THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1866.

GREAT 'STANDARD' VICTORY.

THE SHEEP-TAX THROWN OUT.

HURRAH FOR THE LEGISLATURE!

SUCCESS TO SHEEP-FARMING!!

We are happy to learn that the Comision de Hacienda of the Provincial Chamber of Deputies have resolved to reject Mr. Angelus Julio Blanco's project 'in limine,' as the 'Standard' suggested, refusing even to entertain it for discussion! This is a patent proof of the patriotism and intelligence of the Legislature, and we may add that most of the eminent city financiers lent the weight of their opinion in our favor, towards so happy a result, being convinced that the sheep-farmers are already sufficiently taxed, and that any new impost would cripple this all-important industry.

THE WAR IN THE NORTH.

THE ALLIED FORTIFICATIONS COMPLETED.
 On Tuesday night the Esmeralda arrived, having been delayed 7 hours by a dense fog which obliged her to come to an anchor: she brings dates to Friday 8th inst. being two days later than the Guarani. Lieut. Portela, who was again wounded in the battle of the 24th, is among the passengers; also Dr. Albarelos, Lucena and some medical students, and Major Romero.

We have received no letter from either 'Sinbad' or 'Spectator,' or any mails.

The 'Tribuna' correspondent writes as follows:—

Corrientes, June 8th, 1866.

On the 5th inst., at 9.30 a.m. the gunboats Greenhaigh, Martins and Presidente, with sundry canoes, left for a certain point on the Upper Paraná in order to take on board the army of Baron Port Alegre: this force is said to be abundantly supplied with horses and will bring very opportune aid to the allied army, which was obliged to come to a full stop, for want of horses and baggage-cattle. The Admiral is making great preparations, apparently for a bold stroke on the enemy's fortifications in the River Paraguay. Our gunboats, iron-clads, and steamers have cut away all their masts and rigging, so as to lighten them and draw less water, and it is likely the next high tide will be seized to finish the war at one blow. Large wooden sheds, for hospitals and goods-stores, are being erected on Quarantine Island in the River Paraguay. A temporary arsenal is also being put up for mending boilers, machinery, &c.

Gen. Flores keeps continually harassing the enemy, giving them no rest within their fortified lines. Yesterday and to-day a smart firing has been kept up on both sides. All our trenches are now concluded, but he not alarmed for this step; it is only a precaution, waiting the arrival of Baron Port Alegre's men. The Paraguayans made an attempt to carry a battery on our extreme flank, but Flores gives them no time even to wink, by day or night. Cry out for doctors and surgeons; we are very badly off for them.

In this vessel our correspondent 'Sinbad' went up the river to look for Baron Port Alegre, so that we cannot hear from him for a few days.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Mr. Reincken's practise for his first concert, will take place on Thursday the 14th at 7 1/2 o'clock at the Coliseum. We regret to observe that the dreadful cattle-plague or Rinderpest has made its appearance in South America: a letter from Panamá states that hundreds of cattle are dying daily along the route of the Aspinwall railway. From New Granada to Peru and Chile the epidemic may speedily communicate itself if, not guarded against in time, and it is possible that in the pressing attentions of the war this matter may be neglected. We hope Providence will forbid so terrible a visitation, but a word in time is not out of place.

The 'Times' mentions the departure from Glasgow of the new steamers Charrua and Guaycuru for the River Uruguay, and the 'Tribuna' announces their arrival at Rio Janeiro.

We remark that Kerosene is now taking the place of Gas in lighting cities in North America: 3,000 Kerosene lamps have been recently put up in the streets of New Orleans.

The 'New York Herald' has a grand map of Hunaytá and the battle-field at Paso la Patria on January 31st, which it gives as a signal victory for the Paraguayans, adding that the present war will perhaps result in making Brazil a Republic.

We have received a letter from a Irish gentleman stating his intention to come over and settle as a sheep-farmer, with a capital of £10,000, asking advice as to the best manner of commencing, &c.

The French papers occupy themselves greatly with the Triple Alliance and we have received a pocket-full of editorial extracts attacking Brazil and the allies.

Messrs. Lamport and Holt, the astronomical line, lost a fine steamer, the Arago, recently plying between Pernambuco and Liverpool. The court of enquiry returned the captain his certificate, completely exculpating him from blame.

It is with sincere pleasure that we inform our readers of the very high compliment paid by the Argentine Pharmaceutical Society to our distinguished countryman Professor Murray, in the shape of a gold medal which the Society has presented him for his very erudite treatise on Pharmacy, and his general services to the Society.

The French packet is again before the public. A party of gentlemen left the mole-head on Tuesday to accompany Mr. Wertz on board; when they arrived alongside, none were allowed on board save the passenger. The gentlemen in the whaleboat were of course very indignant, and determined not to be so treated: they pushed their way on to the deck, and called for champagne, but to their astonishment discovered that there was nothing stronger than river-water allowed on board, and to increase the absurdity of the arrangement the captain stated that as such was the rule on board the Arno, he could not depart from it. As a matter of course the indignant gentlemen, when they returned on shore, at once communicated the matter, and requested us to call special attention to such conduct, and on board the French steamer, a nation proverbial for its politeness. In justice to Captain Salle we feel bound to say, that during his long connection with the River Plate no such complaint was ever made against him, and on the only occasion we visited his steamer, like a true Frenchman he treated us with the greatest politeness and invited us to drink to 'La belle France' in his best champagne. New brooms, however, sweep clean, and the new captain imagines that by driving a man's friends over the gunwale into the whaleboat, or permitting the farewell bumper and a pleasant voyage to be toasted over a glass of muddy river-water, after a sail of 3 1/2 miles, he is consulting the interest of the Company of which he is the servant. He is much mistaken: the matter has become the sole topic in German and French circles; parties who intended to leave per French mail have now changed their minds and prefer the Arno, where, although the strictest rules and navy regulations exist, no such nonsense is tolerated as river-water cocktails. We could afford to smile at the simplicity of the French captain, and even palliate his conduct, on the plea that he was a specimen of what is termed 'a cold water Frenchman,' were he more punctual in his arrivals, and missing mail-bags not laid to his charge, but when, to the treatment which the gentlemen complain of, is added the uncertainty of the mail-bags, and the no-knowing-what-day the packet should arrive, we think it high time to call the attention of the Mensagieres Imperiales to the matter.

The steamer Whiteinch has brought down another cargo of Brazilian wounded. We believe the Italian hospital is now so full that it can hold no more.

Mr. Goldsmid gave his second soirée to a crowded and respectable audience at the Coliseum on Tuesday night. The entertainment commenced at 8.15 p.m. with the famous trial of Bardell v. Pickwick, which was faithfully produced by the lecturer, and received loud applause. After which some very fine selections from Longfellow, Hood, and Byron were gone through. The one-handed farce entitled 'Sheep on Thirds' was faithfully pictured by Mr. Goldsmid, and serves to show the ideas of young men coming to Buenos Ayres. During the different parts of the entertainment the audience was enlivened by some soul-stirring airs by Srs. Rafael and Celestini on the piano and violin. The soirée concluded at 11.15 with the celebrated song Home, sweet home.

There has been a very stormy meeting of the shareholders of the Buenos Ayres Northern Railway held in London. Mr. Murray, the contractor, who was out here for some years made a most extraordinary speech containing charges of the most serious nature against the management of the company in former years. The full report of the meeting has been sent us for publication, but it is too long and of very slight interest to our general readers. The affairs of the company seem in the greatest confusion. Mr. Ellborough, the secretary, has been summarily dismissed, and the board of directors reduced to 3.

The delay in the arrival of the Esmeralda has been caused by a very heavy fog in the river. The Brazilian ironclad which ran aground in the Paraná has not yet been got off; a gunboat has been sent to her assistance.

The Montevidean papers are loud in calling for the return of General Flores to recruit more men and steady matters in the sister city. It is not probable the Commander-in-chief can spare him.

The Bombay, which belongs to Messrs. Charles and Wilson of Montevideo, and brought up the news of the crisis, broke a pin on entering the Tigre. She was sent at once to Marshall's in Barracas to be repaired, and was to have left yesterday for Montevideo.

The gold which arrived at this port in the packet was all for the Argentine Government, £50,000 sent by Sr. Riestra and £70,000 from Brazil.

The 11 de Junio was kept up in great great style in Montevideo: Minister Britos made a grand speech. A sword was presented to Barroso.

The Portefa, now the Brazileira, will shortly leave for Corrientes taking up Minister Octaviano, General Barroso, and General Pollidora.

LETTER FROM EUROPE.

London, May 8, 1866.

The weightiest consequences of the detachment of Schleswig-Holstein from Denmark are still to come, and the dark cloud of war hangs ready to burst over Europe. Prussia, Austria, and Italy stand armed to the teeth, casting ominous looks at each other, and while all three declare they stand purely on the defensive, none will trust the other sufficiently to take the initiative in disarming.

In Italy all eyes are turned to Venetia. The Italian people already snuff the battle, and crowds of volunteers daily pour into the army. The Northern and Southern Railways of Austria are continually employed in the conveyance of soldiers and war 'materiel,' and Austrian ironclads are prepared to cruise in the Baltic and Adriatic. An alliance is declared to exist between Italy and Prussia, and while the little German States jealously regard the Prussian movement as an attempt to absorb them in a Prussian Germany, under the rule of a tyrant. Italy has, meantime, but one thought, freedom from Austria at any price and by any help. Mazzini, sick and banished, has lost none of his old patriotism. He writes to the republicans to help the Government; and in the present crisis to lay aside party feeling in the one great struggle against the foreigner. It is debated whether Garibaldi is to be employed, and, if so, it is considered by some advisable to limit the number of his volunteers, otherwise the royal Commander-in-Chief may find his ranks deserted for those of his noble subject's division.

In Spain new murmurs of outbreak are heard. In the event of a European war, the Spaniards may learn something. It is certain that in Europe the democratic spirit is taking deep root. In England this is especially manifest. Notwithstanding every effort of the aristocracy, supported by the 'Times' and the 'Daily Telegraph' to hush up the affairs of Jamaica, the people have carried their point, in insisting on a proper inquiry, and the Commissioners have just returned. Their report is eagerly expected.

The second reading of the Reform Bill was carried by a majority of 5. Its opponents are straining every nerve against it, and the battle is fought with equal energy on both sides. Vigorous attacks are also made on the monopolies of the Fellowships of the Universities by the Church of England, the Dissenters declaring their right to hold them as English subjects.

The rights of posterity are not forgotten in the present exciting time. At the introduction of the Budget the expenditure for the current year was estimated at £66,225,000, and the revenue at £67,575,000, leaving an estimated surplus of £1,350,000. Mr. Gladstone proposed to equalise the duty on wine in bottle and bulk, which would cause a loss of £58,000, abolish the duty on pepper, £112,000, reduce the mileage duty on omnibuses from 1d. to 3d. per mile, to take effect after the 2nd of July, £61,000, and reduce the duty on carriages drawn by horses, £16,000.

The national debt is at present about £800,000,000, or just what it was before the Crimean war.

The surplus of the revenue the Chancellor of the Exchequer proposes to apply not to our present enjoyment but to the reduction of the national debt. In a noble speech Mr. Mill had previously pointed out that the only nations who had become great were those who worked for posterity. And the 'Times' says justly that if the Budget of 1866 has no other claim to attention it will deserve to be remembered as that in which the duty of the passing generation to posterity was first insisted upon by a Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The exhibition of historical portraits at South Kensington, for a limited time, is now open to the public. Possessors of historical portraits have lent them for the service of the public, the fee of 1s. and 2s. 6d. being charged to cover expenses. Many spurious and bad portraits are included, but the whole forms one of the most interesting studies that could be offered to the lovers of history.

The new Record Office is proceeding slowly, and the valuable records of our early history, that have been discovered since proper attention has been paid to the subject, lead to a still poignant regret for all that have been destroyed. It is to be hoped that amid the destructive wars in South America this subject is not forgotten. In the days of old, ignorance might plead an excuse for the loss of records in war, but in our day of knowledge the materials of history should be sacredly placed out of the reach of destruction. E. MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC GOSSIP.

Montevideo, June 9, 1866.

The 'role' of musical and dramatic entertainments for the week has been rather extensive, such as is seldom laid before the Montevidean public.

Sunday night the Bouffes commenced in Solis. The theatre was crowded. The favorite comedy of 'Les Follies Dramatiques' was performed, and called forth roars of laughter. Mons. Noury, in the midst of the audience, having seated himself in one of the boxes, as the 'critic,' was inimitable, not a gloomy face was to be seen in the house.

Tuesday night there was a benefit in the same theatre for the the wounded Orientales, but although the performance was good there was a very poor show of faces in all parts of the house.

On Wednesday night the Spaniards gave their second performance in San Felipe. The well-known drama of 'El Valle de Andorra,' was well-performed, and there was a very full house. The presence of Captain Hanham's, Patagonian chief, in the Government box, seemed to attract the attention of most of the audience: he appeared in the uniform of Colonel in the Argentine army, which rank, I understand, he holds. Mary Jane did not attend, but had a reception at their rooms in the Oriental.

I hear Risany's new play, entitled 'Don Juan Diaz de Solis, or the Discovery of the Rio de la Plata,' is shortly going to be performed, and we hope to see it better acted and better attended than when performed at Solis in September last.

On Thursday night D'Hote was to have taken his benefit in Solis; but in consequence of the severity of the weather the entertainment was postponed until to-night, and I have just now learned that it is further postponed until Thursday next, when if the night be fine we may expect to see a full house.

An individual, named Juvenal Sampaio, came before the public again last week, but this time, however, in a new way. He appealed to the ladies, both young and old, to come forward and support him in a concert, which he modestly said in his play bills was to be the finest ever given in Montevideo. However, owing to some green-room accident, the thing did not come off.

LATEST FROM UNITED STATES.

New York, April 28th, 1866.

The Fenians are losing interest. The last excitement, produced by what appeared to be preparations for an invasion of Canada, burst like a bubble and vanished. It is now said the factionists in the order are about to harmonize and move on in solid phalanx.

Clement C. Clay, long confined in Fortress Monroe, has been paroled in order that he may visit his family in Alabama, and the wife of Jeff. Davis has received permission to visit her husband.

Henry A. Smythe, a prominent banker of this city, has been appointed by the President Collector of this Port, but the appointment hangs fire in the Senate.

Hon. Daniel S. Dickenson, a prominent lawyer and statesman, died recently in this city.

The cholera has been brought to this country in some two or three emigrant ships, two of which are detained in quarantine below this city, and those infected transferred to a hospital ship off Sandy Hook. In it a number of deaths have occurred, but at last accounts there appeared to be an abatement. The Board of Health are energetic in their efforts to prevent the disease reaching the city.

A terrible explosion of nitro-glycerine occurred in San Francisco on the 16th, by which some 8 or 10 lives were lost, and $100,000 to 200,000 worth of property destroyed. It occurred at Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express office. A few days previous a similar explosion occurred on board a vessel at Aspinwall, by which some fifty lives were lost, and the Panama Railroad freight-house and dock much damaged. The vessel was destroyed. It was the steamer European, and belonged to the Liverpool and Panamá Line.

No important business has been transacted in Congress since our last. The Reconstruction Committee have not yet reported. The Cuba Telegraph Bill it is thought stands a fair chance of passing.

The diplomatic correspondence concerning Mexico, and the position occupied by France and Austria is published. The French army is to be withdrawn in three detachments within a couple of years, as already announced, the United States maintaining its non-intervention policy. But our Minister to Austria was directed to protest in the most emphatic terms against Austria sending troops to take the place of the returning French. The latest news from Europe seems to indicate that war between Austria and Prussia is inevitable.

MARKET REPORT OF RIVER PLATE PRODUCE.

New York, April 27, 1866.

Trade continues very much depressed, and the past month has been only a continuance of the inactivity noticed in our last—and transactions in all kinds of commerce are limited to the actual necessities of consumers.

The Loan Bill, which became a Law on the 12th inst., meets with general approbation, especially as the volume of paper money cannot be suddenly diminished, and under no circumstances can it be increased. We now wait the action of Congress on the tariff.

Money is still a drug in the market, even at unusually low rates of interest.

Gold has been firm without great fluctuations; Government bonds in sympathy with an advance in Europe have advanced two to five per cent.

Dry Ox and Cow Hides.—The receipts are by the following vessels: From Buenos Ayres and Montevideo—Signal, Stella, Caprera, Alma, Farga, Pacific, Ann, B. Ayman, Damon, Anna, Concurrent, Favor, Sparkling Sea, Meta, Czarina, Ariadne, Blumenthal, G. Palmer, Eugenio, M. A. Herera, Stige, Fustian, Birdie, with 169,914 From Rio Grande—Breeze, John Northrup, Anna, Ella, Htoar, F. Geestacker, Savage, with 43,849. From Orinoco River—Rosedale, Guayama, Ernst August, with 29,941. From California, 12,062. From Europe, 5,521. From Aspinwall, 1,089. From Mexico, 3,796. From Africa, 2,550. From all other places, 10,877. Total, 276,011 dry hides.

Sales.—The sales foot up about 45,000 dry River Plate, at 17 1/2, 18 1/2, 17, 17 1/2, 16 1/2, 17 cents per lb., 20 1/2 to 22 lbs. average; and 18 1/2, 19 1/2, 17, 19 cents per lb., 22 to 25 1/2 lbs. average, all in gold. 3,000 dry Rio Grande, at 19 1/2 cents currency per lb., 20 1/2 lbs. average; 14,600 California, 22 to 23 cents currency per lb.; 6,850 dry Orinoco, part 18 1/2 cents currency per lb.

The market is still unusually dull; prices during the month show a decline of fully two cents per pound, in gold.

Stock.—In first hands as follows:—180,000 River Plate, 50,000 Rio Grande, 95,000 Orinoco, 35,000 California, 28,000 Central America and Mexico, 23,000 African kips; 57,800 all other kinds; total, 466,800 hides.

Importers are offering their wools freely, but manufacturers will not be tempted.

The accumulated stock is very large, and much beyond that of the previous year.

The sales during the month have been made for the most part to speculators, with an occasional small parcel to a manufacturer, and will amount to about 1,800 bales, prices ranging from 21 to 25 cents, gold.

P.S.—30 April.—More doing in hides at firm price.

THE FENIANS.

OUR EASTPORT DESPATCH.

Eastport, Maine., April 19, 1866.

The Fenian schooner Pray was again seized by the authorities, and last night a quantity of arms were spirited away from her by the Fenians, under the guns of the American war ship Winoski. A picket boat discovered the parties who were engaged in the work with boats and muffled oars. The picket boat gave chase, but the Fenian boats disappeared mysteriously. It is supposed that they made several trips before they were discovered, and stole away large quantities of arms. Some parties were arrested on the schooner, but subsequently released.

Major General Meade arrived this forenoon. Collector Long had an interview with him, after which the Fenian schooner Pray was brought to the wharf and unloaded of the arms, which were conveyed to Fort Sullivan. General Meade finally announced his intention to enforce the neutrality laws as far as lay within his power. Troops

GREAT 'STANDARD' VICTORY.

THE SHEEP-TAX THROWN OUT.

SUCCESS TO SHEEP-FARMING!!

We are happy to learn that the Comision de Hacienda of the Provincial Chamber of Deputies have resolved to reject Mr. Angelus Julio Blanco's project 'in limine,' as the 'Standard' suggested, refusing even to entertain it for discussion! This is a patent proof of the patriotism and intelligence of the Legislature, and we may add that most of the eminent city financiers lent the weight of their opinion in our favor, towards so happy a result, being convinced that the sheep-farmers are already sufficiently taxed, and that any new impost would cripple this all-important industry.

THE WAR IN THE NORTH.

THE ALLIED FORTIFICATIONS COMPLETED.
On Tuesday night the Esmeralda arrived, having been delayed 7 hours by a dense fog which obliged her to come to an anchor: she brings dates to Friday 8th inst. being two days later than the Guarani. Lieut. Portella, who was again wounded in the battle of the 24th, is among the passengers; also Dr. Albarelos, Lucena and some medical students, and Major Romero.

We have received no letter from either 'Sinbad' or 'Spectator,' or any mails.

The 'Tribuna' correspondent writes as follows:—

Corrientes, June 8th, 1866.

On the 5th inst., at 9.30 a.m. the gunboats Greenhaigh, Martins and Presidente, with sundry canoes, left for a certain point on the Upper Paraná in order to take on board the army of Baron Port Alegre: this force is said to be abundantly supplied with horses and will bring very opportune aid to the allied army, which was obliged to come to a full stop, for want of horses and baggage-cattle. The Admiral is making great preparations, apparently for a bold stroke on the enemy's fortifications in the River Paraguay. Our gunboats, iron-clads, and steamers have cut away all their masts and rigging, so as to lighten them and draw less water, and it is likely the next high tide will be seized to finish the war at one blow. Large wooden sheds, for hospitals and goods-stores, are being erected on Quarantine Island in the River Paraguay. A temporary arsenal is also being put up for mending boilers, machinery, &c.

Gen. Flores keeps continually harassing the enemy, giving them no rest within their fortified lines. Yesterday and to-day a smart firing has been kept up on both sides. All our trenches are now concluded, but be not alarmed for this step; it is only a precaution, waiting the arrival of Baron Port Alegre's men. The Paraguayans made an attempt to carry a battery on our extreme flank, but Flores gives them no time even to wink, by day or night. Cry out for doctors and surgeons; we are very badly off for them.

In this vessel our correspondent 'Sinbad' went up the river to look for Baron Port Alegre, so that we cannot hear from him for a few days.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Mr. Reinken's practise for his first concert, will take place on Thursday the 14th at 7½ o'clock at the Coliseum. We regret to observe that the dreadful cattle-plague or Rinderpest has made its appearance in South America: a letter from Panamá states that hundreds of cattle are dying daily along the route of the Aspinwall railway. From New Granada to Peru and Chile the epidemic may speedily communicate itself if, not guarded against in time, and it is possible that in the pressing attentions of the war this matter may be neglected. We hope Providence will forbid so terrible a visitation, but a word in time is not out of place.

The 'Times' mentions the departure from Glasgow of the new steamers Charrua and Guaycuru for the River Uruguay, and the 'Tribuna' announces their arrival at Rio Janeiro.

We remark that Kerosene is now taking the place of Gas in lighting cities in North America: 3,000 Kerosene lamps have been recently put up in the streets of New Orleans.

The 'New York Herald' has an grand map of Humaytá and the battle-field at Paso la Patria on January 31st, which it gives as a signal victory for the Paraguayans, adding that the present war will perhaps result in making Brazil a Republic.

We have received a letter from a Irish gentleman stating his intention to come to and settle as a sheep-farmer, with a capital of £10,000, asking advice as to the best manner of commencing, &c.

The French papers occupy themselves greatly with the Triple Alliance and we have received a pocket-full of editorial extracts attacking Brazil and the allies.

Messrs. Lamport and Holt, the astronomical line, lost a fine steamer, the Arago, recently plying between Pernambuco and Liverpool. The court of enquiry returned the captain his certificate, completely exculpating him from blame.

It is with sincere pleasure that we inform our readers of the very high compliment paid by the Argentine Pharmaceutical Society to our distinguished countryman Professor Murray, in the shape of a gold medal which the Society has presented him for his very erudite treatise on Pharmacy, and his general services to the Society.

The French packet is again before the public. A party of gentlemen left the mole-head on Tuesday to accompany Mr. Wertz on board; when they arrived alongside, none were allowed on board save the passenger. The gentlemen in the whaleboat were of course very indignant, and determined not to be so treated: they pushed their way on to the deck, and called for champagne, but to their astonishment discovered that there was nothing stronger than river-water allowed on board, and to increase the absurdity of the arrangement the captain stated that as such was the rule on board the Arno, he could not depart from it. As a matter of course the indignant gentlemen, when they returned on shore, at once communicated the matter, and requested us to call special attention to such conduct, and on board the French steamer, a nation proverbial for its politeness. In justice to Captain Salle we feel bound to say that during his long connection with the River Plate no such complaint was ever made against him, and on the only occasion we visited his steamer, like a true Frenchman he treated us with the greatest politeness and invited us to drink to 'La belle France' in his best champagne. The steamer Whiteinch has brought down another cargo of Brazilian wounded. We believe the Italian hospital is now so full that it can hold no more.

However, owing to some green-room accident, the thing did not come off.

LATEST FROM UNITED STATES.

New York, April 28th, 1866.

The Fenians are losing interest. The last excitement, produced by what appeared to be preparations for an invasion of Canada, burst like a bubble and vanished. It is now said the factionists in the order are about to harmonize and move on in solid phalanx.

Clement C. Clay, long confined in Fortress Monroe, has been paroled in order that he may visit his family in Alabama, and the wife of Jeff. Davis has received permission to visit her husband.

Henry A. Smythe, a prominent banker of this city, has been appointed by the President Collector of this Port, but the appointment hangs fire in the Senate.

Hon. Daniel S. Dickenson, a prominent lawyer and statesman, died recently in this city.

The cholera has been brought to this country in some two or three emigrant ships, two of which are detained in quarantine below this city, and those infected transferred to a hospital ship off Sandy Hook. In it a number of deaths have occurred, but at last accounts there appeared to be an abatement. The Board of Health are energetic in their efforts to prevent the disease reaching the city.

A terrible explosion of nitro-glycerine occurred in San Francisco on the 16th, by which some 8 or 10 lives were lost, and $100,000 to 200,000 worth of property destroyed. It occurred at Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express office. A few days' previous a similar explosion occurred on board a vessel at Aspinwall, by which some fifty lives were lost, and the Panama Railroad freight-house and dock much damaged. The vessel was destroyed. It was the steamer European, and belonged to the Liverpool and Panama Line.

No important business has been transacted in Congress since our last. The Reconstruction Committee have not yet reported. The Cuba Telegraph Bill it is thought stands a fair chance of passing.

The diplomatic correspondence concerning Mexico, and the position occupied by France and Austria is published. The French army is to be withdrawn in three detachments within a couple of years, as already announced, the United States maintaining its non-intervention policy. But our Minister to Austria was directed to protest in the most emphatic terms against Austria sending troops to take the place of the returning French. The latest news from Europe seems to indicate that war between Austria and Prussia is inevitable.

MARKET REPORT OF RIVER PLATE PRODUCE.

New York, April 27, 1866.

Trade continues very much depressed, and the past month has been only a continuance of the inactivity noticed in our last—and transactions in all kinds of commerce are limited to the actual necessities of consumers.

The Loan Bill, which became a Law on the 12th inst., meets with general approbation, especially as the volume of paper money cannot be suddenly diminished, and under no circumstances can it be increased. We now wait the action of Congress on the tariff.

Money is still a drug in the market, even at unusually low rates of interest.

Gold has been firm without great fluctuations; Government bonds in sympathy with an advance in Europe have advanced two to five per cent.

Dry Ox and Cow Hides.—The receipts are by the following vessels: From Buenos Ayres and Montevideo—Signal, Stella, Caprera, Alma, Parga, Pacific, Ann, B. Ayman, Damon, Anna, Concurrent, Favor, Sparkling Sea, Meta, Ozarina, Ariadne, Blumenthal, G. Palmer, Eugenio, M. A. Herera, Stige, Fustian, Birdie, with 169,914 From Rio Grande—Breeze, John Northrup, Anna, Ella, Hroar, T. Geestacker, Savage, with 43,849. From Orinoco River—Rosedale; Guayama, Ernst August, with 29,941. From California, 12,062. From Europe, 5,521. From Aspinwall, 1,089. From Mexico, 3,796. From Africa, 2,559. From all other places, 10,877. Total, 278,611 dry hides.

Sales.—The sales foot up about 45,000 dry River Plate, at 17½, 18½, 17, 17½, 16½, 17 cents per lb.; 20½ to 22 lbs. average; and 18½, 19½, 17, 10 cents per lb.; 22 to 25½ lbs. average, all in gold. 3,000 dry Rio Grande, at 10½ cents currency per lb.; 20½ lbs. average; 14,000 California, 22 to 23 cents currency per lb.; 6,850 dry Orinoco, part 18½ cents currency per lb.

The market is still unusually dull; prices during the month show a decline of fully two cents per pound, in gold.

Stock.—In first hands as follows:—180,000 River Plate, 50,000 Rio Grande, 95,000 Orinoco, 35,000 California, 26,000 Central America and Mexico, 23,000 African kips; 57,800 all other kinds; total, 468,800 hides.

Importers are offering their wools freely, but manufacturers will not be tempted.

The accumulated stock is very large, and much beyond that of the previous year.

The sales during the month have been made for the most part to speculators, with an occasional small parcel to a manufacturer, and will amount to about 1,800 bales, prices ranging from 21 to 25 cents, gold.

P.S.—30 April.—More doing in hides at firm price.

THE FENIANS.

OUR PASPORT DESPATCH.

Eastport, Maine, April 19, 1866.
The Fenian schooner Pray was again seized by the authorities, and last night a quantity of arms were spirited away from her by the Fenians, under the guns of the American war ship Winoski. A picket boat discovered the parties who were engaged in the work with boats and muffled oars. The picket boat gave chase, but the Fenian boats disappeared mysteriously. It is supposed that they made several trips before they were discovered, and stole away large quantities of arms. Some parties were arrested on the schooner, but subsequently released.

Major General Meade arrived this forenoon. Collector Long had an interview with him, after which the Fenian schooner Pray was brought to the wharf and unloaded of the arms, which were conveyed to Fort Sullivan. General Meade finally announced his intention to enforce the neutrality laws as far as lay within his power. Troops came with him from Portland, and others are 'en route' for the frontier. The other schooner is still in custody; in consequence of alleged informality in her papers of sale.

General Killian left suddenly on the Boston boat. His destination is said to be unknown even to prominent leaders here.

Calais, Maine., April 19, 1866. Major General Meade, with sixty United States regulars, arrived here in the steamer Regulator from Eastport about one P. M. to-day.

He had an enthusiastic reception in the City Hall, where he was introduced to the citizens by ex-Major Whilden. He stated that he was here to see that no infraction of the laws should take place.

General Doyle, from the St. Stephens side, had a private interview with General Meade on board the Regulator.

On account of the arrival of United States troops here no part of the British regiment in her Majesty's frigate Duncau were landed at St. Stephens. The entire regiment will be stationed at St. Andrews, the United States forces being deemed sufficient to prevent a disturbance in this quarter.

General Meade left for Eastport tomorrow. He promised the people of Calais to return hither in about a week.

Governor Gordon and General Doyle attended by their respective suites, are at St. Stephens.

This afternoon two American citizens, who had passed the United States guard on this side of the bridge leading to St. Stephens, were refused passage by the English guard on the other side. This action the two men loudly complained of, and in retreating one of them liberally drew a pistol and discharged it at the English soldiers. The ball did not take effect, but the affair has occasioned the most intense excitement. The United States guard arrested the two citizens, who are supposed to be Fenians. Colonel Henry, the officer in command of the United States forces here, has ordered them to be given up to the civil authorities. This action of Colonel Henry General Meade has approved.

MR. GOLDSMID'S ENTERTAINMENT. It does not often fall to our lot to pass a more pleasant evening than we did on Tuesday, the 12th of June. The Coliseum was filled on the occasion by the 'élite' of our English society, and the attendance would have been larger had not the arrival of the packet from England prevented many from being present at the entertainment. There is probably no more difficult task than that of reading, singing, reciting, and acting, when the combination is achieved by one single individual, as it was in this case by Mr. Goldsmid. He recalled to our memory, in stirring tones, the battle of Trafalgar, made us laugh heartily at the cool, witty impudence of Sam Weller, the pomposity of Judge Stareleigh, and the cerbese eloquence of Mr. Sergeant Buzpey. He excited our sympathy by a very touching reading of the death of her who loved 'not wisely but too well.' The beautiful Haidee put us on our guard against little vulgar boys by a graphic description of 'Mr. Simpkinson's misadventures at Margate,' and before commencing the farce of 'Sheep on Third's' wound up this portion of the entertainment with some original lines written in England, suggested by the song of the 'Shirt,' and entitled, 'Fight, fight, fight.' One stanza, from its peculiar beauty, we give to our readers—

"Did brave Columbus, friendless born, Shrink covered 'fore the angry scorn Of courts? or with undaunted mien, Contemning pride and envy's spleen, As tribute to a queen, Offer a world unseen? Fight, fight, fight."

Some excellent music, consisting of a duet on the violin and piano, and performed by Professor Antonini and Sig. Celestino, junr., served to wile away the interval between the last lines of the reader and the farce of 'Sheep on Third's.' Need we say that we forgot the bad intelligence from England and other cares as we listened to the amusing episodes in the life of a young man coming out to South America, with the brightest visions of wealth before him. His bill at the hotel, his interview with the sheep-broker, his letters of introduction from General Garibaldi to the Editors of the 'Standard' and 'our minister; and in the third scene the account of the sufferings of the unhappy youth in the camp excited our hilarity and caused us unfeigned enjoyment. Midst great applause Mr. Goldsmid wound up with an English and Irish melody, and we retired to our homes convinced that the co-operation of Mr. Philipps with Mr. Goldsmid would enable us to think, without envy, of the dramatic performances in the old country.

FRAYLE MUERTO. Earth Works Camp, May 30, 1866.

Another year added to the peaceful and prosperous reign of our illustrious sovereign Queen Victoria. Even in the interior of the province of Cordoba, at the earthworks of the Central Argentine Railway, was the day commemorated in a manner that let the Argentines and others on the works know that an Englishman, no matter in what part of the world, or under what circumstances placed, feels proud in letting others know that he has a good sovereign; and that the 24th of May is her birthday. At the usual hour, viz. 12 a.m., the royal salute of our heaviest ordnance (minié rifles) was fired, with no end of revolvers, &c. The workmen were treated by the Superintendent, J. Lloyd, with carne-con-cuero, ad libitum. The utmost good-humor seemed to prevail among them, and they all appeared to be willing in their own fashion of celebrating the 47th anniversary of our gracious sovereign's birthday.

The whole of the proceedings wound up to the satisfaction of all that were present; and the following toasts were proposed. 1st. 'H.M. the Queen, and all the Royal Family,' by J. Wright, Esq., engineer; 2nd. By Mr. Lloyd, 'The Superintendent of C. A. R. Co.,' 3rd. By Mr. Patterson, Capataz, 'The English farmers to the south of F. Muerto;' and lastly, 'The health of the "Standard"' was proposed, by Mr. Lynch; 270 peons drank full bumpers to all the toasts.

The earth-works of the Central Argentine Railway are now about 6 leagues beyond Frayle Muerto, and to all appearance, by the activity prevailing, that in another 6 or 7 months the earth works camp will be within a glance of Cordoba. Even to the slow-drag behind system of doing business habitual to this country has the Central Argentine Railway given a stimulant. For instance, in F. Muerto, 3 months ago, everything was stagnant, now it is almost as busy as an ant-hill; buildings going on in every street, in fact in a short time, to all appearance, it will assume the positive name of a thriving business town.

To help all such as wish to do business in Frayle Muerto, be it known that the Central Argentine Railway Co. have made a splendid pass for the river banksides to cross to and from Frayle Muerto without danger of breaking either coaches or carts.

The Englishmen to the south of the town, and the Central Argentine Railway to the north, no doubt will make F. Muerto a very important town in a short time.

SHEEP-BREEDING IN GERMANY. Report by Herr Kriebel on the sheep-establishments of Pomerania, Mecklenburg, Saxony and Bohemia, published by order of the Breslau Farming Society.

It is an undoubted fact that the farmers of Northern Germany at present evince anxiety to work a thorough reform in breeding stock, especially sheep, so as to produce a class of wool more suitable to the demands of manufacturers, and to make sheep-farming yield the largest profits possible by experience.

Who has come nearest to the mark? This is the question which suggests itself to me, after concluding my surveys of the sheep-establishments of Councillor Maass, Kenzlin, W. Pomerania; of Herr Hosschlager, Weissen; of Count Baer, Passow; of Baron Maltzan, Lenschow, Mecklenburg; of Count Thun, Pertze, Bohemia; and of Herr Steiger, Lentewitz, Saxony.

The establishment of Kenzlin is pre-eminently renowned, under the direction of Councillor Maass, who possesses great experience, and has during

50 years paid such attention to the Negretti breed that he is classed A. 1. throughout Pomerania and Mecklenburg. It has been his constant study to produce a good, clean, wool, throughout, while at the same time approaching fineness, and in this particular aim Kenzlin is a model establishment. From Kenzlin we have several breeds now established in Prussia and Mecklenburg; viz. those of Baron Seekendorf, near Demmin; of Councillor Kollin, in Ukormark. I regret having been unable to visit these two establishments of which Herr Edward Kunitz, sheep-inspector, has spoken to me highly.

I have also heard honorable mention of the following: Major Arnim's, near Paxwalk; Count Pless's, near Stavenhagen; Ihlenfeld, near New Brandenburg; Zuetzen, near Schwedt; and finally Gresse, near Boitzenburg. All these, especially the last, stand deservedly high, and in latter times Herr Mengehr has gained some repute for his establishment at Moidentin, near Wismar. I think the highest rank is still reserved for Councillor Maass, and Baron Maltzan of Lenschow.

On the other hand I cannot speak so highly of Boldebeck, near Gantrow, in spite of the immense demand for this breed, caused by the owner's system of public auctions: he goes in for breeding on a large scale, at any cost, without attending to the rules of superior sheep-farming.

Of the modern establishments in Mecklenburg I first visited Herr Hosschlager at Weissen: it is admirably managed, and sprung from the Passow and Medow breeds, alike creditable to its owner and its original stock. The animals are beautifully uniform in shape, with heavy, compact, fleeces. The owner turns his chief attention to producing animals for Australia, but with a little care he will soon be able to rival any other establishment in Germany.

What I consider a superior Negretti breed is, that which yields in the first place, the heaviest fleece, regarding fineness as only an accessory consideration. In this point of view nothing can surpass Lenschow, the farm of Baron Maltzan, which possesses the highest, best and soundest breed of Negrettis. The visitor is struck with the skill displayed in producing animals of such strong and elegant shape, with a clean, superior wool, admirably suited for making cloth: in this establishment it is evident that genius and attention have brought wool to the greatest perfection yet attained. I must congratulate all breeders of Negrettis who are fortunate enough to procure animals from this establishment: at present the demand is so great that it is necessary to give orders 12 months beforehand. I certainly consider Lenschow the foremost establishment in Mecklenburg, and Baron Maltzan the most successful breeder of Negrettis. None of the old Mecklenburg establishments can compare with Lenschow, and although the latter is in the territory of Mecklenburg, it is a great improvement on the establishments usually going by that name: they are as different as chalk is from cheese.

Lenschow is one of the finest sheep-establishments in the world. At another time I shall speak in detail of those in Saxony and Bohemia.

ON CHANGE. June 13, 1866.

Paper price of ounces $420 1/2 Do. sovereigns 128 1/2 First price of patacons, 26 00 Last 26 30 Cash sales, 55,855.

The fluctuation of paper money was at its height to-day; patacons kept running up and down all day, closing finally at 26 30. In the liquidation room they ran down 20 cents, and last sales at 4 o'clock were done at 26 10.

The rumour of peace, whether well founded or not, we cannot say, but certain it is that on the Bolsa nothing else was talked of amongst the brokers in the afternoon. As far as we could gather it seems that the French Minister has offered his mediation; from the state of affairs in Europe and in Rio we regard it as extremely probable, the more so since, according to the general report, the terms have been dictated in Lombard street. It not being the first time that Lombard street has compelled belligerents to lay down their arms, and this when powers far greater than those engaged in the River Plate were concerned, we certainly can see nothing very strange in the present rumor, although many regard it as both absurd and ridiculous. People in London care so little about South American politics that it is not to be supposed the bankers will stop to consider the danger of proposing peace at the present moment. Brazil, like France in the Crimean war, will make peace when it suits her purpose, and Baron Rothschild's opinion as to the inconvenience of continuing the present war are so well known that if any mediation is now offered it will be attributed to a fiat from his office. As to Paraguay paying the cost of the war, the idea is so absurd that it cannot be entertained for one moment. It was caustically observed to-day on 'Change' that the whole yearly revenue of Paraguay would not pay the charters for a month of the Brazilian transports.

There was a story current at three o'clock that late news had arrived from Corrientes, and that another battle had taken place; as the Ciano, with a cargo of wounded men came in, it was believed this news came by her, but on inquiry we could find out nothing authentic. The wounded, per Ciano, are represented in a pitiable state, mostly Orientals, and have gone down to Montevideo.

The time sales of specie were as follows:— For Tuesday 1850 25 55 Thursday 9000 26 55 Friday 26,800 26 35 Saturday 67,050 26 30 June 30 75,500 26 35 July 31 26,000 26 50 June 29 8,000 26 80

In Bonds nothing done. In the morning they ruled very weak; sellers at 40. In the afternoon, with the flying rumors about peace, they ruled stiffer; but no sales.

In Gas Shares nothing doing; buyers at 17 per cent, premium. Great inquiry about the much talked of semi-annual dividend.

Our advices from Rosario are to the effect that all the barracas are so full of produce that they can hold no more, and river craft so scarce, that two large barges which arrived there with railway iron were chartered to take down to B. Ayres produce at 4 ris per ar, equal to nearly the freight they would earn on their home voyage.

The Humboldt arrived to-day, and has commenced discharging. She will leave for England on the 19th.

The American war-steamer Shawmut, arrived to-day from Montevideo.

We publish to-day the Exports, and purpose, when we make our daily paper the large size, to publish in the fullest manner all the maritime and port news of the day, which hitherto for want of room we were compelled to leave out.

The sales in the Plaza to-day were trifling. The sales of wool for the fortnight figure up to about 50,000 ar., and the stock on hand to-day does not amount to 50,000 ar., most of which is in second-hand.

Sales in Barracas 500 ar. horsehair at 34 ris. Respecting the notice in last night's 'National,' contradicting the failure of the Empresario of the Buenos Ayres Great Southern Railway, we have to say that it is the contractors of the company, Messrs. Peto and Betts, who have failed, and not the company. At first the failure of Sir Morton Peto was only announced, but the telegrams at Lisbon, with dates from London to the 13th of May, announced the failure of the house of Peto and Betts. Respecting the decline of all securities in the London market, we forgot to mention that the shares of the River Plate Bank suffered only 2 1/2 decline, when shares much more favored fell five times that amount. We mention this fact to show the very high appreciation set on these shares on the London Stock Exchange. Discounts, gold, was offered to-day at 1/2.

In Exchange there was a very important business done to-day, at 4 1/2, drawers a first class English house: the rate, however, is very weak and one of the private banks refused to draw for a good round sum, £15,000, at anything over 4 1/2, which will probably be the rate for this packet.

The Portefa was here last night for Montevideo, taking down the supplemental mail and also Dr. Octaviano and family. The lady of the Minister leaves in the packet for Rio owing to the sudden demise of the Minister's mother.

CUSTOM-HOUSE—EXPORTS. The following vessels were cleared: American barque La Plata, for Montevideo and Boston, with 75 bales wool by Henry J. Ropes. Italian barque Carlos, for Antwerp, with 6 bales hair, 319 bales wool by Nantis & De Mot; 47 bales wool and 23 bales hido-cuttings by G. Temperley; 29,400 cow-horns, 3,000 horn-tips, 10 tons hods, 60 dry horse-hides, and 73 bales wool, by Pignetti, Cervetti & Co.
