It being an admitted fact, that "Money makes money," the object of LA BIENHECHORA could not be better, since it opens a vast Savings Bank for the surplus or savings of the Public so that, by the proper employment of these small gains, a moderate capital, or even annuity, may be secured in a short time. By this means a provident, though helpless, family can husband the small means, and, in the end, attain a competency.

The line will be 542 kilometers or about 350 miles English, and if made for 15 millions sterling will be one of the cheapest railways ever constructed, especially as it crosses a very mountainous country, where great engineerng works will be called for. It will be half as long again as the Rosario and Cordova (245 miles), which cost 8 millions $fts. and used to be considered of the Rio Primero, until it makes a the cheapest ever made in the Conti nent. The new branches of the Southern Railway, indeed, have only cost £4,000 per mile with the broad gauge, and the Tucuman line will cost even a little more with the narrow gauge, but the former crosses the Pampas, the latter that, apart from the recent rise in iron left Sinsacati (39k), where it has will be a marvel of cheapness, and if it does as much traffic as at present on the Central Argentine the nett annual curve westward, and at 89 a double profits will be from 7 to 8 per cent. on the cost of construction, which is more it passes Pozos, Algarrobas, Galgo, than enough to pay interest and sink- and after many turns to avoid the ing fund to the bond-holders. I am always very sorry when I am obliged to denounce the errors of the Press and the people of this country. There exists a crudeness of thought, a wildness of expression, an utter want of philosophical reasoning on a part of the press that requires now and then a

I do not know what are offered, but I know that immigrants have no further rights, guarantees and prerogatives than those that be long naturally to a citizen in any part of the world. Guaratees that the Constitution gives them are nullified by the mal-administration of justice. I is simply laughable to hear this gentleman stating that immigrants are so thoroughly protected here—that in this country they are not obliged to change their nationality as in others (!) and that all that is said against the country proceeds from the jealousy of Monarchical institutions against Republics. The author, if I understand declare war against France and England for not appreciating the extraordinary benefits the Argentine nation offers to the immigrants from the de crepid monarchies of the Old World. All this is very foolish, and can only be accounted for by the fact that chil-

There is no person so dispassionate in this country as the educated foreigner; there is no one either less more than protection for life and propoor Mooney, after making a few thousand dollars; the incentive is not attractive. But this is not the question. No danger will deter immigration punished. The curse of this country, justice, is the impunity of crime. Impunity, that is the mill-stone that that follows in its train. and what really is complained of with drags down the credit of the country. Were crime to be firmly and spee dily punished, not only would crime decrease, but it would no longer be the bugbear that frightens European emigration, and warrants European writers in warning the people against coming to the River Plate.

The physical advantages of this country as a field for immigration are undeniable. That thousands of immigrants have made fortunes is true. That the industrious man is sure of making for himself a comfortable home in less time here than in any other country in the world, let him be a mechanic or a farmer, or a laborer, is nothing more than plain fact. Witness our foreign population in the town and country, our colonies where scarcely one industrious family is to be found perhaps why French statesmen are unthat is not comparatively independent after three or four years' labour.

PARIS LETTER. Paris, March 13th, 1872.

The formal denunciation of the Com; mercial Treaty was a result to be expected, no accommodation was possible so long as England persisted in prefer ring free-trade to the protectionist views of M. Thiers. The most singular circumstance about the matter is, that despite the leakiness of French public offices, the first news of the breaking off commercial relations came from the English Parliament. If is a decision that will prove unfortunate for France, and that the customs returns will demonstrate about the time when him right, advises the President to the payment of the German indemnity falls due. Thoughtful Frenchman deplore this retrograde policy of the government, and are unanimous in the opinion, that no matter what tariffs M. Thiers may propose, a return to the pure doctrines of protection is not possible after the twelve years of experience France has had of even bastard free trade. It is uncertain what line of action French free traders may adopt now; their organs suggest a united opposition to any policy binding the future of the country to restric-'exigenat." He asks for nothing tive tariffs. It is laughable and sad nore than protection for life and prosome newspapers over the "notice to that, apart from the recent rise in from another westerly curve and goes on another westerly curve and goes on to the interior the line we now treat of to the interior the line we now treat of the first country is the finest in the line we now treat of the first country is the finest in the line we now treat of livelenged with the first country is the finest in the line we now treat of livelenged with the first country is the finest in the line world. Havwhen it is known that crime will be ing well-nigh driven the Italians into a positive alliance with Germany. France sends to the same hated nation I have got through the Duc de Gra-mont's book relative to the declaration of war, which as Foreign Secretary he made against Prussia. There is nothing positively new in the work, except his assertion, that Prussia was fully prepared for war at the time of the Hohenzollern incident. Had he stated this at the time when he boasted that it was France who was ready Napoleon III might still have been at the Tuileries, and to day the nation would have been enjoying its Scrap party after the 'fete of Louis' coming ot age. History would give its eyes to know, was it Napoleon personally who ordered the war, or was it the conclusion of his Council of Ministers. As Bismarck has all the original documents referring to this matter, hence able to explain.

The best index as to when a row may be expected in the Assembly is to observe at the railway stations if there be a rush of ladies for Versailles; I have found this to be an unfailing indicator. During the two stormy days in the Chamber last week, the fair sex flocked to catch the deputies' trains. On Saturday only one lady took her ticket for the palace, and consequently there was nothing to be witnessed except the paltry working at the finances of the country. M. Thiers, having no regular Finance Minister just now, had to enter the tribune to give some explanations; but as he did not propose any prohibitive tariffs, nor tell one how the deficit in the budget was to be balanced, there was nothing important in his speech. He passed an eulogium on the Bank of France; it would have been rank blasphemy not to have done so; that institution proved a friend in need and having bled to the extent of over a milliard, merited a passing tribute. M. Thiers does not believe there is room for any more reductions in the estimates; economists Why, you can pick out of a dozen have been at work, have cut down the numbers of the Capital facts which, if salaries of the humbler clerks very write on politics, but on a subject that put together, would be more damning considerably, giving them as a consolainterests the commercial interests of to the credit of the country than a tion, increased duties, but something the country, the circular of the Pre- score of letters such as that of Mr. Na- yet remains to be done in this respect fect of the Department of the Lower dailloc. SAVINGS BANK

BANK MAUA AND C Q.

101--Calle Cangallo--103 BUENOS AYRES.

The immerse advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate, Montevideo and Buenos Ayres, that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the bank in The Bank will deliver to each depositors a pass book in which will be recombined as the same and th which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mana & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working classes in that city a safe and profitable depository for their savings.

The sums deposited in that very important institution are daily increasing, and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of clerks artisans, working men, and servants of all classes and conditions, who are equally interested in putting theirsavings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness, or old age, instead of spending them in immoral gambling, in lotteries, and other frivolities.

The Bank of Maua & Co. of this city, following the noble example of their firm in Montevideo, now offer the same facilities in this city, and has book, in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to with-draw the whole or part of the sum deposited; in the former case the interes will be calculated up o date.

The Bank of Maua & Co. is sufficiently known to the Public by the benefit derived from the course of its operations, which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles, and always directed to promote the general welfare.

The Bank of Maua & Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighborhood.

Pulmonary Consumption.

The value of a remedy, within the reach of all, which by its therapeutic action controls and cures a vast bulk of the diseases to which mankind is liable, cannot be overrated. A brief notice accompanying each bottle, of the principal complaints for which it is specially app icable will be found useful; and, instead of presenting a host of testimonials of more or less value the Proprietor simply begs "Offe Trial," which will far better establish itr reputation and gain the confidence of those who need the relief it affords than the repeated experiences of other sufferers, all of whom may be strangers to the patient.
