This new grosse is prepared from the best fresh fat of this country, and the "centire" secret of its priperation lies in the how system of melting it. The quality of our grosse is so excellent that it is belter adapted than any oil or lard for cooking purposes or pastry and possesses "incalculable advantages over these two articles from being much cheaper, and also from giving to dishes or pastry a flavour "equal to the best fresh butter," a thing unknown as yet with the finest lard and which loss with the best fresh oil, as every one acquainted with cooking will testify.

Wo will not put forward any further reasons to prove, that our grease is superior to any other consumed in the country, including the best French, Spanish or Italian oils which come principally compounded with god knows what sort of other ingredients ablead, whilst our grease is propared from the pure fat of the country.

We are convinced, that henceforth, familles will not complain of the quality of the meat, poultry &x., for the meat of the country is generally good and what spoils its savour, is in reality the class of grease with which it is propared, a remedy is the refore required for the latter in every good kitchen and to imbelievers we have only to say, that before giving their epinion, they give our "Mantered e Grasa" which we offer, a fair trial and we doubt not, that they will give it the preference.

Liverpool March 27th 6p M.

This forenoon a splendid addition will be made to the royal navy by the annch of H.M.S. Agincourt. The ves sel has been constructed by Messrs. Laird Brothers, of Birkenhead, in one of their graving docks, and this morning she will be floated into the river. By this arrangement the danger that a ways attends the plunging of heavy shipsinto the water from the launching due on the "fourth" of April. ways will be avoided. The Agincourt is an iron-plated frigate of the largest class, there now being in the navy only two other vessels of equal dimensions, the Northumberland and the Minataur. The Agincourt is 6,680 tons, with engines of 1,350 horse-power, and will carry 54 guns of large calibre. She is coated with iron plates five and a half inches in thickness, and has all the most recent improvements for aggressive and defensive warfare.

Three American vessels are now lying in Spanish waters with hostile purposes. They are the Confederate steam ram Stonewall a turret ship mounting one 300-pounder and two 70pounder Armstrongs, and two Federal war vessels-the Niagara, a frigate with twelve 200-pounder Parrott guns, and the Sacramento a corvette with eleven of the same guns. de Areco; or as it is better known the triotic enthusiasm which I always beis the animosity of the people to everything Paraguayan, that the few indi viduals named Lopez, felt that the hour the army, joy beamed in the countethrow by the peaceful 'lasso' and boleadores, and gird on the sword or grasp the shining spear. The authorities of the Fortin were not slow to discover this patriotic enthusiasm and determined to make the most of it; for this purpose, it was quietly ar ranged in that quiet little room called the 'juzgado,' that the combined warriors of Salto, Arrecifes and Areco should meet at a lovely little 'rus in urbe 'called Los Olivos. Time was when the olive branch denoted peace, but Judge Rodriguez who probably knows little of the peaceful charms as sociated with the olive branch, deter mined to give a grand ' carne con cuero' in this enchanting suburb of Fortin

The future historian of this country must devote a page for the name of Rodriguez, which name is endeared to all in the Fortin since the memorable 'carne con cuero' affair which I am Standard 'agency began to be crowded, wealthy sheep-farmers and Estancieros surrounded the hospitable dwelling of the smiling and affable unpretending little 'tienda' of the The Bourse has been very firm, back yard of the premises could scarce. shepherds. Suddenly the cavalcade was ready, and all proceeded with soldier like precision to the spread

It requires a no small apprenticeship to the revolting customs of the Pampa to relish this extraordinary plan of roasting meat, hide and hair altogether on the cinders. I am free to detest it, but the fluest dish that a the most breathless silence and made a speech. I was prepared for a toast, nothing of the kind; a good soldierlike speech inculcating obedience, order a soldier; he is evidently no Irishman, for there was no 'blarney' in the disconrse.

Edward Rodrigues rose and recounted, in glowing terms, the glory vernor Flores and Don Andres Lamas which ever attended the Argentine arms. He described the country through which the soldiers had to march, and gave a lucid sketch [taben evidently from the 'Standard'] of the cause of the present war. He resumed his seat amidst the most deafening applause: then the National Hymn was sung by all present, Argentines, Irish, English, Scotch, and Americans. The recruits formed in a hollow square, and the feast terminated.

Mr. F. Irrigoyen, who resides, I am told, at an old 'almagro' estancia that was, invited the judge and colonel, and a few other friends, to a dinner. At the table I noticed Mr. Archibald Craig, Srs. Perez Millan, Stegmann, Zapiola, Uriarte, and the English doctor. Mine host made a really splendid speech, which would have done credit to the table of Octaviano or Varela. He rejoiced, he said, to see that all political disunion had ceased to exist, and all joined heart and hand against the Paraguayan despot. Sr. Rodrigues replied in eloquent terms, and hoped that before the war was over every Argentine would be called into the field to participate in the glory of emancipating Paraguay and avenging the insult to that flag which was borne victoriously from the Plate to the Pacific. Mr. Rodrigues resumed his seat amidst the nost terrific cheering and hitting the table.

This feast being over, the President of the Club gave a grand ball, inviting all the town, without any political distinction, to the stately saloons. Every one attended; the crowd was awful, the squeeze frightful. I danced fifteen times with every girl in the room, and then found that it was daylight. I jumped on my horse to return to my employer's rancho, cursing bitterly Lo pez and all the Paraguayaus, when Mr. James --- came dashing round the corner. I thought my neighbor was bound for Paraguay at the rate he was going. Nothing of the kind. all the world was bound for Archy Craig's. Off I went too. I took the judge and colonel along with me. Long before we arrived at Archy's, we could see the whole country covered with horsemen, all bound for the same place: such a motley crowd was never before seen in these camps. Irishmen as thick as blackberries; Scotchmen. gauchos, Americans; poor Archy Craig, thought I to myself, all the cows on your estancia will have to be roasted alive for these people. The breakfast was what I may term feudal. There was the 'lord of the manor,' Don. Archy, with both hands in his pockets, conversing with the leading men of the Republic. Speeches were made, toasts given, and wine, brandy, whisky, and caua flowed on all sides. Down with Lopez' was the motto Ramos. Hardly need I tell you that the on every corral gate from 'Archy,' to the Villa Mercedes. He must be a shocking bad character, from all I heard about him in the Fortin. I send you this hasty sketch: if you like it publish it, and send me the 'Stundard' for the next three months gratis, for I do assure you that it is only for the 'Standard' I would write so much.

President Mitre ought to refused, on account of the notice we remember the words of the song-"I'll make those who raise the wars.

Be the only men to fight."

The Argentines here are determined not to interfere; they say, and with foreigners here, we have lost heavily enough during the revolution and now at least we must be left quiet; but the plain truth is that although Argentines in town are not pressed, in the camp they are all marched off. Who is this Mr. Thompson that I hear is to take Mr. Mackinlay's place? Every one is talking about him, but I cannot make out who he is. I like the name. however, since a child, when I read "Thompson's Seasons." The Argentines are looking wistfully for his descent, as there is a sort of suave qui peat feeling in town at present.

I hear the most stunning rumors about the failures at present in Buenos Ayres. They are talked of at every table. You mention something about them in the 'Standard,' but why not give the names: I think it would be better, as it would save your readers from anxiety. One of the leading houses in your city is said to have suspended, and would have smashed but tor the timely aid of one or two English merchants. I send you the name of the house in question; please say in your next edition if it is so. The English papers never observe such mystery about these things as the papers here. People don't mind so much the native papers, as they are so much occupied with politics; but every one looks into the 'Standard' for such important commercial information.

SAVINGS BANK.

BANK MAUA AND CO.

No. 102 Calle de Cangallo, BUENOS AYRES.

BUENOS AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now or generally felt and appreciated in the two greet emporiums of the River Plate, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the bonk in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Maná and Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in that city a sofe and profitable depositary for their savings.

The sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing, and already roach a very large amband.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of clerks, artisens, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, eichness, or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries, and other frivolities.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. of this city, following the noble example of their firm in Montevideo, now offer the same facilities in this city, and will open a Savings Bank at No. 103 Calle Cangalle, from Nine a.m. till Three p.m on Week Days, and on Sundays and Holidays from Ten a.m. to Twelve m., for the reception of the savings of the classes already mentioned.

The Bank will deliver to each depositor a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The Bank will deliver to each depositor a pass book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited; in the former case the interest will be calculated up to date.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. is sufficiently known to the Public by the benefit derived from the cause of its operations, which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles, and always directed to promote the general welfare.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighbourhood.

Buenos Ayres, September 19, 1863.

P.p. Mauá and Co.

P.p. Maud and Co. WILLIAM LESLIB

CONDITIONS.

First-The Bank receives at interest any sum from Twenty-five Dollars currency Silver Dollar upwards.

Second—The interest allowed is six per cent. (6 p g) per annum, which is liquidated ever six months.

Third—The depositors can at any time retire the whole or part of the money deposited.

Fourth—Once the money deposited exceeds twenty five thousand dollars currency, or out thousand dollars siter, the depositor, if he wishes, can open an account current, according to the rule established by the Bank.

Fifth-In case the depositor loses his pass book, it can be replaced by another on paying twelve dollars currency, and advertising the loss in the public newspapers.
