THE APPROACHING TRANSIT OF VENUS. The astronomical world is already astir, busily preparing to observe this extraordinary phenomenon.

But pray do not mistake the object of the writer—it is not merely to inform you of the fact, before his fellow-farmers, pioneers in the wool-growing industry of these countries, and he wishes them still to lead the van...

Now that there is a favourable prospect, it is time to leave off the hector-skeeter system of hectoring all sorts and conditions of sheep, as practised hitherto...

It is in our hands now to deal out just such quantities of wool as may be required at a remunerative price for ourselves, and never overlook the buyers to pay a price that will leave him a profit and let us live, for it is notorious that ours has been a losing business lately.

There was little mercy or sympathy for us from certain quarters when our wool was worth little more than the skin it grew on. Our sheep did not pay the expenses of tending them.

One advantage of weeding the flocks as proposed is to ease them of a number that should not be allowed to cumber the land, and of late years have not paid more than the cost of shearing them!

Already there are some lavaderos at work in Buenos Ayres, and not long since only there the "graserías" first began: now the country is studded with them.
