our politics.

We have no North and South in the Argentine Union, nor holds whose sole creed is that John Brown's is marching on, or whose vote and political action is secured by the mere grant of 40 acres and a mule. Argentines are brothers all, and, although the prevalence of the Indian countenance was unmistakeable in many of the regiments, the review at Palermo had much about it to remind us that the people and the soldiers are of the same stock which lighted the President's conscience as he watched the troops defile before him, was shared by the ladies in their carriages and the soldiers in the ranks. Satisfaction was so unanimous that it required neither the demonstration of a cheer nor the firing of all rockets to interpret. The crowd that assembled, if not to say numerous, was select; fully 200 private carriages were often seen at Palermo a more impression of the review than our appreciation of the review suffers nothing by comparison, since a ball-light at Montevideo draws great crowds that review at Wimbleton or an exhibition at Cordoba.

The review at Palermo was as creditable a military spectacle as any we have ever seen in this country.

The cavalry were splendidly mounted; and as for the infantry, some of the regiments are so well uniformed, the men of such an equal height and of such a complexion, that it is perfect, that Donovan or Bosch's regiments might be marched down the Boulevard des Invalides without it being supposed they came from South America.

Punctuality has such few votaries in Buenos Ayres that it is rather an English view of Argentine affairs to complain of a delay of an hour at Palermo. The time was not thrown away, since the beautiful grounds of Palermo were for many who ran out in the Belgrano tramway, and the great number of well-the hand playing and the troops marching in the locality of all others to which Argentine liberties are held the least dear. There were foreign Ministers and elegantly dressed ladies in the group that surrounded His Excellency on the roof. The troops numbered, we should say, from 3,000 to 4,000 men, and showed an efficiency that warned us of the growth of the military element in this country. Professors, Roman views on technical education seemed fully borne out by many remarkable features of the review, and the Indian Artillery men were certainly a surprise to us all. Argentine democracy may owe more to its army than is generally supposed; there perhaps will be no greater contrast than the turn-out of the Tiro Nacional in the Calle Florida and the review of the troops of the Line in Palermo. Comparisons are at all times equivocal; and we should say, to mark that if the people of Buenos Aires feel justly proud of the volunteer turn-out in our streets, they may share the same satisfaction at the graciousness of the Argentine army, whose services are priceless when true to the National flag under which they fight.

THE PLAY OVER.

The farewell review of the citizen soldiers on Friday last by Governor Tejedor was a graceful finale to the risky drama enacted in the capital since the Tiro Nacional has gained great popularity by the part he played in recent stirring events is amply testified by the hearty cheers which greeted his passage through the streets to the several barracks of the Volunteers.

A little before 6 o'clock H.E. entered an open carriage, accompanied by his Minister Finance, Mr. Bal-bin, Dr. Alorta, Minister of Government, and Colonel Gardemdia, Chief of Police. Preceding the following gentlemen, all splendidly mounted:—Colonel D. Julio Cam-pos, Comandante en Jefe de las Fuerzas de la Provincia, and the Comandante del Tiro Nacional; Colonel D. Jose

Y. Arias, Jefe del Estado Mayor; syndicates Rebuson, Jacobo and Julio Varela, Amador Rivera, Benedictos, Gastero, Hugo, D. Fuentes and Comisario Parravicini.

Several carriages followed the Governor, the leading one containing

Dr. D. Dolfo B. Larrea, and D.

Juan A. Garcia, Vice-President and Vocal of the Comision Directiva del

Tiro Nacional, D. Martin Bono, Presidente de la Comision de Estudios Historicos, and Comandante D. O-

Donnell.

The review began at 6 o'clock, the first Battalion which the Governor passed being the Malpa-city, in Calle Florida, between Piedra and Rivadavia, commanded by Ramon Gomez; then the cortege drove along the streets, stopping in places where the Volunteers in the following order:—

Riferos; Comandante D. Joaquin

Montaña, Calle Orientales between

Florida and Malpa;

Patrones de Buenos Ayres; Comandante D. Alberto Segui, Calle

Artes corner of Juncal.

General Lavalle 12; Comandante

D. Benigno de Moreno between

Santa and Santiago del Estero

Tiradores del Sud; Comandante

D. Pablo Bonifacio, Calle Brea Orden between Europa and Buenos Ayres; Comandante D. Martin Bono and D. Alberto J. Huergo, Calle

Belgrano between Belgrano and Bal-carera.

Adolfo Alsina; Comandante D.

Jose Maria Reybaud, Calle Moreno between Balcarera and Defensa.

General Lavalle 12; Comandante

D. Sebastian Casares, Calle Piedra between Florida and San Martin.

For each regiment the Governor had a brief Napoleonic address in which he said:—

—You bear a foreign name, but it

MORE OF IT.

The infortunate encounter which occurred on Sunday between some few men of Col. Donovan's regiment and some citizens, was the subject of a letter to the Standard, in which was mentioned the fact that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

infortunates were shot by the

Volunteers, and that the

of Brazil, Chile and the Banda

Oriental against the Argentine Republic; and the surprise we all feel at the least letter, or the least pronouncement, or the least action, is caused by the alliance in question as by the opportunity which has been seized either to take the alliance to communication to us the news, or to the fact that the alliance has been made, and that the bulletins published in this city on the 15th and 16th inst., which we have no doubt, have found their way to the capitals of the three allied powers.

We do not believe in any alliance, because we have too high an opinion of the lofty diplomacy of

