THE SALADERO QUESTION.

On the Utilization of the Blood and other waste animal matter of the Saladeros.

For some weeks past I have felt that the present is a most opportune time for ventilating this subject.

In a long series of experiments, made in England to discover a mode of 'meat preservation' superior to the present saladero system...

ARGENTINE MINES.

The mineral wealth of the Argentine Republic is very considerable, and gave rise to the appellation of 'La Plata,' or 'Silver,' bestowed on these regions by the early Spaniards.

The mines of the country, however, have been very imperfectly developed; and incomplete traces of having been worked during the period the country was under the Spanish dominion.

The immense tracts of country, however, that must be traversed, in order to reach the mining districts, and the great scarcity of labour to be met with in them, added to a deficiency of smelting establishments...

Only a few years ago 2,000 tons of ore, extracted in one district alone, and averaging upwards of 200 ounces of pure metal to the ton of ley, were thrown away, from the impossibility of utilizing it.

The mines in the Province of La Rioja contain gold, silver, copper, iron and nickel. They are considered amongst the richest in the Republic...

The mines in the Province of San Juan contain gold, silver, and argenteo lead. They are being worked, on a limited scale, by different English, German and native Companies.

'El Morado' is the name given to a mine from which gold is extracted, on an average 10 ounces of the precious metal to the Spanish ton.

The Province of Mendoza is rich in gold mines, and in that of Catamarca copper is largely extracted, and found to contain an admixture of the more precious metal.

The quantity of Catamarca copper exported yearly from the port of Buenos Ayres shows a remarkable increase on the last few years over the earlier ones...

Total export of Copper from port of Buenos Ayres.

It is estimated that the lowest produce, to make the working remunerative, would be from 8 to 12 marcs per 5,000 lbs...

The greatest depth to which any mine has been worked had been about 300 feet.

ARGENTINE COLONIES.

A party of Americans from California have lately received concessions and are actively engaged in the cultivation of a portion of the territory called the 'Gran Chaco,' which is situated on the banks of the River Paraná...

Another newly projected colony, in the neighbourhood of the city of Rosario, has received the name of 'San José de la Esquina,' where 50 acres of land will be given to any person who will cultivate...

In the Province of San Juan, at a place called Las Marayas, a coal bed exists extending over a circumference of 9 miles, and averaging in depth that of an English coal mine.

The quality of it is considered to be superior to that found at Copiapó in Chile, and has been calculated to contain, according to an analysis made of a specimen taken from the surface, the following proportions:

Table with 2 columns: Gases and volatiles, file matter, Water, Coke, Ashes. Values range from 29.70 to 100.00.

This coal bed has not been worked as yet. In the same district as the one in which the coal has been found sulphur has likewise been met with in great abundance.
