The Lancet states, with reference to the convalescence of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales:-

"The daily bulletins have prepared the public for the welcome news that his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales is progressing most favorably, and that there is every reason to be lieve that the Prince's recovery will not further be interrupted by the development of any local complication. In our second edition last week we were enabled to give a very satisfactory report of the consultation held between Sir W. Jenner, Dr. Gull, and Sir James Paget a few hours previously, with reference especially to the painful affection about the left hip, and to intimate that it need not give rise to any auxiety. Our anticipations, founded as they were upon authoritative information, have been fully realized. Sir William Jenner was able to leave Sandringham on Wednesday, and Sir James Paget on Thursday with relish. The breathing has become quite natural again, while the slight disturbance of temperature is declin-
