ON 'CHANGE. Monday, June 8th, 1891. The week opened to-day with a very nuch better feeling in political and commercial circles. Last week closed with much apprehension: on Saturday evening the most absurd rumours were circulated to disturb the market. Some people announced that a row was going on in Congress in consequence of a poli tical debate on affairs in Mendoza: the credulous, the nincompoops swallowed the bait, although, had they taken the rouble to cross the Plaza Mayo and enter Congress, they would have seen an assembly of quiet old gentlemen. Others maintained that there was a smell of gunpowder in the air, that all the troops of the garrison were under arms, that all the war-vessels had their fires lit, that the police were concentrated, etc. There was some foundation to all this as the Government had taken measures of precaution waiting for eventualities What really shook the market last Saturday was the well-founded anxiety as to the behaviour of the Union Civica in the vital question of the conciliation Having used some of your PASTE DIP this policy advocated by Generals Roca and Mitre.
