THE NEW MUNICIPAL ELIXIR. In the multitude of advertisements which crowd our columns, where wants are supplied, money cared for, cash advanced, and almost every ailment which afflicts humanity remedied, it doubtless must seem strange that no genius starts up with a patent, say an 'elixir of energy,' which, if well shaken before taken, would infuse into the exhausted members of our Municipality a new vitality, to render them equal to the duties of their office. Within the compass of a single morning edition of our journal may be found evidences the most incontrovertible, of the noble ambition of a few to cater for the wants of the many. Have we not candidates for every description of situation, and situations for every kind of candidate, railways, omnibuses, and steamboats for those who wish to travel; hotels and lodging-houses for those who prefer to stay at home; estancias, with sheep, cows, and horses for those who think of investing; and auctioneers and Barracas de Feria for those who sigh to sell out. There are tempting chances offering daily for people who have made a fortune; whilst, on the other hand, is there not the Bond market open for those who have that pleasure before them?

Holloway, up to the end of last year, published daily in our columns cures for every sublimity affliction, and when we flung up this newspaper incubus, did not Lanman and Kemp of New York come to the rescue, and with alluring paragraphs and captivating plates, point to their mode of alleviating human distress? Can men be so wilfully blind as to shut their eyes to all these unceasing efforts for the amelioration of our race? There is no disguising the fact, that if evils exist and woes afflict us, without a remedy or a cure, in this age of publicity and printing ink, it must be because they are endured in privacy or nursed in secrecy.

On the wings of our daily issue, and on the pinions of the Standard, let us proclaim to the world our wants and requirements, in the certain hope that before three days are about, some genius, in the advertising line, will start from the fathomless depth of River Plate enterprise, and publish in the most becoming style a cure, an antilote, or a remedy.

Of all the tasks which call for a display of tact, genius, and style, none are more exigent than that of the advertiser. Half the success of an article in this market depends upon its 'debut.' Who has forgotten the unspeakable delight, the thrilling satisfaction, when the immortal Kerosene man, like another Aladdin, first visited this city: half the rising population of the Plate danced with the joyous enthusiasm of satisfaction, when the enigmatical advertisement, 'it will be opened' was solved, that short notice sprung a mine for our friends, and to this very hour the oil keeps flowing.

There is a fortune awaiting any of our hair-dressers who can patent a bear's grease, which applied to the heads of some of our Municipales would give them brains, action and energy.

What is the big prize in the lottery to such an invention? Why, every man, woman, and child in this city would buy it up, no matter what the price. And whole cartloads of the compound would be left at some of their doors, if the thing was only once properly brought before the public. But there is the rub. There is an art in advertising, which as yet is imperfectly understood in this city.

It is generally admitted that pain, or the fear of pain, is the most active advertising stimulant, for it has even been remarked that the boldest appeals to credulity have been made by those who profess to cure diseases. Next come those who offer to improve personal appearance. What would our readers think of the following, a la HOLLANDER:—

"Archimedes whilst bathing solved a difficult problem, which so delighted him that he jumped out of the bath and ran through the streets of Syracuse."

"There are many problems in Municipal questions very difficult to explain, but Professor J. B. Painaway has by the pre-eminent virtues of his 'Riachuelo Balsam,' solved the real difficulty. The Riachuelo Balsam is a sovereign remedy for bodily and mental decay, and particularly effective in all stomach complaints. Then to carry greater notice there should be a trial given. For instance:—Take a dog, a hen or a sheep accustomed to the Boca atmosphere, dip the subject three times in most foetid water of the Riachuelo, drive a nail through the skull, brains and tongue, then pour the balsam into the wound; it will directly stop the blood and cure the wound; in nine minutes the creature will get up and walk and eat as before. For sale at all the principal druggists in the Boca and town.

Again why not patent a River Plate Etherizing Syrup, a spoonful taken every morning in a cup of the commonest dirty water sold by the cartmen through town, will dispel the animalcules, turn the repulsive liquid into a clear crystal color, and produce a nectarine taste. To be had at the corner where the water men pay their Municipal tax.

We have read of elixirs in Europe of the most fabulous potency; why not introduce them here. There is a story extant of a German girl who having remarked that her mistress possessed an elixir which restored youth, took advantage of her absence and drank so much of this potent draught that she was suddenly changed into a small baby. Now who knows but some alchemist from the Rhine could favor us with an elixir for the old fogies who stand in the way of every Municipal improvement. All hail to the Seer who can produce such; we offer to advertise free gratis and for nothing, and even to get up a splendid plate at the head of the notice representing an aged Municipal standing on the river side, surrounded with dead fish and empty 'vasnra' carts, on his coat-tails in large letters Riachuelochaintanthropopoison; whilst in the distance is a young man driving through well paved streets, jet d'eau in the Plazas, and empty bottles of the mixture in the wagon. A colossal fortune awaits the man who will introduce this Municipal elixir.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

No steamer from Montevideo yesterday, although by telegraph we had been told that the steamer for Buenos Ayres would leave on Tuesday night without fail. This singular irregularity in the Montevideo mails is highly inconvenient. The Telegraph Company is, however, in consequence doing a splendid business, and our friend, Mr. Furze, is one of the hardest-worked men in town.

As for news, there is so much talked of about sickness and epidemics, that it is difficult to keep such matters from too prominent a place in filling our columns: people going out to the camp, some on account of the sickness, others for the Holy Week, is the news on all sides. From the Provinces no mails whatever. Hard times for the unfortunate editors, who must write against time and space.

The National Government, we hear, has determined to promote every officer who fought in the battle of San Ignacio. Our friend Campos, who displayed such heroism, will probably receive a very high grade.

A gentleman, who during the prevalence of the yellow fever resided in Montevideo, states that the real cause of the very healthy state of that city at present, is solely owing to the thorough cleansing which that town got at that time. The epidemic raged in Montevideo from February to June, and during all that time, although the whole population prayed morning, noon, and night for a thunder-storm, with a 'pampero,' it never came, and our friend assures us that whilst the cleansing of the town was going on, there was no diminution in the mortality. We cannot, therefore, expect much improvement until the cleansing in the different parishes is concluded, which, we suppose, will be this week. The Government in view of the state of things in town has ordered a suspension of the customary Holy Week rules, respecting the horses, carts, milkmen, &c. This is the first time for years that such an innovation has been attempted, but the exigencies of the times demand it, and we highly approve of the Government order. It is our melancholy duty to chronicle the demise of Sr. Dn. Estevan Rams. Few men have passed from amongst us more deserving of an obituary notice than this lamented gentleman, who, on the eve of his departure for the Salado, was stricken down by the withering epidemic which at present afflicts this city. Sr. Rams was a native of Catalonia, and came to this country about forty years ago. For many years deceased figured as a merchant in Paraná, where he married a lady of a well-known Entre Riano family. At the battle of Caseros we find Mr. Rams the army contractor for the Liberal party; and since the fall of Rosas, deceased concentrated all his talents and abilities in his great life dream—the navigation of the Rio Salado. Immediately preceding his death, he was constantly employed in preparing his little steamer and chafas for his expedition, which we believe are now finished and ready; but the chief and main supporter of this enterprise is now gone, and it is barely possible that the scheme will ever be carried out, at least in this century. The Argentine Republic may well mourn the loss of such a distinguished champion of progress as Dn. Estevan Rams. He was linked almost with every enterprise calculated to advance his adopted country, and we condole with his afflicted family in their sorrow.

President Mitre has named Dr. José Manuel la Fuente to act 'pro tem.' during the illness of the Sub-Secretary of War, Sr. Moreno. The opening of the Argentine Bank in this city has been postponed until the 1st of May. The Manager or President of the new Bank has sent in his resignation of the post which he has so long filled in the Government-house. Dn. Julio Campos has been named his successor.

Immediately preceding the departure of the steamer Cisno for Buenos Ayres, a Brazilian transport with wounded, entered Corrientes. It would seem from this that there has been another fight, about which there is not a single word said. Some of the wounded died on board, and the corpses were thrown into the river in front of the town, which caused great excitement.

Private letters from Corrientes distinctly state that the Marquez Casias is only awaiting the arrival of Marshal Osorio to make a general attack on the enemy. Immense preparations have been going on; even extra supplies of beef have been ordered. All in Corrientes believe we are on the eve of a terrible battle.

It is generally supposed that the steamer from the Uruguay, due yesterday, passed on to Montevideo and avoided touching at this port, in order to escape quarantine in Montevideo. The up steamer from Montevideo also due here must have passed our port early. It is surprising however that the mails were not sent on board the Ponton.

A call has been made on the railways to reduce their fares in consequence of the number of poor people at present leaving town. We suppose the Western Railway will set the example.

The Municipality has at last passed an excellent decree, namely, the burning of the 'vasnra' or city filth. In some of the streets of the South Plaza the whole surface is covered with every description of filth; of course in these neighbourhoods sickness is very rife. Right in front of Mr. Prange's barrack is another scavenger depot: the people complain about it, but there seems to be no relief, the Municipal decree is therefore well timed. In Corrientes we hear that the authorities have each night large fires lighted in the streets, and in the Boca the same plan is being adopted.

General Flores is, we learn, at present in front of this city, at Colonia, inspecting Mr. King's docks and wharves, which we hear is a masterly piece of workmanship. Several vessels of war are also at that port, so the little town notwithstanding its monstrous quarantine regulations must be very gay.

From Zarate we learn that Don Estanislao La Torre has been elected Provincial Deputy after some slight opposition. There are about 1000 horses for the army there waiting to be sent up.

The Patagonian steamer leaves today. We understand that she takes down a large number of Englishmen who leave to explore that distant territory. Since the departure of Mr. Jones for the Chuput we have heard nothing from the Welsh Colony, but it is rumoured that the whole Colony is about to migrate to Messrs. Aguirre and Muirga's estancia.

Mr. Thomas Allen leaves to survey the new line of railway to the Salinas. We have received a sample of the celebrated Glycerine Sheep-wash, imported by Messrs. Moore, Punch, & Tudor. It is strongly recommended for sheep suffering from lice, and kills instantaneously all insects by which sheep are infested. The price is $5 mpc. per pound, from which a large quantity of strong solution can be prepared, by simply dissolving the Glycerine in water; seventy pound serve for one hundred sheep, and as the price is so moderate we advise our goat-head farmers to give it a trial. Most of our present sheep-washes contain very deadly poisons and consequently highly injurious to the shepherds, the Glycerine is quite free from any poisonous matter, though instantly destructive to all parasites such as the scab.

Dr. Rubini's remedy which we give in another column is prepared exactly by Messrs. Torres and Barton: 2,000 bottles have already been disposed of by these gentlemen, who present them gratis to the poor. In every case it has proved highly efficacious in all who have taken it in time.

THE WAR IN THE NORTH

OBSERVATIONS OF THE ENEMY'S LINES FROM THE ARGENTINE WATCH TOWER AT TUYUTI. April 4th 1867. Nothing new in the advanced guards. The enemy commenced operations at daybreak with a round of shells, our guns in the Laguna Piris answered the challenge and a heavy fire was kept up during the day. The evening is quiet but observations rendered impracticable, by reason of the dense smoke of some Paraguayan huts, set fire to by the Brazilian cannonade.

5th. No fighting to-day. The enemy have made no attack and the Brazilians are too busy at the defenses which promise soon to rival those of Curupaity.

6th. The Paraguayans show more life to-day and their cavalry are early on the stir. A harum scarum attack was expected but it was only to change camp for the horses, towards night they return to their old position in the centre.

7th. At noon an officer accompanied by four mounted orderlies proceed with a flag of truce to the enemy's camp, they are the bearers of important despatches from Buenos Ayres to the American Minister at Asuncion. When midway, they are met by an equal number of Lopez satellites to whom they deliver the documents and without waiting for an answer return to our lines. Not a spark of hostility was shown by either party and the night is passed in the same quiet way.

8th. The same quiet reigns around, not even the fleet attempts to break the peace. All respect the white flag; it soothes the fiercest passions and for long after it has disappeared neither party like to desecrate its memory by being the first to open hostilities.

9th. The enemy's cavalry are miserably mounted, the riders are encumbered with little more than a long sword whilst the quadrupeds, i. e. mares horses, asses &c. are half-starved. In the vain hope of getting fonder they scour the field right and left, to-day they approached us but made no attack.

10th. With the first streak of morn, the squadron bombards the fort, the woods are filled with the defiant shouts of the garison even here it is distinctly audible. The Imperial marines are maddened at a sound which painfully recalls so many days labor lost and the iron shower is renewed with vigor but without eliciting other response. At 10 am a deserter is brought in, he presents a sad spectacle, old emaciated, and quite naked like his companions in arms. He reports himself a foot sergeant in his country's army and says that Lopez promises a speedy termination to all their sufferings by a durable peace. The fleet have never ceased firing the whole day. The out posts have taken up their positions for the night which promises to pass without bloodshed.

Temperance versus TEETOTALISM.

It is an uncontrovertible fact that the most harmless substance, if used immoderately, will eventually produce a deleterious effect on the human system. Thus coffee if indulged to excess, will often produce a species of intoxication, or partial derangement of the mental faculties. Tea, the beverage which 'cheers but not inebriates,' in an equal case, exercises a very harmful influence on the nervous system, deteriorating its organization and paralyzing its vigor; and in fact, every article of human food or drink will prove noxious if not used in moderation.

But it has never occurred to any one to denounce coffee or tea as highly injurious, or attempt to persuade the public to abstain from their use for the reasons we have already set forth. Why then should wine whose use is sanctioned by the scriptures and may be said to be the most ancient and therefore most venerable beverage extant be so fiercely denounced as a thing of evil, a vile compound of Satan, because its excessive use by persons deficient in moral courage works much misery and woe? Is it at all fair that because some love it 'not wisely but to well' others who can enjoy its use in moderation should be classified as being worse than their less fortunate fellow-creatures, and be told they are in a fair way of becoming children of darkness if they do not abstain? Peaches, as is well known, contains a certain proportion of Prussic Acid one of the most deadly poisons of modern times. Nevertheless would not he be considered deficient of common sense who would proclaim the necessity of abstaining from that delicious fruit because too many of them might destroy your life? We hold that moderation in all things is not only good, but in fact necessary for the preservation of health; and that on the same principle intemperance is highly dangerous; yet we would never for a moment entertain the idea of counselling any one not to eat or drink at all for that reason; for even if any one could accept our advice, and chamolón-like endeavor to draw a substance from that compound of oxygen carbonic acid &c. known as Air, too much of that even might be injurious to his bodily health.

Apart from these considerations there are other reasons why wine should not be banished from the hands of man, such for instance as the great utility as a stimulant for medicinal purposes or what more agreeable or reviving to the convalescent than a glass of the much-abused beverage—what more useful to his debilitated system? Let wine be suppressed and the science of curing loses a potent auxiliary for its recognised utility especially during the period of convalescence is too universally admitted to be denied.

The benumbed wayfarer, who, plodding through the trackless wastes of snow of the north, imbibes courage and strength from his brandy-flask, has reason to be thankful that the Supreme Being who holds our lives in his keeping has given him the means wherewith to counteract the icy cold which were it not for that would most probably freeze his heart's blood, and cause him to find a snowy grave. The wayfarer, who surmounting the Alps finds his strength leaving him and sinks exhausted on the ice-covered rocks, when discovered by one of those trusty and generous dogs for which the Monastery of Mt. St. Bernard is so justly famed and who when partly revived from his benumbed stupor hesitates not to grasp the flask of 'eau de vie' which the faithful animal carries suspended from his neck and drains its strength giving contents; should not he feel grateful to the influence or should he stop to consider that because it worked much misery among men of weak minds he must faint curse the liquid which rescued him from death's door.

But we must conclude our already too lengthy argument, notwithstanding before we do so we feel obliged to distinctly state that though opposed to total abstinence we are friends and ardent advocates of Temperance rightly understood, or in other words moderation in all-things.

FAIR-PLAY.

CURE FOR CHOLERA.

The Cholera having broken out in England, we think it our duty to call attention to the following remedy, which has been most successfully applied in Italy:—

With "saturated Spirits of Camphor," Dr. Rubini, an eminent Italian physician, and four of his colleagues, have treated in Naples 592 cases of Asiatic cholera without the loss of a single patient. Of these 592 cases, 200 were cured in the Royal Alms House; 11 in the Royal Poor House, and 166 in the 3rd Swiss Regiment of Wolf. That the 377 cases treated by Dr. Rubini in the public institutions were all genuine cases of Asiatic cholera, and some "terribly severe," and that all recovered, the evidence of the following distinguished individuals, with their official seals attached, sufficiently attest:—II Generale Governatore Ricci; II Maggiore Commandante Nicola Forri; II Capitano Commandante Carlo Sodero; Generale Commandante Pileppo Ruccei; Colonel Eduardo Wolf. The method of cure is as follows:—"When a man is seized with cholera, he should at once," says Rubini, "lie down, be well wrapped up in blankets, and take, every five minutes, four drops of the saturated tincture of camphor." In very severe cases the dose ought to be increased from five to twenty drops every five minutes. In the case of a man of advanced age, accustomed to take wine and spirits, where the drug given in drops has no effect, give a small coffee-spoonful every five minutes, and in a very short time the coveted reaction will occur. Ordinarily, in two, three, or four hours abundant perspiration will come out, and then cure will follow."

"The preventive method," writes Dr. Rubini, "is thus:—Let those who are in good health, while living in accordance with their usual habits, take every day five drops of the saturated spirits of camphor upon a small lump of sugar (water must never be used as a medium, or the camphor will become solid, and its curative properties cease) and repeat the dose three or four times a day. Spices, aromatic herbs, coffee, tea, and spirituous liquors should be avoided." Dr. Rubini allows his patients to drink cold water in small quantities at short intervals; and when the reactionary fever had passed off, he allows a little light broth and farinaceous diet.

The ordinary spirits of camphor of the British Pharmacopoeia consists of one part by weight of camphor to nine parts of spirits of wine; whereas Dr. Rubini's preparation consists of equal parts by weight of camphor and spirits, and to the power thus obtained he attributes his success in the treatment of this disease. To obtain the "saturated spirits of camphor" of Rubini, it is necessary to distil spirits of wine, and get rid of so much of its water as will bring it to sixty degrees overproof, in which condition it will dissolve and hold in solution its own weight of camphor.

TREASURE TROVE EXTRAORDINARY.

Several years ago a little German Jew, named Schwartz, believing that in the sewers of New York might be found many articles of value which had been lost, entered them, and for three days wandered through the labyrinth. He was very successful, picking up some $27,000 worth of jewellery, spoons, forks, &c.; but having lost his way the first day, he believed that he might have found much more could he have carried out the original plan, which was so visit Fifth and Madison avenues, Broadway and the wealthy portion of the city. So great, however, were the difficulties and dangers which he encountered, that nothing could induce him again to visit "New-York underground." His adventure for a time created quite a litesensation, but there was no one venturesome enough to attempt a second, until Wednesday of last week, when an adventurous party of three entered the sewer of Houston street, at the ferry on East River, intending to remain for one week, during which time they proposed visiting every portion of the city where there seemed to be any chance of finding treasure trove. The party consisted of Miss Mary Walker, a young lady of eighteen, her brother James, aged sixteen, and Michael Grady, an old man of about fifty. The project originated with Miss Walker, and the "how" of it is in this wise: Some two years ago James Walker, jr., was a merchant, doing a good business at 99 1/2 Bowery. He was getting rich fast, but in an evil hour he was prevailed upon by friends (?) to use some of his money which had been "salted down," in speculation in gold. The result was easy to be foreseen. He lost. To recover he took money from his business. Again he lost. His business became embarrassed; in despair he committed suicide, and Miss Walker and her brother found themselves six months ago the inhabitants of a room on the upper floor of a double tenement, 209 Sixth street.

Miss Walker, some months ago, in an old paper, wrapped around a parcel which she was taking home from a 'shop-shop' saw an account of Schartz's undertaking and resolved to imitate it. Maps were obtained and the city studied carefully. Each day's work for herself, her brother and Grady, who was formerly in her father's employ, was carefully marked out. Every preparation which limited knowledge could prepare for was made and the adventurers started. I wish that I might have room to tell the story of the week they passed, but my manuscript warns me that I must condense. Each day they rendezvoused several times in the chambers at the street corners. On Sunday they had filled all the bags they had taken with them, some fifteen in number, and Miss Walker returned. James Walker and Grady continued their search, emptying six of their bags at the corner of Twenty second street and Fifth avenue. On Wednesday morning at a very early hour and before people were stirring, Miss Walker was at the place with a wagon. On removing the front plate, which at each street corner leads into a small chamber connecting with the sewer, she found her brother, but not Grady. He had started off on another trip, although the six bags had been filled in Madison avenue. The loose treasure was placed in extra bags and the whole driven to a Broadway jeweller's. The rest were taken from the places on Thursday morning. A watch was set for Grady, but up to this time of writing nothing has been heard from him, and it is feared that he has perished. The result of the week's search is roughly estimated at $1,500,000.

I saw the treasures yesterday piled in three heaps on the floor, and the jeweller informed me that it must have cost over $3,000,000 but in consequence of the old fashioned style of setting, its bruised, battered, and corroded condition, its value was reduced about one-half. A little over a bushel (how queer it sounds to talk of jewellery by the bushel) has been sorted, and among it has been found one diamond ring valued at $16,000, two more valued at $3,000, and upwards. The most curious is a plain gold ring, inscribed on the inside in Dutch "Peter Stuyvesant to wife." It is an heir-loom of the Stuyvesants, and was stolen, with other jewellery, last March, by burglars. How it came in the sewer is a problem for philosophers to speculate about. Miss Walker and her brother, who find themselves thus lifted suddenly from penury to great wealth, intend to proceed to England, where they have relatives. This adventure is talked of every where, and already there are others preparing to follow in their footsteps.

MR. JOHN FRANCIS MAGUIRE.

Most of our city readers are aware by this time that time that Mr. John Francis Maguire, M.P. of Cork, is now in our city. Mr. Maguire is staying at the Astor House, and intends making New York his headquarters for the remainder of his stay in America. He is to sail for home on the 20th of March, and proposes, in the interim, to visit Albany, Boston, and some other cities, in pursuance of the object for which he crossed the Atlantic—viz, to examine the condition and position of the Irish people in America. Mr. Maguire is now completing a tour of North America, which, owing to the necessity of being present in London for certain important debates during the present session of Parliament, he must shorten considerably. From all parts of the provinces and of the States which Mr. Maguire has visited we have received the most favorable accounts of the impression he made, and for ourselves we can bear witness to his fine social qualities and gentlemanly bearing. During the few days Mr. Maguire has been in New York, he has already made warm friends, and won the esteem and respect of all who have made his acquaintance. From Mr. Maguire's truly honourable antecedents, as a distinguished and independent member of the British Parliament, and an earnest, uncompromising advocate of Irish rights at home, he is entitled to the respect of the Irish people abroad, and wherever he has yet gone in America, they have honoured themselves as well as him by showing him public and private hospitality. If we know anything of the Irishmen of New York they will not be behind their compatriots in the other cities in extending a cordial welcome to their distinguished countryman. We beg to remind them, however, that the opportunity for doing so will soon pass away, perhaps for ever, and that Mr. Maguire sails for Europe on the 20th of March. Will our Irish friends remember, once for all, that by honouring such an Irishman as John Francis Maguire they honour themselves, the noble city of which he is the worthy representative in the House of Commons, and the country to whose service he has honestly devoted the best years of his life? Let them show that they know how to honour those of their own race who really deserve honour and respect.

New York Tablet.

THE BRITISH HOSPITAL.

The Committee of the British Hospital feel deeply the responsibility which the present visitation of cholera entails upon them, and are endeavoring by every possible provision to support and further the plans of the skillful medical superintendent for the treatment of all cases admitted to the Hospital stricken with the prevalent disease.

The Committee are fully alive to the necessity of considering in the present juncture the case of ordinary patients not attacked with cholera. Dr. Reid has for the present placed all the cases yet admitted in the wards in the south wing, which is cut off from all unnecessary communication with the other portions of the building. He has, however, impressed on the Committee the need of further and separate provision for the reception of cholera cases. The Committee had already taken means to ascertain the cost of a wooden building suitable for the purpose. This they have now determined on erecting at once, in accordance with Dr. Reid's recommendation, and they hope to have a sufficiently capable building ready for occupation in a very brief period, which may also be available as a fever ward if occasion require—hereafter.

The Committee think that the British community will recognise the advisability of not trespassing on the Building Fund for the present unlooked-for need more than can be avoided, and will at once come forward with bated consideration, promptness, and generosity to furnish them with special means to meet the existing special want.

NORTHERN RAILWAY.

17th April, 1867. To the Editors of the Standard. Dear Sir: I am a regular traveller on the above line, but none of those who make a practice of finding fault with every small irregularity, of which they generally ignore the motive and which often cannot be avoided. Nevertheless, I think it right to point out to you the following gross mismanagement, hoping that through the influence of your journal it may be speedily remedied. Last night the 5 o'clock train arrived at the Tigre at 6.40, that is to say fully 20 minutes behind time—owing not to any accident on the road or to the engine, but exclusively to the great stoppages at every station where goods had to be discharged. For San Isidro there was a whole wagon full of cargo, at San Fernando the same thing happened, the goods consisting of pipes of wine, heavy cases, &c., which it took more than 10 minutes to discharge. Now, if there is such a large goods traffic, the Company ought to put on a goods train, or at least make arrangements that the freight waggons be left behind at the respective stations to be discharged at leisure. The patience of the passengers, and principally those of the Tigre, is already sufficiently taxed by the ordinary delays and long time allotted to the trains, and they should not be additionally annoyed by such inexcusable extra delays as I have cited.

Believe me, dear Sir, Yours, &c., A SUBSCRIBER.

STATE OF THE SOUTH PLAZA. To the Editors of the Standard. Gentlemen, I avail myself of your valuable journal which has ever been foremost in the denunciation of abuses, to lay before the public the disgraceful nuisance, to which the inhabitants of the south market are subject.

To add to the generally neglected and filthy state of the Plaza which is strewn with animal and vegetable remains from calle Caeceros to Lima in front the baraca ferro carril. At the time I ventured to remonstrate and since then have frequently called on Mr. José Herrera, who is personally superintending the work, to all my importunities I received the same response, the rain has of course filled the ditch and the effluvia and exhalations from this scandalous cesspool, is the cause of great sickness—I demand of the municipality that this place be at once filled up.

Yours, A BARRAQUERO. A CARD FOR THE DRESSING-ROOM.

Ladies, your attention is invited to the especial advantages of Murray and Lanman's Florida Water over every other perfume. It is manufactured from fresh floral extracts, not from unwholesome chemical combinations intended to counterfeit their odors. Besides being the most delicate and delightful of floral water, it has important sanitary recommendations. Its aroma relieves headache, prevents fainting fits, promotes sleep, and soothes the nerves. Infused into the bath, it renders it more invigorating and refreshing. Combined with water, it imparts whiteness to the teeth, preserves the enamel, and renders the gums hard and rosy. No other toilet-water retains its fragrance so long after contact with the atmosphere. Purchasers are requested to see that the words "Florida Water, Murray and Lanman, No. 69 Water-street, New York," are stamped in the glass on each bottle. Without this none is genuine.

ON 'CHANGE. April 17, 1867. Sovereigns $400 Patcoons 25 National Bonds 62 1/2 Cash sales, 18,000. There was very little business done on 'Change to-day, and the attendance on the Bols was unusually thin. Bonds scarcely fluctuated, but the market closed rather dry, as very few outsiders are buying the bears anticipate a fall, but holders are not in want of money, and consequently prices do not give way.

The sales to-day were as follows: FOR CASH. 5,000 52 1/2 13,000 62 1/2 Total cash sales, 18,000. For Saturday 48,000 52 1/2 April 30th 17,000 52 1/2 June 30th 10,000 53 Total sales for the day, 119,000. In the wool plazas there was nothing done to-day, owing to the rain last night, and business generally lull extremely dull.

In Exchange we heard of one transaction, £12,000 sterling, at 4 1/2, which is the opening rate for the packet.

The Original Chlorodyne. According to the most distinguished Medical Men of the Old World there has not yet been discovered a remedy equal to Chlorodyne in checking Cholera. It has been tried in numberless individual cases, in places where Cholera abounds—as in India and the East Indies, and it has been never known to fail when taken at the outset of the disease. Innumerable testimonials of its efficacy could be given, such as that of the English Consul at Bombay, and of the Hon. and hundreds of others of the principal Doctors in the World; but it is useless enumerating them now, it is sufficient to say that the undersigned is purely actuated by humane motives, and as such cannot fail to recommend this remedy as the precautionary measure of having Chlorodyne always on hand. No family should be without it in times like these, as the most uninitiated can administer it with the greatest safety, and to whom immediate application should be made, for though this remedy is considered superior to all other Preventatives, too much precaution cannot be taken. In Bottles of $10, $20, $30, and $50, to be had at CRANWELL'S, CHEMIST, 30-CALLE RIVADAVIA—30. 88 1/2 p. 147
