Never was the uncertainty of speculan more conclusively proved than tolay, when gold rose like a rocket to 345 h, plunging the market again into the whirlpool of distrust and anxiety from which it seemed a few days ago to have had a fair chance of escaping. With he probability of a straight course being steered for a general liquidation, confidence had risen to a high pitch gold had tumbled headlong from its highest pinnacle, and there seemed to be new life and fresh elasticity in every thing, despite the extraordinary measure to save tha last shadow of the official banks' credit. And this was the ffect of a mere promise, the result of

The latter cannot long be delayed. If the banks re to be saved there is only one way, ress with liberal intentions. Gold is oking upwards again, and the market preparing for the worst. The immediate cause of the spurt in gold was the news that a private bank, which had been drawing exchange liberally, had withdrawn from the market, and this, coupled with a rumour that not liquidated, acted like a petard in the gold ring, sending prices up at lightning pace. A project discussed in the ring was to the effect that the two State Banks should be amalgamated, orming a new State bank, in which the National Government would figure with $20,000,000 as the equivalent of it shares in the National Bank, the National nal Bank shareholders with $30,000,000, nd the Provincial Government with $50,000,000; capital to be fixed at $150,000,000, and English capital to supply the balance.
