James Smart ises in Calle Piedad, alongside the Bolsa and facing the Bruuswick, was, as we announced in our last, the event of the day yesterday, and to-day the Bank was crowded with friends who called upon Mr. Ennor, the talented manager, to congratulate him on his new premises. Since the smash-up of the Provincial Bank, Calle San Martin All goods imported direct ceased to be a banking street, and Mr. Ennor does perfectly right in moving out. He is now in the very centre of the banking circle; round the corners of either side in Calle Reconuista are banks of all calibre and all naionalities. The five corner site facing he Carabassa building of the London and River Plate belongs to Mr. Ennor's Bank, but it will take years to build on, the stately new English Bank of the German Bank, and then comes the great Banco de la Nacion, in bye gone and happier days the far-famed Teatro de Colon. In front is the Nuevo Banco Italiano that in point of architecture (but not capital) beats all the other IMPORTANT FEATURES Banks in town; behind it is the New Bank Clerks hotel, which will soon be finished; then comes the old offices of Sam. B. Hale and Co., now rented as offices; next follow the magnificent banking offices of that firm, and Buckeye then comes the site bought by Mr. Carrington in the very depths of last year's crisis for the British Bank of South America, which has yet to be built on. When Mr. Thurburn builds his galeria, similar to that in Milan, he will have his two establishments at the street corner united; but the old Obligado house in Calle Reconquista also belongs to the London Bank and will yet be used to en-large their premises. The German Bank, at present in half the house of the Bread and Butter Club, now goes to Terrero's house where is the French Bank—£28,000 paid by the Germans for the premises. Seedorf's Botica, we hear, is n the market, and will, as soon as nings come round, be turned into a bank. Several colleagues are industriously ber. The liquidation will probably come Auctioneers Cesar Ramella and Co. that be. In spite of the unfortunate note of Dr. Romero to the President of the Republic, the market would much regret to hear that the finance minister intended leaving the portfolio; market believes that the finance Minister penned that note to pave the way to certain negotiations which were rendered difficult by the sudden fall in gold. All have the greatest confider in his experience and ability, and we should say that his resignation would be nothing short of a catastrophe in the present financial emergency. It is satisfactory to think that there is not the slightest foundation to the many "ru mors of Cabinet crisis."

The rumors of Cabinet crisis did not much affect the market this morning, for the simple reason that nobody believes in such reports. Were there, however, any foundation to the rumor the gold market would immediately bold upwards. There is a strong party in Congress against the Minister, and it is from the lobbies of Congress that the rumor took flight. The Minister is a serious obstacle to many pet schemes in Congress, in view of state-banking in general, some banks in particular, and shinplaster issues. Dr. Romero is a in the Government and the public are aware of the fact and would view with much disfavour any intrigues tending to "Yesterday Argentine securities ex-

It is quite remarkable to Walth how the majority place implicit confidence in the finance minister; and yet the majority acknowledge that Dr. Romero has finance minister, and yet the majority acknowledge that he market supports Mr. Auturally this produced a convinced that Minister Romero wishes to exaggerate the perils of the financial situation, and his most enthus financial situation, and his most enthus might not mislead the public in general. Yet, in spite of all this, the whole market looks upon Dr. Romero as a guarantee in the Cabinet that senging financial reforms will be carried out, that might not mislead the public in general. Yet, in spite of all this, the whole market looks upon Dr. Romero as a guarantee in the Cabinet that swepting financial reforms will be carried out, that might not mislead the public in general. Yet, in spite of all this, the whole market looks upon Dr. Romero as a guarantee in the Cabinet that swepting financial reforms will be carried out, that might not mislead the public in general. Yet, in spite of all this, the whole market looks upon Dr. Romero as a guarantee in the Cabinet that sweeping financial reforms will be carried out, that might not mislead the public in general. Yet, in spite of all this, the whole market language and the might have penned his note in a fashion that might not mislead the public in general. Yet, in spite of all this, the whole market language had taken place, not in the Argentine, but in the Uruguayan dament of the Cabinet Among others a new Minister Government has cancelled the decree of January 1892 for an agricultural colony of Chole-e-Choel Island, which is dament and fond of chileran. The Minister Romero will be reading ex-Minister Hansen's

After reading ex-Minister Hansen's note, cancelling the figures of the National balance-sheet; after studying the laconic answer of the Chief of the Public Credit Office, ratifying the figures of the balance-sheet, there is not a man in the market but believes that the ex-Minister is quite correct in his calculations. There is not a man who believes that the National gold debt amounts to 407 millions: on the contrary, all are convinced, and rightly so, that the market would support the views of the Public Credit Office and the figures of the Government, if the finance-minister had been frank enough to confess in his note to the President that one hundred millions of the grand total of gold debt were purely nominal. This fact was concealed, and hence the belief that an attempt was made to mislead the Fublic. fact was conceased, and hence the bench People who want to form a contract that an attempt was made to mislead the idea of the gains in the London market

Minister Romero is frank enough to | confess that the country is bankrupt. A summary of Minister Romero's note to the President of the Republic appeared in the London papers on Sa turday evening: thus the full effect of that note was not felt on the stock exchange till Monday, when all Argentine issues fell, especially the bonds of the Morgan Loan. Our friends must have been in a terrible state of mind when they read that the Minister considered the Moratoribus loan ruinous to the country's interests and that his fixed determination was to put an end to such a disastrous system of paying the service on the debt. We may, however, add that many London papers considered from the beginning the Morgan arrangement a great mistake, and opposed the arrangement. The experience of willos to Brazil, and the fact of the three steamers being despatched in one week shows the new Company knows its business. The president of the Company, our old friend Don Eduardo Casey, has studied the export of cattle to Brazil for many years, and we feel assured that the Brazilian firms who contract with his Company will make money. The first steamer commenced to load on Wednesday, sailing on Saturday, and the last one sails to-morrow. Sharp work.

The news of the day was the loading of three steamers with cattle for Rio

Dr. Garcia Merou, the learned Procurator of the Treasury, has in a brief and pithy report, urged the Government not to grant the application filed by the concessionaires of the Villa Mercedes-Rioja Railway for an extension of time to carry out their contract.
