SUNDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1866.

RECEPTION OF GENERAL ASBOTH.

The Vice-President of the Republic received yesterday noon, in public audience, the newly-accredited Minister of the United States, General A. Asboth. He was accompanied by Captain P. S. Crozier, and Captain C. H. Wells, U.S. Navy, with several of their officers; also Mr. Helper, U.S. Consul, and Mr. Thos. Livingstone, secretary.

Assistant-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, and the President's Aid-de-Camp were in charge of the party. A guard of honor, with a military band of music, received them, and the surrounding of the hall of audience in the National Government-house were densely crowded by citizens, anxious to hear the introductory discourse of the General, one of the most enthusiastic defenders of Republican institutions in Europe and America, and also to the answer of the Vice-President.

General Asboth, upon delivering his letter of credence, spoke as follows:

To His Excellency the President of the Argentine Republic.

Mr. President,

I have the honor to present my credentials as Minister Resident of the United States of America, and in doing so I beg leave to state to Your Excellency that it shall be, not only my duty, but my highest pleasure, to uphold and foster, both officially and personally, the friendly relations which have hitherto so long and so happily subsisted between the two Republics.

Permit me also to express the confident hope of the Government: I have the honor to represent, and my own heartfelt desire, that the wise administration of Your Excellency may secure and promote the blessings of peace and prosperity among all the people of the Argentine Confederation for many, very many, years to come.

The President replied as follows:

Mr. Minister,

With the utmost pleasure I receive the dispatches accrediting you near the Argentine Government as Resident Minister for the United States of America.

Before your arrival you had already a fine and clear road open to you for the easy and agreeable fulfilment of your mission, for it is well known how much sympathy and respect the Argentine nation feels towards the Great Republic of the North, which has served as the model for our political institutions; and it is our noble ambition to reach one day the point of liberty and progress from which your country at present looks down on an astonished universe.

Be assured, Mr. Minister, that the Argentine nation accepts with pride the title of "sister-Republic" with which you have just saluted us, and this title moreover expresses the mutual esteem that binds our countries together and tends to strengthen the ties of amity and commerce, which have always happily been loyal and sincere.

May heaven guard these friendly relations for successive ages, and favor our country, as you desire, with the same blessings of peace and liberty that it has so prodigiously bestowed on the United States.

As regards yourself, personally, Mr. Minister, you come among us preceded by a high and honorable reputation, and I trust that you will be a worthy successor of Mr. Kirk, whose noble character has left profound sympathies among us.

A very friendly conversation followed between the General and the Vice-President, in which several of the Ministers present joined, who were generally introduced to the General. The whole affair passed off very pleasantly, and can be taken as a guarantee that the friendly relations that have happily existed so long, will continue to do so undisturbed.

UGHT THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE BE DISSOLVED OR NOT?

Such is the absorbing question of the hour; and we find in yesterday's Nacion Argentina an invitation to the Standard to express an opinion on the subject. Our readers cannot have failed to remark with what studied care we eschewed the subject on which our colleague now challenges us to give our vote; and if we depart from our rule now, at the solicitation of the Nacion, it is less to oblige our colleague than that we believe the period has arrived when it is in the interest of foreigners and of the country at large to discuss the matter.

The very prolonged continuance of the present war has incontestably established two facts, viz.:

- 1st. The debility of the Allies.
- 2nd. The great strength of Paraguay.

When the celebrated Triple Alliance was executed by the three high contracting parties, it was based on a precisely different hypothesis: every article in that memorable treaty, every sentence and line in the compact, goes to prove that it was dictated by a firm belief in the great and overpowering strength of the allies, and the utter insignificance and debility of Paraguay. Now, Dr. Velez Sarsfield, and other equally distinguished lawyers, will bear us out when we say that the validity of every contract rests upon the bona fide representations of the parties to the same; and the events of the past two years go to show that there was some terrible mistake on this vital point in the case before us. In fact, it can be only regarded as a sort of mutual take-in: for Brazil believed that, in securing the Argentine alliance, Pres. Mitre would muster some 25,000 men to the battle-field, and backed up with the Brazilian army and fleet, would never cry "halt" until he had placed the allied banners on the old Jesuit town-hall of Asuncion; whilst Argentines, seeing Buenos Ayres and Montevideo crowded with Brazilian monitors and gunboats, thought Tamanrare would prove another Nelson or Farragut—out of the Paraguayans in Corrientes when on their way home, clear the river, sack and bombard the towns, and, indeed it was an even bet whether Mitre with the army, or Tamanrare with the fleet, would first reach Asuncion.

Called on, as we now are, to decide through whose fault the terms of the triple alliance have not as yet been carried out, and free from any bias, we must say, the fault lies with neither President Mitre has done his best with the elements at his disposal, and is brought to a stand-still at the Estero Bellaco through no fault of his. On the other hand, Tamanrare has no foot-hold in the River Plate, save on the quarter-deck of his ship. A dash by Humaita might result in his floating down the Paraná in his own four-cared gig, as the only remnant of his once famous squadron. The very same reason that keeps the Commander-in-chief from marching up to Villa Rica, detains Tamanrare in front of Curuá—neither can well get up.

Therefore the framers of the triple alliance are startled by a fact which they did not contemplate at the time—they made no provision whatever for the present state of things, and the conditions which they haughtily dictated in Buenos Ayres they are unable to enforce at the Tres Bocas: they despised their enemy, and now find out their error and its grave consequences.

Mutual recriminations and angry discussions have taken the place of calm deliberation and sound judgment: Argentines blame Brazilians, and Brazilians reproach Argentines. But as impartial observers we shall merely say that the united strength of the allies is totally insufficient to carry out the terms of the triple alliance: if Mitre were a Wellington or Napoleon he would have been brought to stand-still just where he is; and Tamanrare deserves no more censure than Sir Charles Napier, who left England with the finest fleet ever manned, steamed up to the Baltic, looked at Cronstadt, and came back—as a matter of course, he came in for the abuse of the moment, but to-day his conduct is endorsed by the whole British nation.

Bishop Risso arrived at Salta, and sent a note to the Governor of Jujuy stating that he was making his diocesan visit. The police of Salta succeeded in recovering much stolen property that had been missing for years. The ceremony of the "Milagro" was attended by over 10,000 persons.

From Mendoza we learn of the accession of a new Governor, but things continue quiet: The Banco Argentino is going to start an agency there.

In San Luis a new Juez de Crimen has been appointed. Inundations have occurred at San Juan.

From Tucumán we hear that Professor Barbati, of the National College, has published a valuable compendium of Argentine History. The ceremony of the Merced was attended by thousands of persons.

Dates from Rioja to Oct. 4th report the discovery of a conspiracy in that city to upset the Government of Catamarca, Vera and Barros being the leaders; they invited Col. Linarez, of Famatina, to join them, but he refused, and discovered their plans.

The Legislature of Rioja had become effete, and the Government endeavored to revive the body, as a loan of $30,000 is required. Gen. Bildsoa is named Governor pro tem.

MAILS FROM ROSARIO.

IMPORTANT FROM THE INTERIOR.

ARRIVAL OF THE 70th OF THE LINE.

MUTINY OF THE JUJUY BATTALION.

The Solis brings the Ferro-Carval of Friday and flies from the upper Provinces.

Governor Oroño arrived in Rosario on Thursday evening, having left D. Tiburcio Aldao as Governor pro tem at Santa Fe: he will remain some time at the former city. Dr. Costa arrived in the Solis on Wednesday from B. Ayres, and put up at the Hotel de la Paz, intending to proceed in a few days to the seat of war. Sr. La Fuente had also arrived, en route for Cordoba, but is erroneously stated to be returning to Corrientes. Gen. Paunero arrived from Paraguay on Saturday, en route for B. Ayres. The 70th of the Line arrived by rail from Fray Bentos on Monday, probably en route for Paraguay. A young woman named Maria Transito Arias, found guilty of infanticide, has been sentenced to 8 years service in the city hospital. Maximo Perez and Dolores Dominguez are sentenced, the former to military service and the latter to 12 months in the hospital, for stealing goods from a bullock-cart. A fight occurred last Sunday between some "troperos" in which one got badly wounded. The Government has granted a subsidy of $20 a month for a school in the Esperanza Colony. The plots of public land at San Lorenzo, are to be at once put up for sale. The Ferro-Carval has an article on the delivery of the rail way-lands to Mr. Wheelwright.

We have dates, Cordoba, Oct. 12; Jujuy, Sept. 20; and Tucuman, Sept. 30.

The Norte of Santiago gives an account of the mutiny of the escort of the Jujuy contingent on arriving at Santiago.

"On Wednesday evening the town was thrown into alarm by a call of the National Guards to arms, with a rumor that the Jujuy contingent, encamped near the Helen Church, had mutinied. It was known that the escort was armed, and feared that bloodshed must ensue if an attempt were made to overpower the rioters. At 4 p.m. 100 citizens, with muskets and ammunition, marched out to meet them; meantime Colonel Rodriguez succeeded in preventing the mutiny spreading among the contingent, and disarmed the rioters. Handcuffing them and sending them into prison. The cause of the mutiny was, that the escort did not wish to go any further. The contingent, accordingly, continued its march yesterday, under an escort from Santiago."

Bishop Gelber is making a visitation of the provinces, and expected at Concepcion to-day.

The accounts published from headquarters are very gloomy.
