THE FOURTH OF JULY.

For years after American freemen had won for themselves a land, a name, and a flag it was but natural that the recurrence of the Fourth of July should be signalized with pride and noisy exultation.

NEW MONTEVIDEAN MINISTRY.

The new Ministry formed by Pres. Battle has attracted so much notice that a short biographical sketch of the members of the new Cabinet cannot fail to be interesting.

THE MONTIVIDEAN CRISIS.

At the present moment, when public attention in the River Plate is so generally directed to the paper currency of the Montevidean banks, it might be of general interest to know any opinion expressed by eminent statesmen or writers of past times on the safety or danger to the State of a fixed paper currency.

When in 1789 France was on the verge of national bankruptcy, the Assembly, to supply the public purse, voted the confiscation of the church property; and to supply the immediate wants of Government, anticipated the produce of the sales of these lands, by large issues of assignats, or bank bills, representing the value of these lands.

Pride, arrogance, and a tendency to boast, are the natural accompaniments of all strong Governments, however liberal.

To check this, and to develop a spirit of progress and noble emulation in all that is good and true. To educate the public mind into the knowledge that right is not only better, but cheaper than wrong; that freedom is universal, and oppression local; that one is the birthright of man, and the other the violation of all right.

They have unquestionably fallen into the gravest errors, and lived for years supported solely by timid compromises with right and justice; but for all this they have been sorely and deservedly punished.

Wise men now think all this might have been avoided, but the history of other nations teach that all temporizing with principle brings its inevitable punishment. The war was needed to cleanse and purify the political atmosphere.

England did not serenely march in the calm sunshine, and quietly possess herself of her present liberal institutions. She won them by sturdy battle, by the shedding of blood, and by vigor ous and obstinate determination. Every inch towards reform and liberty has been disputed territory. The battles of the Cavaliers and Roundheads have been given way in our own days to strong debate and party combination.

Had America always been blessed by prosperity and always lived under a clear sky, she would undoubtedly have been richer to-day, but she never would have known her strength, never have felt that sublime confidence in the stability of her government that can now never be disturbed, never have proved that in deeds of chivalry and glory the children were the equal of their fathers.

Nothing perhaps can reflect greater credit upon the American name, North and South, than the fact that not one officer with his men ever passed over to the enemy. North and South, each honest and sincere in their beliefs, fought as brave men fight, each standing and dying by their colors.

Mistaken as we believe the South to have been, let us thank God that never in the darkest hours of her despair did she turn the coward's heel, never forsook her rebel colors, and only succumbed when compelled by superior strength and resources.

Let them therefore take courage. Congress may misrepresent its constituents, enact absurd laws and cramp the industries of the land. Party spirit may rage high, bad men seek in villainy and corruption their own selfish ends, but the heart of the people is sound to the core.

Justice, Truth, and Liberty hand in hand walk through the land. The clouds raised by faction may dim the sight of the people for a time, but the sun soon comes out, clears away the clouds, and reveals the same commanding, majestic figures, clad in white, the reigning divinities of the great Republic.

But their faith should not run into over-confidence in their strength. There can be no final triumph. Each step in life is but another struggle with wrong and injustice. The hosts of corruption are many and strong, and it requires sleepless and untiring energy to make headway against them and keep the Republic pure.

Pride, arrogance, and a tendency to boast, are the natural accompaniments of all strong Governments, however liberal.

To check this, and to develop a spirit of progress and noble emulation in all that is good and true. To educate the public mind into the knowledge that right is not only better, but cheaper than wrong; that freedom is universal, and oppression local; that one is the birthright of man, and the other the violation of all right.

Villalba of 1865. He lives in Calle Colon in unostentatious style, keeps no coach, but mixes a good deal in society; he is regarded as the best politician in the country, yet poor, owns no quinta deeds, and has a large family. Two of his sons are grown up, married, and lawyers by profession.

Daniel Sorilla is of English descent; the family name being originally Sorrell. This gentleman is Minister of Finance. He is about 52 years of age—married—has followed mercantile pursuits all his life—has never figured much in politics—is now connected with the Central Uruguay Railway, and has displayed great moral courage in accepting so difficult a post at a moment when even Villalba declined it.

Gen. Goyo Suarez, Minister of War, is about 50 years of age; passed his early life on the Brazilian frontier; has lived for many years in Uruguay, where he owns a fine house, and close by has a fine estancia, is married, lives in a quiet way, keeps a good stud of horses, and may be regarded as in easy circumstances.

The foregoing are all the particulars we could obtain respecting the new men who have assumed the reins of power; and who are now called on to steer the State ship through the direst storm ever experienced in the Banda Oriental.

Never will any national paper be on a par with the metal. Never will the supplementary sign of the first representative sign of wealth have the exact value of its model: the very title proves want, and want spreads alarm and distrust around it.

Why will assignat money be always below specie? Because money being put in competition with paper, both become a marketable commodity, and the more abundant any commodity is, the lower must be its price, because with money one will always be able to do without assignats, whilst it is impossible with assignats to do without money; and, fortunately, the absolute want of money will keep some specie in circulation, for it would be the greatest of all evils to be absolutely destitute of it.

To create an assignat currency is not assuredly representing a metallic commodity. It is merely representing a metallic currency. Now, a metal that is merely money, whatever idea may be attached to it, cannot represent that which is, at the same time, money and merchandise. Assignat money, however safe, however solid it may be, is therefore an abstraction of paper money; it is consequently the free or forced sign, not of wealth, but merely of credit.

And if, to borrow the expression of a foreign writer, money performs, in regard to the price of things, the same function as degrees, minutes, and seconds, in regard to angles, or scales in regard to geographical and plans of all kinds, I ask, what must be the result from this alteration in the common measure?

If these assignats are forced into currency, and stop in the hands of persons who are obliged to take them at par, and who, owing nothing, cannot employ them but with loss. If they are the occasion of a great injustice done by all debtors to all creditors, anterior to the passing of assignats at the par of money, whilst it will be contradicted in the security which it offers, since it will be impossible to oblige the sellers to take them at the par of specie, that is to say, without raising the price of their commodities in proportion to the loss upon the assignats.

Mons. Montesquieu, in his great work, "L'Esprit des Loix," condemning the use of ideal money, writes—"To take away the source of this abuse, it would be an excellent law for all countries, who are desirous of making commerce flourish, to ordain that none but real money should be current, and to prevent any methods from being taken to render it ideal.

These extracts of the published opinions of such an eminent and practical statesman as Talleyrand, and so acute a thinker as Montesquieu, ought to have their weight in the discussion of this all-important topic.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The election of President of the Provincial Bank for the current half year has taken place, and resulted in the re-election of the present President, Don Mariano Acosta, who has already given such high satisfaction to the public in the discharge of his duties.

The Brazilian barque Emilia, sailing down the river last week, picked up two poor fellows who swam up to the side of the vessel. It seems that these men had actually run the blockade, escaped out of Paraguay, and were paddling their canoe down the river when the frail boat capsized.

The steamer Pizarro, which sailed from this port on the 1st July, took no less than 178 passengers, of which only 44 were second class. The same steamer coming out brought no less than 250 passengers. This shows that the real bulk of the passenger trade with this port lies with the Mediterranean.

The Arno has taken from Montevideo for Rio Janeiro about £2100 in English gold. Almost every steamer from Buenos Ayres now takes gold to Montevideo, yet no one knows what becomes of it.

We hear that it is probable the new line of telegraph from Chivilcoy to Rosario will be finished in about six months. All the materials are here; and an able staff is about to be employed by the Government to complete the work. Sr. Castro has applied to the Bolsa Committee for an office on the premises, which we suppose will be granted.

The James T. Brady and the Parram came yesterday from Montevideo. The latest news from the sister city will be found in our able correspondent's letter in another column. We hear the greatest praise by passengers come in the Brady of her comfortable accommodation and the amiability of her captain, which combined together justly makes this splendid steamer a great favorite to our travelling world.

The Provincial Legislature has passed the bill authorising the Provincial Bank to invest $4,000,000 in the construction of a building for said bank, on the same site as is at present occupied by it, and to sell the house in Calle Piedad which joins the bank at the back. The works, we understand, are to be begun as soon as the winter season is over.

Very alarming rumors are presently spread by morose and disappointed people with reference to the turn things in Corrientes are likely to take, by which it would appear that the general tranquillity of the country and the very stability of its institutions were seriously endangered. We, however, cling to the hope that the clouds that are looming in the distance may be dispersed without giving occasion to any serious storm, and are averse from believing that those who are high placed will, merely for the object of gratifying individual animosities or favoring personal ambitions, plunge the country into a ruin which will fall with greater severity on its authors. In Rosario it is also reported that great fears are entertained of impending wars; but this can easily be explained by the fact that the party at present in power feels that its days are numbered, and it can think of nothing to arrest the onward march of liberalism save a hopeless recourse to brute force.

Two very important measures were also introduced into the Provincial House of Deputies at its last sitting on Wednesday, sent from the Government-house. One recommending a proposal from Don Eduardo Madero for the construction of dikes and warehouses in the Catalinas, and one also recommending another proposal from Messrs. Montraval and Yorney for the erection of wharfs in the same locality.

The Tribune calls the attention of the Municipality to the filthy state of our streets, and remarks justly that all the excellent reforms introduced by the short-lived Board of Health have been completely disregarded. Our frequent remarks on the same theme are an earnest of how strongly we feel on the subject; but as to expect that any good may come from lecturing the Municipality, we have long lost any hope of it.

We understand that our active Chief of Police has been busy in investigating into the circumstances that led to the tragical murder of the man whose corpse was found in a sack by the river side. The victim has been identified, and only a few connecting links in the evidence are wanting to trace the crime to its authors.

Sr. Laurindo Lapuente has published a new pamphlet, under the title of "Frutos de la Gran Policia," attacking the policy of President Mitre. We have to thank this talented author for a copy of said pamphlet, to which we have, however, not had time to devote anything but a cursory glance.

The attendance at the Bouffes on Thursday was rather scanty. Our friend Mr. D'Hoto must convince himself that he must make his spectators more attractive, for which we think the elements are not wanting, if he does not wish to be doomed to perform before empty benches. A couple of chaussettes, by the by, the little Gandon, are worth all the can devils that he could possibly bring out.

We have to record another evasion of criminals from the Cabildo that took place on Wednesday night, an event which is now of such frequent occurrence. The whole of the inmates of the city prison had organized a plot on the aforesaid night to make their exit by the back of a house in Calle Victoria, passing through the shop of a watchmaker. On the alarm being given by the owner of the house the vigilantes and serenos rushed to the spot, but not before ten of the boldest had succeeded in making good their escape.

Sr. Bonetti who acquired such well-deserved popularity with our musical public by his admirable performance of Melstoles in Faust, and Fray Melton in the Forza del Destino, when the Colon Theatre was under the management of Sr. Postalaro, gives to-night a concert in the Coliseum hall, in which he will be supported by a host of artistic and amateur celebrities, among which, most conspicuous are Sr. Sanchez, Mlle. Urbert, Messrs. Reinken, Azeasubi, Beck, Codes, &c. The tickets have been in the greatest demand, and the Coliseum hall is sure to be fashionably and very numerously attended this evening. The program comprises very select pieces of instrumental and vocal music.

The Judge of the Supreme Court has notified the Government that he must move the court out of the Cabildo, in consequence of the scandalous state of the prison ward closets.

On Thursday night some burglars attempted to break into the house of Messrs. Proudfoot, Hall, & Co., 62 Calle Maypu. Mr. Lawson, the manager, having a sum of gold in the safe, thought it better to remain in all night, as the person who brought the gold from the bank appeared a suspicious character. At seven o'clock in the evening Mr. L. heard some parties trying the lock on the outside door; at nine o'clock the same fellows made another attempt, but a cigar maker in front watched their proceedings and frightened them off. Mr. L. was inside, and quite prepared for the fellows had they dared to enter.

MR. RUFINO VARELA.

THE RIGHT MAN IN THE RIGHT PLACE. Farmers, at last you have got the man for Galway into Parliament; it is often difficult to put the right man in the right place, but it is not much mistaken you have this time fairly hit the nail on its head.

The young member is, of all the Varela family the one who in my opinion has dedicated his time more to the material interests of the country than to politics or other subjects: his leaders in the "Tribuna," when speaking of camp affairs, have often grasped the lion by the throat; he seems to be intimately acquainted with the countless woes of the camp, for, in treating of them separately or collectively, he always shows himself master of the subject. When he proposes a reform, it is not one of those milk and water remedies that seldom do good and never cure the evil; no, read the "Tribuna," specially while this gentleman was its chief editor, and you will see that he invariably proposes sweeping reforms in real Yankee style; others are satisfied with chopping off the limbs, Mr. Varela is not satisfied until he applies the axe to the root.

If the member of Parliament does not belie the journalist the session of 1868 will be of some real utility to the camp and to the country in general. In the full belief that the sequel will not dash the country's expectations to atoms, I will take the liberty to commend to the care of Mr. Varela a few of the most urgent reforms immediately required—First, we require a law to reform in toto the camp administration—a modification of the Bill presented by Government last year would answer very well; in this law every justice of peace should be made to act with a jury as proposed by the "Tribuna" of the 10th of October last.

Second, we require an Act of Parliament to enforce the due and exact fulfillment of the laws and statutes by all and every employe, under a heavy penalty or immediate loss of office.

Third, we require Judges of Assozo that will go their circuit once or twice a year, and hold Court at least in every second or third camp town.

Fourth, we require a liberal frontier land law to colonize the frontiers and thereby enhance the value of the rural interests of the province. If the national Government would try the virtue of conciliatory policy, a dozen true missionary priests, and a couple of dozen properly selected schoolmasters, the Indians would gradually become useful and industrious citizens. In my opinion there is more virtue in the primer, the cross and the spade, than in the barter-hustling swords of all the Machados in the country.

Fifth, we require a protective law for our rural industries that will tend to encourage a better method of farming and gradually lead the inhabitants into new channels of Commercial enterprise.

Sixth, we require a provincial immigrant office with a staff of employes able to give the fullest and most minute information of the country to those who solicit it; the present national immigration office is of little utility in general, and completely useless to the province. An office of this kind should be able to meet the requirements of the millionaire as well as those of the penniless peasant; it should protect the one, by proper instructions &c., from being cheated in the purchase of land or other property, which unfortunately is of frequent occurrence; and it should be able to inform the peasant of where he will be certain of finding immediate employment. If we had such an office, a great many of those who come here with capital would not abandon the fair province of Buenos Ayres to settle down in the wilds of Entre Rios or Santa Fe. Even at this very moment every estancia in the country is crying out for workmen, and yet there are men by the hundred leaving our shores for Rosario and other places. As a general rule, workmen are better paid and better fed here than in any of the other provinces, still they go to those provinces to work for less money and worse food because there is no person in Buenos Ayres disinterested enough to tell them honestly where to go or what to do.

I may be accused of pleading for the interests of this province and not for those of the Republic; I admit the crime, if any believe my fault amounts to a crime, and do not hesitate in stating that, whatever wish I may have for the prosperity of the Republic, I have a little more for the property of the province. I am one of those who believe that charity begins at home, and such, I could be a good Argentine without for a moment forgetting that I was a Porteno.

If the young member can get through these or any other half dozen reform Bills during this session of parliament, he will be fully entitled to lay his undisputed claim to the appellation of—"The people's friend, or, the Buenos Ayrean O'Connell."

THE BRITISH CEMETERY.

A WORD TO JUSTICIERS.

To the Editors of the STANDARD.

Gentlemen, Though I am confident neither you or the public will think it amiss that there should be found even one to protest against the torrent of abuse so unjustly at times poured on the Municipality...

I need make no comment on the three first paragraphs of plausible platitudes contained in his literary production, the fourth shall be the first to claim attention...

Of all cities in the world there is none so much requiring such a company as Buenos Ayres. The neglect of the authorities and diffidence of private capitalists is apparent...

But if we consider what this town would come to next year, unless some means are taken to provide for the emergency there will be every reason to congratulate ourselves on the appearance of the new society...

THE ASSOCIATION FOR THE PROTECTION OF COMMERCIAL INTERESTS, WRECKED AND DAMAGED PROPERTY. OFFICES: LLOYD'S.

ASYLUM FOR EMIGRANTS. To the Editors of the Standard. Gentlemen,— Better informed than the author of the article headed as above, in the Standard of the 2nd July, I can assure that the said Asylum, by no means is kept in a dirty state...

THE LAME WALK! While the continent rings with the recent cure of scrofula and other life-consuming ulcers diseases, wrought by BRISTOL'S SARSAPARILLA, it is well to know that its effects in inflammatory and chronic rheumatism are no less marvellous...

ON CHANGE. July 3, 1868. National Bonds, 42 National Bonds fell off again to-day, and closed dropping. The cash sales figured up to the sales for the end of the month were also very heavy...

Remaining gentlemen, Yours sincerely, TRABUCO.

Mr. Charles Dickens has been said to have made $2,500 a night by his readings.

LA FORTENA.

Such is the unpretending name of the new company about being formed in this city for the purchase and improvement of real estate. We might almost say the 'creation' of real estate...

With but the slight inkling into business of the new Company, supplied us by the laconic prospectus with which we have been favored, we can as yet say but little of an association only yet in its infancy.

At yet nothing definite. Some assert that the Government will buy up the Maua Bank and make a National Bank of it; others, that the doors of the Maua Bank will be opened in three days to effect the liquidation.

Money still remains extremely tight, and bills, with the best signatures, are offering at 1 1/2. In Exchange not much as yet done. One bill passed at 4 1/2.

Maua notes were quoted to-day at 75 Montevideo at 65. The steamer Meander is now first-class for London, and has already several first-class passengers engaged.
