In returning thanks to the above friends who have so generously come forward for the relief of the sufferers in the recent epidemic, we have to acknowledge this fresh proof of cordial sympathy on the part of the United States. The above subscriptions are truly munificent, and show that in Submarine Telegraph Expedition had the time of trial we find warm-hearted friends in the most distant countries.

The Derby of this year was very brilliant, but the result of the racing left the 'touters,' prophets, bookmakers, indeed the whole racing community (and that means every second man and boy in the United Kingdom) very much out in their reckoning. The defeat of the favorite, although disastrous to the general public, which always lays on the animals at the head of the betting lists, was somewhat compensated for by the fact that the winner 'Favonius' belonged to Baron Rothschild, the most popular and straightforward patron of the turf in England, 'bar none'. Never were such cheers heard on Epsom Downs as when the Baron's well-known colours flashed first past the winning post; land the excitement was renewed next day when 'Hannah' cantered in winner of the Oaks. Only four times previous The undersigned have contributed to this 'the Baron's year' has the double event been pulled off by one owner. On Saturday the fare vell banque, given to our friend and colleague Don Hector Varela came off at the Hotel de la Paix. Covers were laid for one hundred persons, and although the night was as bad as could be, there were very few vacant seats. The banquet was held in the principal dining room, which had been most tastefully decorated. The portraits of the late talented Roque Perez, and of Mr. Varela, occupied a prominent part at the head of the room. Mr. Varela occupied the post of honor, supported on the right by Mr. Mitre y Vedia and General Puig on the left. All the surviving members of the Comision Popular were also present as well as representatives from all the leading papers in the city. The dinner was served with the exquisite taste and excellence that has gained so much well merited fame for the Hotel de la Paix. The toasts were initiated by Mr. Mitre y Vedia, who had been commissioned to present a gold medal to Sr. Varela, subscribed for by his fellow members of the Comision and other friends, which he did in a short but very appropriate speech. Mr. Bonnemason, accompanied by Mr. Findlay, next rose to present Mr. Varela with an album containing the signatures of a great number of the leading commercial houses and friends of Mr. Varela. Mr. Juan C. Gomez then in a few energetic words, proposed the health of Mr. Varela. He was followed by Mr, Guido y Spano, who also toasted his friend in a brilliant speech full of poetic inspiration. Several others speke; among them Dr. Larroque, Mr. Citadini, Mr. Arriola, Mr. Vazquez, and Canon Dillon; and then Mr. Varela rose to return thanks, and with his accustomed flow of eloquence, kept the attention of his hearers rivetted for three-quarters of an hour amidst the most enthusiastic outbursts of applause. Several other gentlemen spoke afterwards, and one of the most effective speeches was one delivered by Mr. Mitre y Vedia, who gracefully alluded to the several nationalities that had stretched out the hand of charity to this city to alleviate the miseries caused by the epidemic, the flags of which had been placed together as one of the principal ornaments of the banquetting - hall, viz., Montevideo, Brazil, Paraguay, Chile, and England We received the following highly
