M. THIERS ON FRENCH PROSPECTS. THE ORLEANS FAMILY. M. Thiers ascended the tribune, and said he never before found himself faced by so difficult a question.

M. Thiers ascended the tribune, and said he never before found himself faced by so difficult a question. He explained the perplexity of his position, and showed that the subject under discussion was a political question, and would be so considered by the country.

abrogating the laws of proscription. I said then to Louis Napoleon—'These imprudent Republicans have recalled you. You will be their master. Mine you shall not be.'

The speaker then explained how it was that he was a Republican. He said that for forty years he had striven to procure France a Constitutional Monarchy, such as existed in England, and declared that he found greater liberty existed in London than in Washington; but the French Princes had not always understood the conditions of this movement.
