THE PACIFIC MAILS.

NEGOTIATIONS AT THE CHINCAS.

We have received our files of papers from the West Coast and Central America, which contain important and disastrous news from all quarters of the continent.

The latest dates from Peru are to the 9th, and Chile the 23rd ult. General Vivanco continues his negotiations with Admiral Pareja at the Chinchas islands: they give dinners mutually and seem most friendly, but the Spaniard abates none of his pretensions, and even proposes new humiliations for Peru, alleging that he can seize the whole West Coast whenever obliged to such a step. Vivanco's everyday demands fuller powers from President Pezet, and the South American Congress is entirely ignored by both, being rightly snubbed for its officious interference.

On the 31st Dec. Major Suarez, aide-de-camp to Vivanco, after his mysterious conference with the Government, returned to the Chinchas, on board the war-steamer Chalaco, taking as is supposed, Pezet's reply to the negotiators. At a private audience the President is said to have declared, on January 7th, that, "within 4 or 6 days the result of the negotiations will be known, and we had no doubt the Spanish admiral will do full justice to Peru, and grant the reparations due to the national dignity." The American admiral, Geo. F. Pearson, was received in state by the President on the 5th, and declared his approval of the acts of the Government in the present question with Spain.

The Italian frigate Trinita, from Chiloe to Callao, met an American 3-masted steamer about 60 miles off the coast; the stranger lowered a boat and prepared for action, without the usual inquiries, whereupon the Italian vessel hoisted her flag, and the other disarming the boat's crew, simply sent to ask where she came from. The stranger is supposed to be a Southern privateer in wait for a vessel laden with whale-oil about to leave Chiloe.

Public opinion in Peru is very strong against the Government, and it is feared Vivanco is authorized to accept most degrading conditions, failing the fulfilment of any of which, the Chinchas Islands, are to be definitively annexed to Spain.

AWFUL CATASTROPHE AT CALLAO.

The Peruvian papers contain an account of a sad calamity at a bathing-establishment in Callao, attended with much loss of life.

On the morning of January 9th the tide was unusually high, a high wind blowing from the Pacific and several mercantile stores on the beach were invaded by the waves. At 3 p.m. a rumbling noise was heard near the Arsenal, and it was found that the baths of Mr. Thaddeus Terry, erected last year, had fallen into the ocean, while the groans of the drowning sufferers and cries of the populace increased the panic. Over 100 persons were struggling in the waves, and means were at once used to rescue them. A gigantic wave lifted up the bathing-house like a feather upon its crest and then plunged it in the abyss, breaking it into a thousand fragments which speedily covered the surface. The boats of the various war-vessels were at once launched, and succeeded in picking up numbers of wounded who most otherwise have perished. At 6 p.m. a despatch was issued by Government stating that the dead bodies of Miss Sophia Terry (18 years), Miss Catherine Terry (8), D. Manuel Serrano, D. N. Sevilla, and an officer of marines, were recovered by the war-steamer Timbes. In the Guiso was the corpse of a little boy, besides five ladies, two servants and a child injured. The Lerzundi picked up fragments of furniture belonging to the baths. The Ovalle family, 7 in number, escaped miraculously with a few bruises.

Along the coast several minor disasters are reported. Mr. Mendivil's factory has been swept away, value 10,000. The Castillo del Sol barracks have been inundated and the troops obliged to save themselves by flight. Sor. Chinoekio's barraca is destroyed; Sor. Escriba's saw-mill levelled and the neighborhood flooded, the inmates escaping in boats. The state-arsenal is inundated and completely covered with water.

The total loss of life is not yet known.

ATTEMPT TO MURDER THE PRESIDENT OF PERU.

The "Chalaco" of January 4th says: For some months back President Pezet has received repeated warnings of an Orsini plot to assassinate him, to which he paid no attention. In this, however, he was mistaken. At 12 o'clock to-day a low-set, ill-looking man solicited of the aide-de-camp on guard leave to see the President. General Pezet, who refuses no one, but likes to hear the complaints of the people, ordered him to be admitted. The fellow stepped forward, and drawing a dagger said: "Sir, I have been given this dagger to kill you, but I repent, and will confess the names of those who have sent me". The President ordered him to be taken to the Policia and there examined. This is the consequence (says the "Chalaco") of a licentious press, which preaches anarchy, rebellion, and murder.

SANGUINARY REVOLUTION IN BOLIVIA.

The last mail brought news of the attempt to overthrow Pres. Acha. It is remarkable that no Bolivian President ever completed his term of office all being either murdered, imprisoned, banished, or deposed. We have now some particulars of the present revolt. A bloody engagement took place at Cochabamba between the Government troops and Gen. Melgarejo's rebel army, the latter being victorious, after the field was strewn with corpses. On the 2nd January the authorities of La Paz handed over the command of the forces to the "liberator," General Goyo Perez, who proclaimed the fall of Pres. Acha, and restoration of order. The late President has been made away with, no one knowing his fate, but the rebels proclaim universal reconciliation over his tomb. The latest account is, that he had fled the country.

The city of Oruro declared for the rebellion on Dec. 31st, the signal being given by the Ortiz battalion at a review in the Plaza. General Rendon was at once elected military commander, and directed to hand in his adhesion to the victorious rebel general, Goyo Perez. General Agreda was thrown into prison at Oruro, along with Dr. Villegas, for his sympathy with the fallen President.

ALARMING REBELLION IN NEW GRANADA.

The Spanish edition of the "Panama Star and Herald" says:—

The armed riot which took place at Carthagena on Nov. 11th, has grown into a wide spread rebellion. Most of the chief towns, including Baraquilla, Corozal, Chini, Sincelajo, Loricca, and others have pronounced against President Nieto, who has levied a forced loan, sent troops to repress the insurgents and called out every man capable of bearing arms. The situation of the republic is hazardous, as it is more than likely the revolution will triumph, headed by Gonzalez, Carazo, St. Domingo and others officers who served under General Nieto in his revolution of 1859 and raised him to power.

Dr. Real has resigned the portfolios of the Interior and F. Affairs. On the 9th of November, a branch of the London and South America Bank (capital £2 millions) was opened at Bogota. The archbishop of that city has failed to regain his palace and revenues from the Government. On the 18th of December some incendiaries set on fire the town of Tumaco, burning 57 houses and sacking the rest in the confusion.

NEWS FROM THE PROVINCES.

The Rosario papers of Friday contain the following:—
 A grand serenade took place on Tuesday evening in honor of Governor

Oroño, who is en route to Santa Fe to be sworn in.

From Mendoza we learn [4th inst.] that Captain Mansilla had crossed the Andes to offer pardon to Olasoaga and his troop: 100 men were sent to reinforce Fort Rafael.

Sor. Portal was elected Governor of Jujuy, and at length prevailed on to accept the dignity.

In Tucuman the people are thinking also of cotton-growing, to no purpose. The Governor of Cordoba has arrested the 'comandante,' Jamie Vidal, for suspicious absence, when the Paz family was murdered. The Chamber is summoned to elect a Senator in Congress in room of D. Mariano Fraguero.

GREAT NEWS FROM SAN JUAN.

RICKARD, ROTHSCHILD AND CO.

CAPITAL £3,000,000 STERLING.

The 'Zonda' of San Juan confirms the news we published a week ago about the company in course of formation in London. It will be also remembered that Major Rickard when in England succeeded in enlisting the sympathies of the great capitalist Baron Rothschild, who said 'in half joke, whole earnest' that he would have no objection to invest half a million sterling in the business. The following announcement from the above paper has caused a pleasant sensation in San Juan:

"For some days the news has been current of the formation of a company in London with a capital of three millions £ sterling to work the mines of San Juan: as we were anxious to discover the foundation for such rumor we were glad to find it authenticated in this manner. Mr. Rickard has written to Sor. Oro, from Hilaro, that he has received a letter from Sor. Riestra of Buenos Ayres, announcing the formation of a great Co. in London with a capital of three millions for developing the San Juan mines, in which the banker Rothschild takes part."

Mr. Klappenbach has also received letters stating the joy caused in San Juan by such splendid news, as well as an invoice of 21 marks of bar-silver from his mines, at Marayes: this lump of silver is valued at 200 hard dollars, and is the third remittance our enterprising friend has received of late from his mines.

THE WAR IN THE EAST.

Letter No. 5.

Wednesday 15.

Fear has crept into the hearts of the Government men. Our "gabions, fascines," sand bags and wool bales, are at last believed insufficient to defend the town. Dejection has seized the leaders, and the courage of our soldiers depends entirely upon the liberality of the pulperos. A slight scrimmage took place on Tuesday morning: some of our defenders thinking that the enemy had retired, as was published in the papers, marched out to reconnoitre: they soon took to their heels. A couple were killed, and 3 or 4 wounded. The sight of the litters passing through the street was worth more than the unanimous vote of the Senate, as far as peace is concerned. Yesterday every voice was for war to-day all believe in peace. Important changes have taken place in the Government House, and the very strut of the soldiers through the streets indicates that the feeling of dejection has infected the very outposts. Possibly the last kick which the Govt. gave was to the Argentines. Murature had anchored his squadron in the inner harbour, close up to the Sheldrake and Triton, believing that as Americans, Argentines had as good a right to the bay as Englishmen; but the Orientals evidently hate Argentines, even more than Brazilians.

A boat was sent off from the "Capitania" to order Murature to be off. The few guns which bristle from the Cerro were pointed at the "Pampero" and Murature at once ordered his fleet to weigh anchor and moved outside. The Argentine admiral evidently did not wish to displease the foreign powers by creating a premature row in the harbour, but his obedience to the summary command of an impotent republican officer excited general surprise. Several parties left Montevideo on Sunday to inspect the Brazilian encampment at Union. We cannot discover why the Orientals gave that pretty little suburb such a name, for of all places in the world there never was a spot where, there is less union than in the Banda Oriental. A friend, at whose house I occasionally stop, assures me that he is 15 years in the country, and recollects during that short time no less than ten revolutions. It is a misnomer, therefore, to call any town in such a country "Union"; far better style the place "Des-union." Flores is at this miscalled place; he gave Mr. Petit a pass on Sunday evening, which enabled him to regain the trenches that night, and, after much difficulty, he passed, paying his way at every sentry box. Dr. Jose Maria Guierrez, editor of the 'Nacion Argentina,' and Charlone, are stopping in Flores' tent.

The lines around Montevideo are extremely formidable, and experienced foreign officers are of opinion that if the attack on Montevideo was confined to the land, neither Flores nor the Brazilians would be able to take the place. At the opening of the principal streets, rows of barrels filled with earth piled one on top of the other, crest the enormous ditches which defy alike the entrance of both horse and man. A few heroic fellows behind these barrels could hold out against thousands. Facing the river are a few wool barricades; but it is evident they were put up more for show than anything else.

On the Brazilian side of the trenches all the houses, ranchos, and quintas are completely deserted; the doors of many of the houses are ajar. Nothing could be more miserable than the appearance of the place. As yet there are no Colorados so near to the city, and the Brazilians are safely ensconced behind the Union, but now and then parties of soldiers gallop up to take a look at the trenches, and see what they can pick up in the deserted mansions of the foreign merchants. The fruit trees are bending to the ground with the most delicious fruit; but, say the vagabond hand of the armed gaucho, there is none to cull them.

It is impossible to describe the lonely, deserted appearance of the suburbs. Had a plague visited the locality, the desertion could not be greater.

The outposts of the Colorados command every avenue to Union, but they are orderly and respectful. The strength of Flores' army and the Brazilians has been greatly exaggerated: the former has about 800 infantry and 1200 cavalry. The Brazilians muster altogether hardly 8,000 men, and yet such is the general panic in Montevideo, that every one believes the land forces of the Colorados and Brazilians amount to 20,000 men. The most conspicuous thing in Union is the recruiting flag: One hundred silver dollars down, and thirty silver dollars per month, are the terms offered for enlisting. Over 800 Italians have enrolled themselves, and these are the men who are to lead the assault.

To the casual observer, nothing is more repugnant than the number of fellows dressed up in the new uniform of the Montevidean National Guard, who are lounging about in the streets of Union. These fellows, it appears, got their new clothes last week, and then decamped. We refrain from making comment.

On Sunday Montevideo appeared a little gayer than during the week: the Matriz was tolerably well attended with well-dressed females. The delusive hope that the Senate would shortly meet, and that a new President would be named, seemed to infuse new courage into the unfortunate congregation. A rumor was current that the Brazilians had given further time to surrender, and a sort of mock confidence seemed to gain ground. Saa, with Nadal, was seen walking up and down the Calle 25 de Mayo; and Sr. Carreras, with a rather ominous white hat, was detected walking on the Mole. Whether he had a feather of the same color to put in the band, this deponent cannot say.

The Brazilians still occupy their old anchorage, and will not move before Thursday the 16th. An English pilot-boat, the Foam, ran the blockade on Sunday evening; three shots went right across her bows, but she had a fair wind, and ran right up to where the Stromboli lay. The Rev. Mr. Dillon, with 7 other passengers from the Falkland Islands, arrived in her. The Argentine steamer 25 de Mayo, has her steam prepared to leave for Buenos Ayres this afternoon.

Standard Office, Feb. 13, 1865.

The senate is said to have met on yesterday and whatever may have been the object of its assembling, it was aided in its deliberations by several officers of high rank. This is not to be wondered at, as the number of senators now in Montevideo is very small, and any determination it might come to, particularly on the vital subject of war, would have more weight in accordance with the opinion of experienced military men.

At the sham fight the other evening several accidents happened as is usual in these affairs, one officer was killed and one or two soldiers wounded. There appears to have been great want of properly prudential precautions. We have been assured that the troops were presented with one packet of ball cartridge, as well as with blank ones, that the body of troops belonging to San José had their muskets loaded with ball when the firing began, and were told to elevate their pieces (instead of to draw their cartridges), the consequence of all this was, that when the firing commenced, an officer who was standing with some others and some soldiers at one of the advanced posts in front of the line was shot through the head, the same ball afterwards passing through a part of the back of the head of a soldier near him, they both falling, the officer dead and the poor man severely wounded. The senators at present in town are, with the exception of one or two, very moderate men. The opinion that we have heard expressed by certain military men who are in favor of resistance to the last, that anything done by the Senate will be illegal, there not being a sufficient number of Senators to constitute a quorum, and that the troops in arms are the real senate, &c., tends to confirm rather than weaken the hope we entertain of a peaceable arrangement; these gentlemen have too little to lose in the struggle for their opinions to have much weight unless they appeal to their tools to make them good; they are generally of the Oribe and Rosas school, but happily generally without the determination and talent of these chiefs. We sincerely hope that their day is fast passing.

By the little news we get from the country, it would appear to be pretty quiet. It would seem that the 'resistance' party here have been finding strong hopes on the arrival of United States' men-of-war, who are to come here to blow the Brazilians out of the water. When told that no such squadron is expected, and that the United States have no cause for quarrel with the empire, they appear quite astonished and incredulous: if it were not that humanity is interested in their being undeceived on every point, it would be almost cruel to deprive them of 'the pleasures of hope,' that last inhabitant of the human breast.

Montevideo has still, of course, a most deserted appearance. The injury to private interests must in the aggregate be immense: there are, nevertheless, some parties who are doubtless making 'a good thing' out of the present state of affairs. The soldiers are generally very orderly, more so, indeed, than many expected they would be. Few troops, could behave better, on the whole, under such circumstances, than the Spanish South American ones: this must be said to their credit. And we are sorry to observe, at the same time, that the upper class of natives, or 'gente decente,' are generally, from their desire of place and power, the promoters and sustainers of these protracted wars. The 'paisano,' or countryman, is far more impartial and practical in these matters than most foreigners unacquainted with their manner of thinking, imagine. Obligated to take up arms, 'nolens volens,' for one party or the other, he finds himself in the dilemma of either having to obey or fly his home and become a deserter. Long habituated to see that which ever party becomes victorious, he derives no advantage from their success, unless a momentary respite from military service may be so called; he merely fulfils his duty as a soldier, and what it is impossible for him to avoid.

Many, indeed, yearn for an opportunity of encountering the enemy. But for what? To have a pretext for running away in his presence, and getting back home for a short space of time, not as a deserter, mark this, but as a 'derrotado,' and when called under his flag again, he comes more or less promptly, hoping in his inward heart that another opportunity of the same kind will offer again. This will explain in a great measure the numerous reports of complete dispersion of the forces of both parties, that our readers may recollect having read during the present war. Finally, we believe that, as a rule, none of the inhabitants of those countries, hail peace with more real good-will than the 'paisano': none certainly are more tired of war, or more convinced that it only serves the ambitious project of a few.

TERRIBLE CONFLICT ON BOARD THE ERA.

TWO PASSENGERS WOUNDED.

The steamer Era arrived yesterday from the Uruguay, and the passengers relate an awful scene which occurred on board, during the voyage. It appears that among the passengers was a sick officer of the Colorado army, suffering from brain-fever; a person supposed to be drunk commencing to revile Flores and the rebels, the former grew so excited as to rush about the deck with a knife in his hand to the great terror of all present. Captain Pausco coming quietly up, seized the knife, but the officer putting his hand to his belt drew out another with which he made two lunges and we believe wounded the Captain, who was taken down below. At this time some Englishmen in the cabin got the mattresses out of the berths, and with this novel armor went to face the madman. They were however unable to disarm him, and he succeeded in wounding two of the passengers. Finally a gaucho, well accustomed to the use of the poncho, managed to parry the deadly thrusts of the aggressor and disarm him. The poor young man who was evidently out of his mind, made an attempt to jump overboard, but was happily caught by the leg and got under control. On arriving at this city he was conveyed to hospital, and we believe the wounded passengers are progressing favorably.

NEWS FROM PAYSANDU.

Passengers from the Uruguay report a rapid improvement in this ruined town, and business is already reviving. The losses sustained in the bombardment are very heavy, and one claimant demands 19,000 $ silver for compensation. The fortunes amassed in Paysandu, before the iniquitous revolution ruined the country, were almost incredible, amounting in some cases to 80 and even 200 thousand hard dollars.

The authorities first named by Gen. Flores confiscated or appropriated all the wool found in the barricades which had been taken by Leandro Gomez from the owners, and instead of returning it M. Dufrechou shipped it to B. Ayres, for which act Flores removed him.

Anecdotes about the murder of Leandro Gomez are in fashion. It is said that when he and Braga were led a way to be butchered, it was thought they were going to be presented to Flores, and two other officers, Fernandez and Acuña spontaneously joined them for better security, and suffered death along with them. Gomez had some faint suspicion of foul play, and turning to Braga said "comrade, I fancy they are going to shoot us," to which the other replied "did you not know that before?"

THE EX-MINISTER, DR SIENRA.

We have received a communication from Dr. Navarro Viola, informing us that the late Minister at Montevideo is his brother-in-law, and that he (Dr. N.V.) feels much annoyed at a paragraph in our paper, saying, "Carreras and Susviela have probably taken funds with them to provide for a comfortable exile in Paris." The lateness of the hour prevents our translating Dr. Navarro's lengthy protest, which may be said to consist of the simple question, "On what grounds we based such an assumption, against a man whom even the 'Nacion' and 'Tribuna' admit to be most honorable?"

We must plead total ignorance of Dr. Susviela and his history, and although incurring the imputation of a hasty assumption, we had no more ground for supposing Messrs. Carreras and Susviela would provide for their old age, than that it is usually the practice of fallen potentates, witness Louis Philip and many others. In Europe we meet numbers of South American refugees, none very poor; and if Sr. Sasviela be an honorable exception, as we are now led to believe, from such testimony to his integrity, we can only say that he was too good for his country, and we regret the same cannot be said of most republican ministers or South American politicians.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

There was no news yesterday from Montevideo, and the Brazilian gunboat which arrived on Friday evening brought nothing later. We may, therefore, rest assured that things are in statu quo, and the chances of fighting or making terms about equal. In case of either a bombardment or peaceful arrangement taking place, we may count on being advised of such at once. The Brazilians in town regard the whole thing settled, and boast that Villalba was made President through their intrigue, after some difficulty, for the express purpose of avoiding effusion of blood.

The news by the Pacific mails is very interesting, and will be found elsewhere: we find the details of the awful earthquake at Puebla exactly as we published them a month ago, but our colleagues will probably take it for fresh news.

The 'River Plate Magazine,' No. 14, will be given round to-morrow. The 'Argentine Citizen,' No. 4, on Wednesday [see contents].

We regret to say that an Irish sheep farmer from San Pedro is missing: he took his passage in the Pavon, but has not been seen in this city, and it is feared he may have fallen overboard.

The retirement of the Rev. Mr. Adams from Montevideo has caused some discussion, but we think it very natural that he should remove his family to a place of safety. Here, however, is seen the advantage of the Roman Catholic rule of celibacy, for by a singular coincidence the Rev. Mr. Dillon volunteers to brave all the horrors of the besieged city.

The new Broker's Theatre, next the Bank, was to be inaugurated last night, and we suppose the public was enchanted with the taste and elegance of the new shrine of the Muses.

The 'Tribuna' states that the first dividend of the Gas Co. [there was none since its establishment 10 years ago] is 250 per cent. If this be true it is no less surprising than unjust that no dividend was declared before.

To-day we may expect news from Montevideo. Our brother-editor intends remaining until the thing finish one way or the other.

Owing to press of matter we have to hold over an interesting letter from our agent in the besieged city.

We are glad to announce the return of D. Hector Varela: he is one of the best known of our public writers, and if he resign the Consulship for Flores, and stick to his real profession, we shall be all the better pleased.

THE ENGLISH PASTOR AT MONTEVIDEO.

To the Editors of the "Standard." Gentlemen, In your impression of the 2nd inst. I have observed a communication dated hence and signed "Anglicus," the object of which is to hold up to animadversion the conduct of the Rev. Mr. Adams, because he judged it prudent to remove his family from this city during the present critical crisis, and take them to a place of safety until the present troubles subside. I should hope 'Anglicus' is alone in his news upon this subject.

Now it cannot be denied that ever since the fall of Paysandú, the situation of Montevideo has been peculiarly critical, and it has been patent to every one residing here, the alarm and panic that has been felt by the threat of supplies being cut off from them by the approach of a besieging army, and the anxiety and real danger caused by the vexed gunpowder question, and under these circumstances nearly every family whose means would permit them to withdraw from the city have done so. Is it required of Mr. Adams that he be so stoical as to be indifferent to the welfare of his family? It requires little demonstration to prove that Mr. Adams' position and profession do not necessarily debar him the right, or relieve him of the obligation, to watch under God for the temporal well-being of those nearest and dearest to him, or of removing himself and his family to a place of temporary refuge before the means of retreat be cut off.

Happily Mr. Adams' reputation stands upon too wide a base to be easily overthrown or disputed by argument, much less by such sophistry as that used by 'Anglicus.' The reverend gentleman has given abundant proof during his mission at Montevideo how deeply he is actuated by a sense of the duties of his calling. His whole time and energy, may even his health have been tried in the service of his flock, thus showing his willingness to 'speak and be spent, in the service of his Divine Master.'

Notwithstanding the above truth which 'Anglicus' dare not question and cannot gainsay, he has ventured to quote Scripture to aid him in reviling Mr. Adams, and I must say that his selection of St. John x, 12, 13 is a most unfortunate one, for the simple reasons that it is totally inapplicable and cruelly unjust.

I would venture to recommend 'Anglicus' now that he has leisure during the absence of Mr. Adams, to search the Scriptures, and now that he thinks he knows the duties of a 'good shepherd,' may he learn the duties of a 'good sheep,' and particularly those of a stray one, which he evidently is, according to his own showing, and further, as he has called the attention of your readers to a passage of Holy Writ, I would respectfully turn his to Psalm xv., 1, 2, 3, and particularly the latter verse.

UNUS PRO MULTIS.

Montevideo, Feb. 7, 1865.

DRAWING BILLS ON PRODUCE.

Buenos Ayres, Feb. 18, 1865.

Mr. Editor of the "Standard."

Dear Sir, I accompany a statement which has been laid before the interested parties and the truth of which has been corroborated by the three Saladeros in question.

If you will take the trouble to peruse it, I think you will find the case somewhat different from what you say to-day about it in your paper. An abuse "de convenance" was certainly committed, but under attenuating circumstances.

18,500 Hides and 250 pipes were signed for.

27,500 hides and 250 pipes being ready for shipment.

23,770 hides and 260 pipes being paid on the 14th. February a. c.

Your very obt. Servant.

AN INTERESTED PARTY.

In the statement before us we find three cargoes from the saladeros of Messrs. Benites and Co. of Fray Bentos and Gualeguaychú, Garbino and Co. of Gualeguaychú, and Barañao and Co. of Concepcion, by the vessels Volant, Rovereto, and Belle, in which bills of lading were signed for 18,500 hides and 250 pipes tallow, there being ready for embarkation 27,500 hides and 250 pipes tallow, and of these there were then paid for 23,770 hides and 260 pipes tallow. From these figures it is plain that the case given does not come within the abuse spoken of in yesterday's Standard, as "drawing bills of exchange for hides, while the cattle have not yet reached the Saladero."

It is unnecessary for us to say that we did not allude to the above, or indeed to any particular, houses of business. If, as we have reason to believe, the abuse does exist, the authentic statement laid before us, and of which a copy has been sent to each of the interested parties, shews that it cannot be said of the present case.

FAILURES IN ENGLAND IN 1865.

During the year which has just terminated no fewer than 139 mercantile suspensions were recorded. During the first eight months of the year matters appear to have progressed very favourably in commercial circles, the number of suspensions reported up to the end of August not exceeding 25. In September, however, several large houses gave way; and these failures, coupled with the stoppage of the Leeds Bank in the same month, caused the suspension of many minor establishments. The number of suspensions recorded during the year was—In January, 4;

February, 3; March, 3; April, 1; May, 2; June, 2; July, 3; August, 7; September, 23; October, 63; November, 16; December, 12. Total, 139.
