FRIDAY, JUNE 28, 1867.
OLIVE TELEGRAM.
Montevideo, June 27, 8.30 a.m.

The French packet Anis in.
The Mexicans have shot Maximilian and sixty generals.
Donstl, from Liverpool, sighted yesterday; in danger of being lost then at the Punta Carretas.

DEATH OF THE EMPEROR MAXIMILIAN.

A telegram yesterday morning from Montevideo, on the arrival of the French packet, brought us the melancholy intelligence that after the fall of Queretaro the Emperor Maximilian and 66 of his faithful friends and officers were shot by the Republicans under Juarez. Thus perished the 3rd Emperor of Mexico: the first, Montezuma, was murdered in 1520, in the war of conquest by the Spaniards; the second, Iturbide, was hanged at Padilla in 1824. There seems a fatality inseparable from the Mexican throne, and it is worthy of remark that Maximilian had embodied the sons of his unfortunate predecessor and declared the youthful Iturbide heir to the imperial purple, failing direct lawful issue.

The 3rd Mexican empire has had a troubled existence of three years, and its downfall now leaves the country plunged in the same abyss of anarchy, bloodshed and confusion as before. The sympathies of Europe will be warmly and unanimously given to the deceased prince, who possessed the noblest qualities that can adorn a good and great man, and was reputed one of the wisest rulers of the age.

Maximilian, Archduke of Austria and brother to the Emperor Francis Joseph, was born at Vienna on July 6th 1832. He was the founder of the Austrian navy, and while yet young gave every evidence of talent and energy, establishing dock-yards, building war-vessels, and creating a powerful marine for the empire. But his genius was even more fully called into play in the arduous post of Viceroy of Lombardy and Venise: so admirably did he organize the various branches of administration, so ably conciliate the prejudices of his Italian subjects, that his memory is still affectionately preserved at Milan, and even Italian journalists admit his rare administrative skill and capacity. In 1857 he married the Princess Charlotte, daughter of Leopold I. and sister to the present king of the Belgians, who, moreover, brought him a large dowry. On his retirement from the Viceroyalty of Lombardy he settled in Austria, resuming his high station at the Court of Vienna. Hitherto his career was most fortunate and glorious, but a change came over his destiny in connection with the affairs of Mexico, which he would seem to have almost foreseen when we remember the apparent reluctance with which he accepted the offered throne. The French expedition of 1863 proving successful, the Emperor Napoleon urged the Archduke to take charge of the newly projected empire; a deputation of Mexican magnates, bearing the Plebiscite for his election, at length prevailed on him (April 10th 1864) to ascend the throne of Iturbide, protected by 30,000 French bayonets. Before 12 months the empire seemed fairly established, Juarez and his followers being driven to Chihuahua; but financial difficulties soon began, and the avowed hostility of the U. States Government, and filibuster operations of sundry adventurers after the subjugation of the Southern States, hastened a crisis that resulted in the withdrawal of the French troops. Our readers will remember the sad fatality of last year, when the Empress Charlotte lost her reason owing to the multiplied dangers that beset her husband and the imperial throne. We cannot fail to admire the heroism of the ill-fated Maximilian, who supported this new and severe trial, as well as the withdrawal of the French troops, and scorned to seek safety in flight, while perils thickened around him. He had sworn to maintain the Mexican empire and consult the well-being of his adopted people: with a small band of Austrian and Belgian followers, and an army of Mexican imperialists, he resolved to meet his fate nobly. We learn from N. York papers that the victorious republicans offered to spare his life, but he would accept no terms unless the lives of his faithful friends and officers were also guaranteed. The rest is soon told. Queretaro fell, after a close siege, and Maximilian and 66 of his officers were shot. The unfortunate Emperor was in his 35th year, and, we believe, leaves no issue; his distracted widow, who is confined in her castle of Miramara, will hardly ever recover her reason. It is to be regretted, for the sake of humanity, that Mr. Seward's advice had no weight with the sanguinary Mexicans, although if Maximilian's life were spared he had, in deed little to live for, after the loss of a beloved wife and a throne that had cost him so many sorrows.

It is in truth a sad tale, and one of the most melancholy episodes of history. Maximilian leaves an unblemished reputation for wisdom and magnanimity. Mexico has lost the only good ruler she ever had, at least in modern times. The Monroe doctrine has received a very decided confirmation; but poor human nature is disgraced by so bloody and barbarous termination to the last effort to civilize the country and people of Mexico.

SHIP-MASTERS' GRIEVANCES IN BUENOS AYRES.

The annoyances and inconveniences which beset ship-captains on arriving at this port have ever been the subject of complaint, but of late they are so on the increase that it is felt some remedy should be applied; for the abuse, besides robbing the poor captains of their freight money, tends to create in Europe such an infamous name for the River Plate that freights and insurance have considerably risen. Midshipman Easy himself would have lost temper and self-possession if he ever put foot in Buenos Ayres; and the sorrows of poor Japhet in search of a father were as nothing when compared with the afflictions of a poor captain who is obliged to buy stone ballast in Martin Garcia to make his escape from the port.

We feel morally certain that if Pres. Mitre or his Ministers ever heard the deep-toned anathemas of the ship-captains who arrive at this port he and they would imitate our friend Don Marcos Paz and at once resign; in fact, if the truth be told, we believe the Vice-President had no other cause for retiring from office than the constant and unmeasured abuse of these weather-beaten and injured men. The sad truisms of the free-spoken ship-captain, as he sits at some of the shops on the beach, are too galling for publication. But the President of this country must be blind indeed if he is unaware of the scandalous and unprecedented port abuses which, to the disgrace of the National Government, not only exist but are on the increase. If Buenos Ayres were like Switzerland it could not be more destitute of shipping laws and regulations; in fact the framers of the Constitution, the legislators of the country, Dr. Velez Sarsfield himself, seem all to have overlooked the shipping interest, and left the most necessary and important branch of trade without the shelter of a law or the semblance of a protection. Scarcely a day passes that we have not a ship-captain calling at our office to know what to do; our invariable advice is, to take whatever he can get, and clear from the port as quickly as he can.

Nature herself seems to have done little for Buenos Ayres in the way of a port, vessels have to anchor several miles from the shore. Owing to poverty, sloppiness or neglect, no Governor has as yet ever attempted anything like breakwaters, docks or wharves; in fact, the keeping of the old mole in repair seems too much for our Port Captain. On Wednesday some friends of Mr. Peltzer's almost broke their legs in the holes which are now at nearly every yard, and unless we make a noise about it we suppose no repairs will be attempted.

A very intelligent ship-master who many years ago traded here and now finds himself in Buenos Ayres again, has placed a paper in our hands respecting the sad drawbacks and difficulties which beset shipmasters coming to this port; and requests us to call the attention of the Government to the matter. We have said and written so much on this topic already, that we feel we might as well call on the "town pump" for redress. The authorities will do nothing; either that or they are unable to do anything; but since the Government will do nothing, possibly the merchants themselves will see the advisability of establishing a Board of Trade, where all disputes with shipmasters, consignees could be tried and adjudicated without that miserable delay and procrastination, which we regret to say, characterizes our courts and tribunals. Why not make a board of Consuls for the purpose, at least this is feasible; Captains have to submit to every species of injustice and imposition rather than assert their rights, for they know well if once they get into the Courts they will be delayed or detained in port for weeks and months, and the wages of the crew and expenses of the ship will probably exceed the matter in dispute. Montevideo offers so many facilities and inducements to ship captains, that already the difference in freight between the two ports, coming from England, is beginning to be a serious matter; and, at the rate we are going on, ultramarine vessels, instead of anchoring in the outer roads, will remain 'in toto' in Montevideo, and send up their cargoes by steamers. The difficulty of landing goods here, and the risk of getting wet or damaged coming ashore are so great, that in the end it would be cheaper and better to discharge the goods into small steamers in Montevideo, as over and over again the neglect of the lighterman involves the ship and captain in a lawsuit which, at the lowest calculation, lasts six months before decided.

Our maritime friend assures us that so numerous and constant are the disputes between ship-captains, consignees, and owners of goods, that the affair is becoming alarming; and in proof of his assertion states, that small as is the trade of Buenos Ayres, the disputes and lawsuits of this kind are more numerous here than in New York, Liverpool, London, Baltimore, Marseilles, Amsterdam, or Antwerp. If statistics could be had, it would be found that not one captain in ten collects the whole of his freight; and this is simply and mainly owing to the want of a Board of Trade, and the utter impossibility of the captain to enforce his rights, owing to the delay of the courts. In case of goods being damaged by the elements, or on account of the working of the ship at sea, the most unwieldy and antiquated procedure is adopted: a 'protest' at the Port Captain's or Consul's should do. The vessel and goods must be examined, and instances have occurred where vessels have been unloading six or seven days and the mate comes on some damaged goods, then no protest is of avail, no examination of the merchandise holds good, the ship is in for all, and the captain must pay or stand a five years' lawsuit.

The shipping trade of this port is now so increasing, that the customs, laws, and usages in force, when only a dozen ultramarine vessels arrived in the year, are utterly obsolete and useless. We want a regular Board of Trade, and it is alike the interest of the Government, the merchants, and the captains, that some steps should be at once taken in the premise.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The sanguinary news from Mexico, brought by the French packet, of the shooting of Maximilian, with 60 of his Generals, has shocked the feelings of even the greatest Republicans. Few men were more the victim of circumstances than the unfortunate Maximilian, whose blameless life has had such a tragic end. None could ever have anticipated such a result: even Munroe himself, the sworn enemy of European intermeddling in American affairs, would never have voted for so bloody a sacrifice. So terrible a wind-up of so modern an empire, in a country apparently exhausted to the utmost by civil war, affords a striking proof of the impotence of even the strongest European nations on American soil. The chapter is filled, and it requires no treaties, no league, no legislation to establish henceforward, as international law, the renowned and celebrated Munroe doctrine. It must be confessed that in human affairs the secret working of Divine Providence baffles the greatest calculations, and the most profound policy. Mexico, torn by political dissensions, ruined by civil war, destitute of any of the ordinary elements of success in war, has by the persistent and undying animosity of a few straggling bands of country soldiers, triumphed over the invader, and shocked the world by the holocaust of Queretaro. It may be that we are to be told this effusion of blood was necessary for the cause of Mexican liberty, and that the blood shed was essential to atone for the crimes of European ambition; but humanity shudders at the sacrifice, and far dearer to the friends of true liberty would have been the cause of Mexico, had mercy held sway in the city of Queretaro. But will the shooting of the unfortunate Maximilian and his Generals be the signal of a new era in Mexican affairs? Will patriotism spring up over the graves of the victims? Alas! we fear, no. The hand that signed that wholesale death-warrant, will be but too ready to perpetrate deeds of a kindred nature for the possession of a throne, or the tyrant "cap of liberty" of a Dictator. No matter what the political opinions of our readers may be; no matter with what animosity they may have viewed the erection of a throne in a country once Republican; no matter how linked their sympathies may have been with the people struggling for their liberty, the shooting of Maximilian and his officers is contrary to the spirit of the age. It is deprecated by every man who has his heart in the right place, and stamped as a deed worthy only of the savage vengeance of the most recreant Indian. Such an act must entail its own reward, and we may look forward to a repetition of the old revolutionary struggles which have ever characterized Mexico, until some tyrant chief, the blind instrument of an unerring Providence, overruns the whole country, and at last carves from the coffin of the unfortunate Maximilian another and equally perishable throne.

To-day the extended time for the payment of the patents $3000, $2000 and $1500 expires. For the last few days the Patent-office has been crowded to excess, and as the fine will be imposed to-morrow for non-payment we advise our friends.

Mr. Smith's new clipper steam-tug is the talk of town. She ran out to the packet on Wednesday, with a heavy sea on, in 25 minutes. She seems to be admirably suited for the Port Captain, who is badly in want of some such boat, as the old four-oared gig is now out of fashion.

Our Cricket friends in Montevideo write that the return match of No. name against the M. V. C. was not played on Monday last, but will come off probably on the 18th July next.

We call attention to the advertisement of Messrs. Stephens and Kay in another column, shipbuilders and boiler-makers. Mr. Kay's long experience in the renowned establishment of Mr. John Marshall is sufficient guarantee of success for the new firm, which has a slip-yard at the Tigre and a machine shop on the beach. We hear with pleasure that the new firm shortly expects from England a large assortment of tools and machinery, sufficient for the largest arsenal in South America.

Yesterday a telegram announced that the steamer Donati when passed by the Anis was in great danger at the Punta de Carretas. The month of the River Plate is now becoming the most dangerous point of navigation on the face of the globe and obtaining a rather unenviable reputation. We read that the Russian squadron when returning from the Pacific doubled Cape Horn, but would not touch at Montevideo owing to the uncertainty about the lights. It is right that the Argentine and Oriental Governments should be made acquainted of this fact. Notwithstanding all we have written on the subject of the Lobos light, it is still in the same place, a regular snare for shipping.

The French packet is due this morning. It is rumored that the great River Plate banker the Baron Maua, will arrive in her. We salute H. E. on his return to the River Plate.

We hear on good authority that the Argentine Minister, Sr. Torrent, has, or is about to resign. The Legation will probably be in charge then of Sr. Laadivar, a gentleman who has considerable diplomatic experience, having passed many years as Argentine attaché in Paris.

The appeal for sympathy on behalf of the poor shipwrecked Dutch widow and her four children, which we published yesterday, has met with a ready response. Seldom have we known a more truly deserving case; the poor woman's case is one of the most striking lists of misfortunes we ever knew. We hold a list in our office, and hope to collect a few dollars for her.

Congress has ordered the accusation of Judge Palma, the sectional judge of Mendoza. The case is without precedent, and the impeachment of the 'ermine speaks' badly for our tribunals, but we hear that the Judge has been guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors, and deserves to be made an example of.

Our talented friend, Sr. Estrada, purposes giving a series of lectures during the winter. His lectures last winter proved such a great success, and were attended by the 'elite' of Buenos Ayres, that we augur equal success for the coming conferences.

Eight thousand sacks of maize have been rejected by the Brazilian army inspectors and sent back to Buenos Ayres. We understand that the maize was pronounced 'ardido.'

Marshal Caxias has been reviewing his troops. The Rio Grande cavalry are represented as the most effective body, and in splendid condition. Lanzuz's depot has also been inspected. He holds stores to feed the army for the next twelve months.

We learn with sincere pleasure that the Municipality of Las Conchas has voted a handsome medal to be presented to Dr. Scrivener for his untiring and gratuitous services during the recent epidemic. Dr. S. had previously received the thanks of Government, and we again congratulate him on this new and honorable testimony.

To-morrow being the feast of SS. Peter and Paul will be a strict holiday. We have to congratulate the brothers Estrada on their very able articles in defence of the poor old friars of S. Lorenzo: see yesterday's Tribuna.

Our friends in Gualeguay will be pleased to hear that the Delorocitis is at last placed on her old route. We suppose now that the steamer begins running, the railway will also commence going; the locomotive has come out and we see no reason why the road should not be kept open to the public, no matter how limited that public may be.

has met with such decided hostility that we believe the scheme will be abandoned, indeed property would cease to have any right if such outrageous conduct was permitted. Had the convent of San Lorenzo originally been public property and granted to the present occupants, there might be some semblance for the act; but if the grasping hand of an unrestrained Provincial ruler can seize private property and sequester the lawful owners rights, what assurances have we that to-morrow or next day, the very public lands which the Government is selling at auction, will not be claimed by some future Governor, who repudiates Oroño's acts. Foreigners must be very careful how they invest in a country where such strange views of meum and teum exist, and more so if we recollect aright, some former sales of land in that identical province of Santa Fé, have been repudiated and the owners evicted because forsooth no proof could be given as to what become of the purchase money. The National Government has interfered in the matter. We heard yesterday that a caustic despatch was sent to H.E. Governor Oroño, telling him not to attempt such a measure. We deplore the whole business, since it is calculated to blight the prospects of Santa Fé, a province in the welfare of which we preserve the greatest interest. Governor Oroño has proved himself a go-ahead man, but when he tramples on the law, violates private right, and seeks to establish a dangerous precedent, we feel it our bounden duty to condemn him.

From Salto we have the following: Camps good, in fair condition. Capones selling at $35 per. A troop of 750 sent into town for owner's account for saladero. Great thanks given to Governor Alsina for the completion of the bridge over the river. The new church still in 'statu quo,' but great talk of roofing it in; it is now more than two years since the foundation was laid. The Justice of Peace is an active good man and much liked. The sheepfarmers are anxious to know what about the murderer of the unfortunate Coady?

We hear that the party who paved Havanna, and part of the city of New York, is coming out here to see and get a contract from the Municipality; he might as well remain in the States, for there is not the remotest chance of his doing anything here. Mr. Drabble, we are happy to hear, came out very strong at the last Municipal meeting, and with true Democratic fire showed up the harrowing state of the streets, and the poisonous water retailed through the town.

Public balls in this city have hitherto been unproductive of those who so characterized them in other cities, but the 'emete' at the Colliseum on Sunday evening shows that we are no longer behind-hand in these matters.

The ball room at the Colliseum on Sunday evening, by the Sociedad Española Los Duendes, was to all appearance unjust in its kind. The parties invited on the occasion mostly light-hearted youths, determined to change the character of these assemblies, for instead of dancing, and otherwise amusing themselves with the ladies, they had prepared for a great supper. The ball had not continued half an hour when some gallant youths cried out 'charge,' and with the word a whole battalion rushed in upon the supper tables with the most determined bravery, and at the first onset carried everything before them. Wine, beer, cakes, and chocolate disappeared in an instant. The stewards remonstrated, the ladies shrieked; but all to no purpose, the field was abandoned to the mercy of the invaders.

THE FALL OF MAXIMILIAN.

DESCRIPTION OF QUERETARO.

Queretaro, a S. state of Mexico, bounded N. by the state of San Luis Potosi, E. and S. by Mexico, and W. by Michoacan and Guanajuato; area 1,820 sq. m.; pop. 180,000. It occupies a part of the plateau of the Cordillera, and is traversed by numerous mountain spurs; but though its general character is rugged, it contains much fertile land. The rivers are all small, and the Tula and Rio de Montezuma, which flow on the eastern frontier, are the only streams that deserve notice. Gold, silver, copper, quicksilver, tin, lead, and antimony are all found. Grain is extensively cultivated, and considerable numbers of cattle are reared. Woollen and cotton goods are manufactured, from materials produced within the state. Queretaro, the capital, is situated on a plateau 6,365 feet above the level of the sea, 110 m. N. W. from Mexico; pop. 47,570. It occupies the sides and summits of several hills. The streets are well laid out, the houses regular, and the city is considered next in rank to Mexico. The principal church is magnificently decorated. The city is supplied with water by an aqueduct 2 m. long, which crosses a plain upon arches 90 feet high, and in connection with a tunnel brings the water a distance of 6 m. The manufactures consist chiefly of woollen and cotton goods and leather. In 1848 the Mexican congress ratified the peace between Mexico and the United States at Queretaro.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF CONGRESS.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT'S RESIGNATION NOT ACCEPTED.

Pursuant to arrangement, the Chambers of Senators and Deputies met yesterday in general assembly to consider the resignation sent in by D. Marcos Paz of the post of Vice-President of the republic. The Congress hall was crowded, but there were no speeches, and the proceedings simply consisted of putting it to the vote, whether the resignation be accepted or not. There were only 7 votes in the affirmative, out of more than 50 members present.

It is likely, however, that D. Marcos Paz will insist in his resignation, whereupon the Congress will have to reconsider the matter: In fact, a bill has been already introduced in the Chamber of Deputies, declaring the Vice-President's successor to be the President of the Senate, Dr. Valentin Alsina, or in his default, the President of the Deputies, Dr. Urburu.

MONTÉVIDEO.

Several sudden deaths have occurred in these days, and especially three well-known victims on Sunday and Monday, viz.—Mr. Charles Mc. Eachen, M. Barbat, and Sor Lametz: the last-named was actually playing billiards when he dropped dead. Disease of the heart seems very prevalent and on the increase among us.

A telegram yesterday from Colonia announced the death of the Gefé Politico, Col. Felipe Arroyo, an old friend and follower of Flores. The Governor was so shocked by the news that he closed the Government-house and sent the Ministers home, but first issued a decree providing a monument for deceased at the expense of the grateful country.

This is certainly the city for municipal improvements: the returns for 1866 show that no less than $871,564 was expended during the year, while the expenditure by the Municipality of B. Ayres (with three times the population) was not half the above, amounting only to $405,062, (or 10½ millions paper-money).

Mr. Beard's English academy has been removed to larger premises and is highly spoken of in the Tribuna. Messrs. Despony have been appointed agents for the new line of steamers from Genoa & Marseilles: the first vessel, the Bourgoine is expected about the middle of July.

According to report of the Brazilian War-office, it appears that the total reinforcements sent to Paraguay in 13 months ending May 31st 1867 amounted to 18,700 rank and file.

Gottechalk and the Opera Co. continue playing.

The French packet is expected to-morrow.

LATEST FROM BRAZIL.

(Our correspondent's letter concluded)

Mr. Hermann Haught, of the firm of Gerber and Co. of this city, and of whom I spoke in one of my recent letters has recently received from the Imperial Government a well merited distinction: by an Imperial patent dated 6th inst. this gentleman was honored with the order of Christ. Mr. Haupt, besides his recently published memorial on the subject of immigration, has on various occasions been consulted by the Brazilian Government on matters relating to political economy, and has furnished one of the reports now placed before the Chambers by the Minister of Finance. The very useful, luminous and well-based suggestions offered by Mr. Haupt in his 'report' render it more especially worthy of notice and perusal by the Chambers, the Government and the whole commercial body. It is annexed to the 'Relatorio' of the Minister of Finance at page 25 and marked G.

The Journal do Commercio of the 12th inst. publishes an extract from the 'Memorial dos Pyreneos' which pictures the position of the Emigrants from those parts in the River Plate in a very unfavorable light. I enclose the extract for your perusal.

The total deficit of Brazil may now be calculated at about Rs. 275,000,000 (or about £27,500,000 Sterling); thus: Deficit of financial year 1865-66 Rs. 40,000,000. Deficit of financial year 1866-67 Rs. 40,000,000. Treasury bills payable Rs. 45,000,000. Deficit of financial year 1867-8. Rs. 150,000,000. Total deficit, Rs. 275,000,000.

The Presidente arrived on the night of the 13th with news of a flood at Curuzu and of the removal of the camp of the 2nd division of the army. An English steam frigate has just arrived here on her way to China.

NEW SERIES OF HISTORICAL CONFERENCE.

Our talented friend D. José Manuel Estrada Junr., whose conferences on Argentine History caused such attention last year, now proposes to commence a second series of lectures, on the Philosophy of Argentine History, the programme of which is as follows: This series of conferences will be opened on July 6th, at 8 p.m. in the grand saloon of the Model-School

Calle Reconquista. The object in view is to perfect the studies of the preceding course and to lay the ground-work for a popular course of constitutional law. The conferences will be twice-weekly, and take place every 15 days.

- 1. Introductory conference.
2. Elements of colonial society.
3. Historic and doctrinal principles of the Argentine Revolution—the Independence—origins of democracy—1810.
4. First Revolutionary Period—the Independence, character of the national policy, civil war, development and obstacles of democracy, from 1810 to 1820.
5. Second Revolutionary Period—Prevalence of democracy, sovereignty of the people, reform begun by Rivadavia. The Unitarian republic and its policy. Dorregy; the federation, from 1820 to 1830.
6. Third Revolutionary Period—Rosas and the Reign of terror, from 1830 to 1852.
7. Fourth Revolutionary Period—Reaction against tyranny—the civil wars revived—Federal constitution—Provincial regimen—Analysis of the democratic elements and the social problem of the nation.
8. Essay upon Reform.

THE GRAN CHAÇO EXPEDITION.

MR. PERKINS' REPORT.

Having received instructions from Your Excellency in reference to the exploration and measurement of Government lands lying between the frontier town of San Javier and the River Rey, in latitude 29 South, I made the necessary preparations, and started from Rosario the 15th of May. In Santa Fé I organized the Expedition in conjunction with another which had for its specific object the measurement of a grant of land in the vicinity of the Rey, conceded by the Government to a colonization Company.

A party of Californian farmers, just arrived with their families, availed themselves of the Expedition, to examine the lands of the Chaco, to ascertain their value for the purposes of agriculture, with the intention, I satisfied, not only to settle upon themselves, but also to induce an extensive emigration of their relatives and friends.

The Expedition was composed of the following persons and material: Messrs. William Perkins, leader, J. Aguirre, surveyor; Alexander Ma Lean, James B. Locke, William J. Moore, Zina Port, Francis Binfield, Josiah Reeves, John Smith, Harlan, William H. Moore, Moses J. Moore, Charles W. Burton, Albert Vidler, M. J. English, Charles Stewart, Charles Hildreth, Edward Washburn, James Pennington; four peones, belonging to the surveying Department, one 'estapate' and two men for the care of which we had two, one ox-cart, and another drawn by horses. In San Javier we added a number of Indians to the party, of whom I shall speak in the proper place, as also of the Escort which the Government organized for the security of the Expedition.

As a great part of my party was formed of men who had come to the country to seek for themselves and their friends permanent homes, Your Excellency will appreciate the strong desire which animated my endeavours to impress them favorably with the country, and afford them all possible means to explore and examine the lands, and the advantages of the region to which they had come as pioneers for hundreds, perhaps thousands of their industrious and intelligent countrymen; and I am happy now to congratulate Your Excellency on the advantageous results obtained for the Province, and the whole Republic, by the Expedition, which has been the immediate means of forming a colony of North American farmers in the wilds of the Chaco.

Our party started from Santa Fé on the 28th May. We were delayed most in the getting across with our carts and animals, the mouth of the Guadalupe Lake, which at this season of the year receives the waters of the Saladillo Dulce and the River Calabines, and debouches into the arm of the Paraná which passes by Santa Fé. On this arm we encamped the first night, about a league from the city. On Sunday morning early, we entered the pretty little hamlet of San José del Rincon, called so because it is situated at the foot of the peninsula formed by the Paraná and the branch I have just mentioned, which leaves the main river at right angles, and runs due west to Santa Fé for the distance of eight miles, when it turns to the South, and receives just below the capital the waters of the Salado. San José is thus just eight miles west of Santa Fé, and its handsome orange groves and pretty gothic church are interesting objects in the landscape. The lands of the 'Rincon' are celebrated for their fertility. Many ship loads of produce, principally 'garden stuff,' go from this place to the lower parts of the river. A superficial glance at these lands does not impress one favorably, for they are very sandy; but there is evidently a powerful vegetable element in the soil, which is kept in continual activity by never-falling moisture, for the Rincon is more of an island than a 'corner', having the Paraná on the west, the Riachuelo de Santa Fé on the south, and the River Calchines and Guadalupe lake on its northern and eastern limits.

The evening of Sunday found us on the bank of the Calchines, a hand some river of 150 yards in width, and eight miles from San José, due North.

The passage of the two streams I have mentioned, is by means of the rudest contrivance. Here is nothing but a small canoe managed by a man or a woman with a paddle.

A large meeting of the representatives of the various branches of the hosiery trade in Nottinghamshire, Derbyshire, and Leicestershire was held at Nottingham on Monday, when the following important resolution was adopted:—"That we, the representatives of the different branches of the hosiery trade, in public meeting assembled, are of opinion that it is expedient that a consolidated union be established to assist the board of arbitration and all respectable employers in maintaining the best prices and fixing the trade on a firm footing, and that a council of all branches be called together before any steps be taken which might prove detrimental to any particular branch."

We do not know if buying clothes is a sign of an intention to fight. If it be the tailors' workmen are doing their best to prevent quarrels and promote peace. But, in fact, we have heard that the Prussian Government has given orders to Messrs. Tait, of Limerick, for 300,000 suits of clothes for their soldiers, and we state the matter with all needful reserves.

An invisible advertisement. More than words can say for it, Murray and Leman's Florida-Water says for itself, the moment the bottle is opened. It breathes its own recommendation, and circulates it through the room. You sprinkle it upon your handkerchief, and carry with you an inexhaustible bouquet. If your skin is tender, what so soothing after shaving as this delicious toilet-water, diluted? Used in this way, it removes tan, freckles, and all superficial roughness, and in nervous headache and hysterics, its soothing odor acts like a charm.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE. The following petition is printed in the Appendix to the Report of the Select Committee on Public Petitions, issued to-day. It was presented by Mr. J. Stewart.

The humble petition of the undersigned, sheweth, That your petitioners fulfil the conditions of property or mental prescribes by law as the qualification of electors, and are entitled to their own names the right of electing to such conditions the principles on which the government of the United Kingdom is used imply the representation of all classes and interests in the State; that the reasons alleged for withholding the exercise of the franchise from certain classes of Her Majesty's subjects do not apply to your petitioners. Your petitioners therefore humbly pray your honourable House to grant to such persons as fulfil all the conditions which entitle to a vote in the election of members of Parliament, excepting only that of sex, the privilege of taking part in the choice of persons to represent the people in your honourable House. And your petitioners will ever pray.

SAVINGS BANK. BANK MAUA AND CO.

101-Cangallo-103. BUENOS AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Maua & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in that city a safe and profitable depositary for their savings.

The sums deposited in that very important institution are daily increasing, and already reach a very large amount.

First—The Bank receives at interest any sum from Twenty-five Dollars currency or one Silver Dollar upwards.

Second—The interest allowed is six per cent. (6%) per annum, which is liquidated every six months.

Third—The depositors can at any time retire the whole or part of the money deposited.

Fourth—Once the money deposited exceeds twenty-five thousand dollars currency, or one thousand dollars silver, the depositor, if he wishes to keep the whole or part of the sum deposited, in the terms established by the Bank.

Fifth—In case the depositor loses his pass book, it can be replaced by another on paying twelve dollars currency, and advertising the loss in the public newspapers.

LEA & PERRINS' WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE, DECLARED BY CONNOISSEURS TO BE THE ONLY GOOD SAUCE.

CAUTION AGAINST FRAUD. The success of this most delicious and unrivalled Compound has caused certain dealers to apply the name of "Worcestershire Sauce" to their own inferior compounds.

Some of the foreign markets have been supplied with a spurious Worcestershire Sauce, upon the wrapper and labels of which the name of Lea & Perrins have been forged.
