

inst. I was sitting on the right of the deceased at chapel. He was very quiet till the last hymn was sung. He then got up, opened his Prayer-book, and sang out the last two verses very loudly. I never heard him do that before.

He used to walk out of his cell and go into chapel and sit down. He never used to speak to any one. When he jumped over the warden was about 24 feet from him. He sprang over so suddenly that I had no opportunity of catching hold of him."

Mr. Bradley, the surgeon to the prison, in the course of his evidence, said: "The substance of the brain, as far as I could see, was healthy. There was no evidence of any disease; its weight was 55 ounces, which is above the average by some ounces. His weight at the time of death was 11st. 1lb. He was twenty-five years old when he was convicted. There was no disease of the brain so far as could be ascertained, but, notwithstanding that insanity might have prevailed. He came into this prison on the 3rd of February, 1864. On admission he appeared in good condition. I have had opportunities of judging the state of his mind from time to time, and I assumed that if any thing strange had occurred it would have been reported to me. I have seen nothing to lead me to suppose he was subject to attacks of insanity; nor has he ever been reported to me as having any tendency to unsoundness of mind.

There was quite a stir on 'Change to-day by the purchase of 40,000 pats. for cash by a leading broker. Sales are now freely made for dates after July 1st at very high prices, as the belief is general amongst the brokers that the paper dollar redemption law will prove a dead letter.

We perceive by the circulars received by the packet, that at Marseilles four hundred bales of old River Plate wool, that is to say of the clip of 1863, were put up for sale at auction, and no bidders could be got: the wool was withdrawn. This is owing to the great superiority of this year's wool over last. Several thousand bales of the wool of 1863 are yet on hand in Antwerp, Havre, and Marseilles, with but very slight prospect of being sold at even 25 per cent. under the present market prices.
