THE SANTA FE REVOLUTION. (OUR NEW CORRESPONDENT.)

Jan. 18, 1868.—As yet, there has been no arbitrary act against the National officers in this town, thanks to the wholesome fear of the National troops, now encamped on this side of the river Carcaraña, and within a couple of hours of the city by the train. General Martinez just arrived at the bridge in time, or an attempt had been made to burn it. Fortunately, there was no time allowed to collect combustibles. To-day General Martinez' cavalry, 600 strong, joined him, and to-morrow the two battalions of the line stationed in Cordova will also join him. His forces will then amount to 3,000 men, with 12 pieces of rifled artillery. That excellent officer and excellent soldier, Martinez de Hoz, is second in command. Of course, the revolutionists despair of being able to cope against such a force as this.

General Martinez has, however, received orders from the President, who stopped in this port for about an hour, to stay where he is until further orders. So we hope that smiling peace will return to us without the aid of hard blows. The attempt to destroy the bridge gives us a good idea of the tendencies of the revolution.

Yesterday Captain Prosser, of the Spider, went up, accompanied by Mr. Woods and two envoys from the so-called Gefe Politico, Mr. Paz. General Martinez despatched one of them with an official note to Col. Patricio Rodriguez. I do not, of course, know the contents of the note.

In the meantime, the National Commissioner, now in San Nicolas, issues the following proclamation, that will fall like a bombshell into the ranks of the revolutionists:—

THE NATIONAL COMMISSIONER TO THE PEOPLE OF SANTA FE.

Fellow-Citizens, An act has just been perpetrated in the city of Santa Fe, by which it is pretended to sanction the revolution which unhappily is upsetting this prosperous province, and to give an appearance of legality to the unnatural situation in which it is placed.

Dr. D. José Benito Graña, President of the Superior Court of Justice, has dared to assume the command of the Province, founding his pretensions on the fact of the legitimate Governor having absented himself from the Provincial territory without permission of the Legislature.

This reasoning is entirely false. The Governor has not absented himself voluntarily from the Province, but was obliged to do so by the revolution, which ignored his authority, and took forcible possession of the Government. The remedy of this state of things is not by sanctioning a fresh crime and nominating a new Governor, but obeying the legitimate authority.

The proclamation goes on to prove by the Constitution itself, the illegality of the acts of the revolutionists, and adds:—

By this act, Dr. Graña, and all who have induced him to act as he has done, have made themselves liable, according to the 6th Article of the Provincial Constitution, and have assumed a position of responsible sedition against the Nation, by having destroyed and prevented the obeying of express orders of the National Government for the re-possession of the legitimate authorities of the Province.

I consequently declare, in the name of the National Government that the provisional authority assumed Dr. D. José Benito Graña is illegitimate; that all the decrees, orders or nominations emanating from him are to be considered without effect and are not to be obeyed that all contracts and arrangements that he may make are null and void, and will not oblige the province in any way; and that finally he and all his adherents will be held responsible before the Nation for the crime of sedition of which they are guilty.

I therefore invite all good Santafecinos who desire the peace and tranquillity of the province, that can only be obtained under a regular government, not to obey in any way the orders emanating from the rebellious government that has raised itself in Santa Fe; and on the contrary to aid the National Government in its noble desire to re-establish the legitimate authorities of the province, as the only means by which peace may be obtained. San Nicolas de los Arroyos, Jan. 18, 1868.

FRANCISCO PICO. The proclamation must have been published in San Nicolas some hours before the arrival of the President. What impressions General Mitre may have received there it is difficult to say; but I suppose that he did not arrange anything definitely, but made his way without delay to Buenos Ayres to consult with his Ministers. The result cannot be doubtful. I am perfectly willing that all classes of society should have their rights guaranteed, but the second city of the Republic must not be left in the hands of the gauchos. Revolution must be put down, or there will be no living in this country. Let everybody have the right to vote as they please—let us have Cabal or Freyre as Governor, but for God's sake let us have here some other authority than the gaucho with his red ribbon.

I think W.P. has acquired some right to speak out plain. He has served the country as few natives have done, and with disinterestedness too, as he certainly never received from this province a farthing for his labor, and yet because he writes the truth for the Standard, he has been threatened with imprisonment, and will probably have to take refuge on board one of the English gunboats. Argentine citizens are forced to take up arms against their will because the revolutionists want to make people believe that the revolutionary movement is popular. A proof of its popularity is that Rosario since the 21 of December is like a tomb. The very despatch of goods at the Custom House has ceased. If the revolution were popular, things would go on as usual here. But what is the fact? As I said, the town is like a huge tomb, or like the site of some ruined city.

Of course, the petty paper published here is furious with the Standard correspondent: everybody knows who "W.P." is. They call him an adventurer, &c., and most accordingly see him imprisoned. I should like to know whom of them has worked as he has for the benefit of the country.

The revolutionists received yesterday a quantity of lances and some money—from whom I do not know. Yesterday Mr. Paz visited the English Consul, and was anxious again that the Consular body should try to prevent General Martinez from coming down—of course they all refuse.

The railroad is free, now that the National troops are encamped this side of Carcaraña. The troops are in good health. A physician, Dr. Covernon, goes up to-day; and also a supply of medicines and blankets in case of necessity.

The recruiting commissions, or rather the seizing commissions are active. Argentine men as well as Argentine horses are indiscriminately seized and taken to the cuartel. A commission entered the day before yesterday into the dining room of the Commercial Hotel, and bagged off several of the occupants of the tables. Our friend Mr. Hutchinson, the English Consul, has proved himself in every way equal to his difficult position. Fortunately the English gunboats allow him to act with perfect liberty. English interests are well protected and cared for by our Consul and the Commander of the Spider, Captain Prosser. The latter promised me that if the Standard correspondent should be taken up, he should not long remain in quod.

Col. Nelson, apart from a great severity in obliging all Argentines to take up arms, keeps pretty good order in the town. By the bye what is the object of insisting in all to take up arms? Against whom? I suppose we shall know by and by.

I shall pay a visit to the National army in Carcaraña, so as to be able to give you a description of it. They say the cavalry is a fine body of men.

We have no news of importance from the Interior. General Páramo is still in Cordova, as I understand. A meritorious officer, Captain Romero, died at the Hotel de la Paix last night. The symptoms were not of cholera. Mr. Perkins, one of the conductors of the Railroad, has been ill, but he is now better. He suffered great privations during four days that the road was cut.

Yours truly, CARCARAÑA.

January 19, 1868.

I sent you my first letter yesterday, in which I translated the proclamation of the National Commissioner, Dr. Pico, directed to the people of this province, and prohibiting them to obey any constituted authorities of the Province: we are, consequently, in a difficult quandary. The revolutionists accept the present Government as legal, and enforce subjection; and as they are already in possession of all the ports, they are enabled to enforce obedience. On the other hand, we have the orders of the Nat. Government not to obey these authorities. These circumstances make the position of the Consular body rather difficult, and it is most urgent that the situation should be defined, and the armed force by whom we are surrounded be sent to their homes.

The state of Rosario is very bad. Never, even months after the battle of Pavon, was the town so completely prostrated. Every Argentine is seized and put into the Cuartel; and, as a natural consequence, many arbitrary acts are committed on foreigners, particularly Spaniards, as it is more difficult to distinguish them from natives. Horses are seized indiscriminately from foreigners and natives. The estancia of Mr. Perez is completely sacked, and his valuable breed of sheep destroyed.

Yesterday Mr. Paz, the Gefe Politico, started in the train to pay a visit to General Martinez, for the purpose, as the paper of this locality says, "to salute the General in the name of the Chiefs of the Revolution, charged with the public tranquillity and constitutional order."

As a proof of "constitutional order," Mr. Paz ordered the arrest of the correspondent of the "Standard," who was proceeding to the encampment with Dr. Covernon to introduce him to General Martinez, by whom he has been employed as physician to the forces. The arrest was ordered in the most brutal and insolent manner, in presence of the railway officers and Colonel Nelson. The latter, to his honor, expressed his disapprobation of such an illegal proceeding. The only offence imputed to your correspondent was meddling with the politics of the country in writing to the English paper, the "Standard." As Mr. Paz left immediately on the train, leaving Col. Nelson in charge, your correspondent was enabled to take refuge in the English Consul's house hard by, and he is now under the protection of that gentleman and the commander of the gunboat. Mr. Paz was heard to declare that what the correspondent ought to have was a yard of cold steel. So you can judge as to the constitutional order that reigns in the flourishing city of Rosario.

No train came in last night, and the friends of Mr. Paz were a little uneasy; but they have no reason. That gentleman will come down safe enough this evening.

You will probably be interested in the note that General Martinez sent to the Gefe Politico. Here it is:—

"Cuartel General in Carcaraña, January 17, 1868. At Sr. Gefe Politico of the City and Department of Rosario.

"I have just received your note of the 16th inst., in which you tell me that afflicted as that city and the surrounding country is by the cholera, it would be imprudent to increase the danger by the agglomeration of more forces in the city, at all events until the President makes known his resolutions in regard to the actual state of things established in the Province, and desiring me to abstain from my march; also announcing to me that a Commission, composed of Messrs. Laprade, Bastillanos, Grosso, and Dr. Velez Dias, would be sent to me.

"In answer, I have to manifest to you that I had intended to march to Rosario or the day after, when I received an order from the President of the Republic, detaining me at this port to await final instructions; and it is this circumstance which detains me here.

"I am obliged you for your polite offer, and the sincerity with which you tender your services, but, I would pray you, that the gentlemen of the commission not give themselves the trouble of coming to this camp, as I am perfectly well-informed on the subject of the affairs of this province; and, besides, it is to the National Commissioner that you should apply in all cases of internal politics, my mission as you must perfectly comprehend, being purely military.

"God preserve you, "JULIAN MARTINEZ." There is about as fine a diplomacy about this note of our worthy ex-War Minister as I have seen for some time. The Commission was not sent, as appears by this other note of the old General:—

"Cuartel General en el Paso del Carcaraña, Jan. 17, 1868. To the Gefe Politico of the City and Department of Rosario.

"I have the satisfaction of acknowledging the receipt of yours of this date, with the accompanying printed matter.

"I am extremely sorry to learn of the indisposition of Laprade, Diaz, Velez, and Grasso, and I sincerely pray for their speedy recovery, as also for the conclusion of the plague, that carries off so many victims in your beautiful and prosperous city and surrounding country.

"God preserve you, "JULIAN MARTINEZ." The elections ordered, by what the National Commissioner calls an illegal Government, are to come off on the 23d. Will they come off? That is the question.

The Guardia Nacional passed down yesterday, giving the town a wide berth: the forecastle brass gun was kept pointed towards the shore all the time.

We have no news either from Santa Fé or from San Nicolas. D. Domingo Campo passed over to Parana to have a conference with the President. What occurred in San Nicolas I do not know.

I remain, Gentlemen, Yours truly, CARCARAÑA.

THE WAR IN THE NORTH (FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT) Corrientes, January 15.

The novelty of the hour is the arrival here of the steamer Pavon from Itapiru, with President Mitre and staff on board, en route for your city. On the 13th, at an early hour, the Pavon brought up at the anchorage, abreast of the landing place, when Governor Evaristo Lopez and suite, all of whom were dressed in white, went on board to greet the President, who, soon after, landed with his staff and attended a grand ball given by the townsfolk in honor of the first Magistrate, who remained here till yesterday morning, when a final move was made for below.

At parting, the President declared his intention to make a stop at Parana. There were present at the time those who did not approve of the determination. Preparations on a most extensive scale were made for an expedition to Asuncion to seize the Capital, overthrow the Government, and place a provisional one in its place. Yesterday was the day named for the enterprise to have marched—"Mais l'homme propose et Dieu dispose." "Where now is the picture that fancy touched to-night?" Again, one of those peculiar strokes of Charlequin's rod, so common at the Estero Bellaco, changes another time the whole aspect of affairs, as the "death-angle flaps his broad wings" over your devoted city, while hordes of unprincipled gauchos have, at the portals of Buenos Ayres, set themselves in defiance of law and order, to trample with impunity upon the ruins of justice and humanity, puts all attempts upon the enemies capital for the present out of the question, at least as far as Mitre is concerned. There are those who deem the absence of the Commander-in-chief a favourable circumstance, and who argue that it will tend to shorten the duration of the struggle, comparing the war to a spoilt dinner, made so by the intervention of too many cooks. War news there is none, nor is it probable that there will be any until the heat abates. Little can be done here in campaigning during the summer months. Short as is the distance between Itapiru and Tuyuty, notwithstanding a large percentage of the newly arrived contingents tire and lag behind upon the march. However, the tactics of Lopez are peculiar to himself. It would not be astonishing if, on some cloudy morning, a half a dozen of his regiments should penetrate unobserved within the lines of the fortified encampment at Itapiru—when the garrison would be brought to a sense of their situation until the rapid discharges of musketry—the firing of the hospital depots and tents made them aware that the foe was near carrying all before him—how in the heyday of his supposed victory all discipline was disregarded—when, among other indiscretions, entire battalions would abandon their colours, and hasten to eat and drink damnation to themselves—then, doubtless, the observant allies would take note of the drunken helplessness of the assailants, and act accordingly—i.e., lose no time in bayoneting, spearing, or severing the gullets of hundreds and tens of hundreds of the insane wretches with the same facility as if they were so many tethered sheep. Pride, pomp, and circumstance of glorious war—steamers bringing towns, laden with horses, contingents, or provender are daily passing upwards. The expense attending the forage (a cargo of which serves but a single day) is enormous, without alluding to its first cost or charges till the arrival on the shore of Itapiru. Six rials fuertes is the established price of the cartage of an arroba of dead weight from the landing place to the encampment of Tuyucú.

There are now in active operation four lines of steamers that make daily trips hence to Itapiru, touching at La Guardia Cerrito. All persist in demanding a sovereign as the fare for a passenger. There are also four lines of steamers per week for your city; there is no regularity in the time of their arrivals here.

Here there are isolated cases of the cholera "few and far between." How long it may remain so it is difficult to say. One would be inclined to think from the collections of water-melon rinds seen at all corners—in every street—that the inhabitants drew their chief sustenance from that fruit.

By the last accounts the plague was making sad havoc in Tayi and in the Chaco; at Itapiru it was increasing. Here the commercial people complain loudly of bad times—few sales—no cash, save Cabal's shipplasters—no one doing anything but the auctioneers and lottery ticket vendors—in fact, business of every kind overdone. More than a thousand licenses have been granted for commercial purposes, of which number over 500 were for establishments where alcoholic drinks are sold at retail. Nevertheless, a book store or circulating library is unknown to the place.

With respect, Gentlemen, SINBAD.

CITY OF LIMERICK'S MAILS.

THE WALL OF CLERKENWELL PRISON BLOWN DOWN.

FENIAN ATTEMPT TO RESCUE COLONEL BURKE. GREAT LOSS OF LIFE AND DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY.

Yesterday afternoon London was startled by the report of a terrific explosion in the neighbourhood of Clerkenwell. At once alarming accounts were put in circulation, but nothing that was alleged was half so bad as the reality. An attempt was made to blow up a portion of the House of Detention, at Clerkenwell, with a view to compass the rescue of that Fenian leader who has been for the last six weeks under remand from Bow-street, and who is known as "Colonel" Burke. The attempt did not succeed in its object, but it spread death and destruction through a peaceful neighbourhood. Four persons have certainly been killed, and some fifty others more or less injured, many of them so seriously that the worst consequences are anticipated. The story is simple and awful.

At twenty minutes to four o'clock a truck passed into Corporation-lane, accompanied by three men and a woman. On it was a 36 gallon beer cask. A cask on a truck is no such novelty in any part of London as to justify suspicion ament it; and although, like everything else, it was observed by the keen-eyed detectives apparently lounging purposelessly about, it was of course not stopped or examined. When the men had brought the truck near the north-eastern corner of the House of detention they stopped. were seen to look around as though to satisfy themselves of the exact-spot behind which lies the exercise-yard of the prisoners. Usually the persons under remand from the various police-courts are walked in a circle, here from 2 till 4 o'clock each day, attended by warders but on Friday owing to the police warning, the prisoners were exercised in the forenoon, and in another yard. When the men with the truck had satisfied themselves concerning the spot on which the truck stood, the bung of the barrel was quickly taken out, a fuse inserted in the hole and a match applied to the touch cord. The men then hurried away in different directions. It is stated by some who were eye-witnesses that it was a woman who lit the fuse; but be this as it may—and the police are naturally reticent on the subject of the evidence they possess—the squib was ignited, and directly 36 gallons, or nearly 500 lbs. of gunpowder exploded, with a force which the widest words exaggerated, but which will be best understood by telling plainly of the destruction it wrought. And first it created a concussion which shook the signal-box, and agitated the telegraph needles at the Farringdon-street station of the Metropolitan Railway, stopped every going chronometer in Mr. Benson's shop on Ludgate-hill, and alarmed people as far as Brixton. But these are absurd trifles in comparison with the rest. It blew down about 40 feet of the north wall of the House of Detention, which is some 20 feet in height, and two bricks in length in thickness. It tore down, as by the hands of an omnipotent giant, a house on the opposite side of the street, leaving neither stick nor stone standing. It wrecked four houses on one side of this utterly-demolished domicile and three on the other, leaving little more than the bare walls standing, and even these seamed with many an irreparable breach.

All these houses were occupied as thickly as a rabbit-warren. It is the sad fate of the London poor, and even of those who, like the people living in these shattered dwellings, are the families of well-to-do and industrious mechanics, to be compelled to herd together by the dearth of house rent. The houses in Corporation-lane at the time of the explosion were crammed with women and children, the men being chiefly out at work. In a moment the horrid pillar of yellow fire had leaped up, then the billow of sulphureous smoke rose slowly to heaven, and the foul deed was consummated. The first shock over, crowds of people, with willing hearts and ready hands, rushed to the rescue. The street is wrecked; ten houses are more or less blown to pieces; 50 humble homes are desolate, and all that a Fenian conspirator might perchance have an opportunity of release from custody! There is a sight in Corporation-lane to melt to pity the sternest heart; to move to indignation every manly spirit. There lie ruins indescribable. One house in a mass of dust and ashes and briekbats and old laths. Next is a dwelling reared from floor to roof, with nothing but its front and one side wall, abutting on an alley, remaining. Next, again, is a comparatively fine house, through the blank sashes of which are yet to be seen the gilt frame of a mirror, devoid of glass, and the remains of a gasalier twisted and bent by the deadly blast. Next, again, is a house with the roof partly blown off, and every window and door smashed. Then come other houses more or less wrecked, but still partially habitable, and last of all, on that side, is a gin palace with every fragment of plate glass torn into pieces the size of sixpences. Round the corners here window panes are broken in every direction. On the other side of the breach in the wall, and of the gap in the houses, the explosion has wrought less apparent damage. Of course the two houses immediately adjacent are much injured; but beyond these there is little outward hurt.

A very circumstantial account of the transaction is given by an intelligent little boy named John Abbott, 13 years of age who happened to be an eye witness, and who now lies at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, but, happily, not much injured. The boy lived with his parents at No. 5, Corporation-lane. About a quarter to four o'clock, he says, he was standing at Mr. Young's door, No. 5, when he saw a large barrel close to the wall of the prison, and a man leave the barrel and cross the road. Shortly afterwards the man returned with a long squib in each hand. One of these he gave to some boys who were playing in the street, and the other he thrust into the barrel. One of the boys was smoking, and he handed the man a light, which the man applied to the squib. The man stayed a short time until he saw the squib begin to burn, and then he ran away. A policeman ran after him, and when the policeman arrived opposite No. 5, "the thing went off." The boy saw no more after that as he himself was covered with bricks and mortar. The man, he says, was dressed something like a gentleman. He had on a brown overcoat and black hat, and had light hair and whiskers. He should know him again if he saw him. There was a white cloth over the barrel, which was black, and when the man returned with the squib he partly uncovered the barrel, but did not wholly remove the cloth. There were several men and women in the street at the time, and children playing. Some of the people ran after the man who lighted the squib.

On the bringing up of Burke and Casey, at the Bow-street police-court, Dr. Kenealy said that before the case was gone into any further he must ask leave to make a statement of the reasons why he felt bound at this stage to withdraw from the position of counsel for the defence.

Mr. Norton was about to address the court, but Sir Thomas Henry said he had understood Dr. Kenealy to speak for Mr. Norton as well as for himself, and he must say that the sentiments expressed by the learned doctor did him great credit.

The prisoner Burke regretted deeply that such an occurrence should have taken place, as it seemed to brand him as criminal before the court. Sir Thomas Henry said he understood that was disclaimed. Burke went on to say that he was deeply grateful for the kindness and consideration he had hitherto received from his legal advisers, who, he felt bound to say, had acted without even a retaining fee; nor had he any complaints to make of the prosecution. But he must protest against any imputation that any part of the responsibility of what occurred yesterday or any previous day should rest on his shoulders.

Mr. Giffard had no objection to an adjournment if the prisoner desired it. Sir Thomas Henry said the prisoner had not applied for it himself, nor could he have been prejudiced by the evidence of witnesses which could be read over to his counsel hereafter. Evidence against the prisoners was then proceeded with.

After several witnesses had been examined, Mr. Poland said he could not carry the case farther to-day, and Sir Thomas Henry remanded the prisoners for a week.

Previous to leaving the dock Casey said, "Sir, I must ask leave to declare here my entire abhorrence of the crime that was committed yesterday. I cannot find words to express what I fell,—my horror that such a crime should be committed by any persons whatever." The prisoners were then removed. London, Dec. 18.

During yesterday numerous communications reached the City and metropolitan police to the effect that it was in contemplation to have a general rising of the Fenians last night; that they were in the first instance to tap the gasometers of the City and metropolitan factories, so as to put London in darkness, and then to make an attack upon the engine-houses belonging to the metropolitan brigade.

Captain Shaw, the chief officer of the brigade had, the fire escapes removed from their stations in the public streets, and placed in front of the various engine depots. This precaution was considered necessary from the fact of the firemen and their families for the most part residing in those houses, and the escapes might be useful in rescuing the inmates in case any attempt should be made to burn the buildings down. It is reported that several attempts to destroy large City warehouses have been made. On Saturday night three buildings in various parts of the metropolis were set fire to by some of the parties for whose apprehension rewards have been offered.

During last night a great number of detective police, so disguised by their dress that those who knew them personally were unable to identify them, were sent out on duty into different parts of the City, as well as into nearly every part of the metropolitan district. The South Kensington Museum, the gas factories, the powder magazines in Hyde Park, those at Dartford, Faversham, and Honnslow, are all protected by officers of the police and military. Along the river every barge and ship is carefully examined. Detective officers have also been sent to the stations of the various railways, and the telegraph is kept in constant operation in forwarding descriptions of suspected persons travelling by the lines. A full description is now sent round of the man who fired the barrel.

IRELAND.

PROHIBITION OF THE PROCESSIONS.

Dublin, Dec. 18, Evening. Proclamations have been issued prohibiting the funeral processions announced for Sunday next at Killarney and Kilkenny.

The O'Donoghue presided at a meeting to arrange for the Killarney demonstration. Processions were also proposed to be held in Mallow, Fermoy, Queenstown, Youghal, Ennis, Clonmel, and Belfast.

Prosecutions will be instituted against Mr. John Martin, the chairman and Messrs. Waters, Scanlan, and Lalor, the honorary secretaries, of the committee which organized the Dublin procession. They are summoned for Monday next.

A declaration against the Church Establishment has been published. It is signed by Lords Fingal, Granard, Kenmare, Dunraven, Southwell, Castlejrosse, Trimleston, and Bellew, and 97 others, including 22 members of Parliament, 11 deputy-lieutenants, and 53 Justices of the Peace.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Yesterday we received, per Theresa, our Montevidean mails, as also our English exchanges, per city of Limerick. The full details of the attempt to blow up the Clerkenwell prison are at hand; in fact, the papers contain nothing else. The affair has caused a panic in England, which has not been diminished by the police having made further discoveries which, as yet, in the interest of the general welfare, cannot be made public. We publish to-day some few details, but it would fill all our columns to give all the particulars in the English papers.

Quarantine on vessels coming from Montevideo has at last been put on here, and it is rumoured that on next Thursday the port will be closed against Montevideo unless the port authorities of Montevideo at once open their port.

In Rio Janeiro there has been great alarm caused by the Sante Fé revolution, and a rumour spread through the city, on the arrival of the steamer, that no more transports could be sent to Paraguay, owing to the rebels having mounted guns on the river bank.

We extract the following from a Rio paper:—Four steam transports leave to-day for the River Plate with about 1,500 troops and cargoes of supplies. In consequence of the revolution in the provinces of Santa Fé, these vessels carry each three rifled thirty-two pounder Whitworths with which to force their passage past Rosario in case the insurgents in possession of this town attempt to impede the passage.

The most extreme discontent reigns at the Corrales, in consequence of the stoppage of the saladeros. On Saturday there was a regular hubbub out there, and a disposition to make a small row. One estanciero, we hear, has lost no less than $30,000 mje, by some stock sent to town. From Montevideo we learn that, since the thirty-four died in one day at Latous saladero, there has been nothing done at the saladeros for want of peones.

The most extraordinary quarantine precautions have been resorted to in Montevideo on receipt of the mails from Buenos Ayres. No one is allowed to touch them with their hands; the letters and papers are thrown into a boat, kicked about, sprinkled with a powerful disinfectant. Of the papers we sent down, per Kepler, some half dozen got pitched into the river.

This evening a farewell cricket match will be played at Palermo in honour of a departing member, Mr. E. T. Simpson, who retires from this country per City of Limerick.

Times are not so bad here as many sheep are sold at fair prices. Many brokers have sold large lots. Mr. Brookes has sold 17,000, at $15 each, to go to Taudil; also four leagues of camp in Santa Fé. Rented also to a company 14 leagues of camp in Lujan; price as yet to be decided by an arbitration of three.

Matti and Piers despatch to-day a special mail steamer, the Cholo, for Montevideo. Letters to be sent to agency; charge, $10 each.

Our esteemed friend, Professor Murray, has received another testimonial to his high pharmaceutical erudition. The Pharmaceutical Institute of Aragon have sent him by last mail his diploma.

We find in one of the Rio newspapers a powerful leading article against Casias, which we shall publish in our next.

The Entre Rios papers we received yesterday contain harrowing accounts of the cholera in that province. Some of the country towns are completely deserted, and on the estancias along the river the mortality is fearful.

The town of Chivilcoy, we hear, is completely shut up. The shopkeepers have migrated bodily. The mortality last Friday in that town was over one hundred!

We have received a gloomy letter from a German subscriber in Lobos—too gloomy for publication—although it contains bitter truths and sad facts.

We are anxious to know what has become of the Board of Directors of the Gas Company. Mr. Gay, the new manager of the works, is now out here a month, and as yet has not been installed.

The great match between Golondrina and Chimango, came off as announced, on the Belgrano race-course, on Sunday last; and, contrary to the prediction of those who had founded their opinion on the respective previous performances of the two horses, resulted in an easy victory over the favorite Chimango. Golondrina was in splendid condition, whilst Chimango appeared to us to be rather too fat, and several of his backers were accordingly induced to hedge at the last moment. Golondrina took the lead from the beginning and kept it throughout, without much effort. On coming up the hill Chimango made a push, but he had not the stuff in him to beat Golondrina, although many people believed that he had gone another half round, the result would have been very different. A good deal of money, we hear, changed hands, but the attendance was principally composed of natives, and most of our English amateurs were deterred from attending on account of the day.

As fires now seem to be the order of the day here, we have to report another yesterday, which occurred at the German upholsterer's, Federico Rottermann, 323 Calle Rivadavia. As usual, no person can account for the fire, which commenced about half-past 11 a.m., but was, happily, got under by 3 o'clock. The fire occurred in the back patio, amongst some old furniture, &c. Damages are estimated at about twenty thousand dollars; but we are happy to say the property was all insured.

In our Uruguay exchanges we note that Aparicio has again invaded the Banda Oriental, at an estancia belonging to Gen. Francia. Gregorio Castro we read, has marched from Salto to measure swords with the invader. It affords us the most sincere pleasure to contradict the unfounded rumour of Dr. Taiu's death, the doctor has not even been sick, notwithstanding his unceasing labours in the neighborhood of his residence.

Yesterday President Mitre resumed the reins of Government, and took his post at the National Government-house. We pity him in his present responsible position, the country is in a fearful state, the man who undertakes to stand at the helm of affairs to-day is a martyr.

We are happy to say that the rails on the Argentine Central Railway are re-laid, and now the line runs as usual. Our old correspondent has been arrested by rebels. We hope our new correspondent will have better luck.

In consequence of the great demand for hay for the army in Paraguay, the price of green alfalfa has risen enormously; a cartload, which a few weeks ago was worth from 50 to 80 paper dollars, can with difficulty be got to-day for $200.

The National says that a rumor is current that three among the Ministers of the National Government will send in their resignation. It is also added that they will not be accepted by President Mitre.

ON CHANGE.

Table with exchange rates for various currencies and goods.

There is nothing of importance to report on the Bolsa. Business is beginning to look a little better. Importers find a ready demand for black cottons, crapes, &c.—in fact, mourning of every description is in active demand. The condition of the almohorros is represented as improving, and it is now said that there are hopes that even the houses talked about last week will pull through.

The advices from Rosario, although very unsatisfactory, go to show that the rioters in that city are on their last legs, and in a few days it is thought the reign of disorder will have passed. As regards the mails from Paraguay, splendid business doing in forage, and the different contractors, it appears, have amalgamated. Several power magazines in the Paraguayan camp have been fired, and exploded with great loss of life.

The City of Limerick will not be here before Wednesday morning, as announced by telegram. The news from Montevideo to-day respecting the cholera is most afflicting; business is at a complete standstill.

Gold is in demand here, and sovereigns at 4 1/2 premium. Exchange done at 4 1/2, and we heard of some first-class at 4 1/2; shipments of produce from the rivers being the only exports to be drawn for.

It was said on 'Change to-day that the River Plate Bank had changed its rate of interest, allowing in account current 5 instead of 4, for fixed deposits 7 instead of 5, and charging 12 per cent.

By mails, per City of Limerick, we learn that it is officially intimated that at the annual meeting of the London and River Plate Bank (limited), fixed for the 30th inst., the Directors are prepared to recommend a dividend for the half-year, ending September 30 of 6 per cent., and a bonus of 2 1/2 per cent., which, with the interim dividend already paid, will make 12 1/2 per cent. for the year.
