STAND-BY O'GORMAN TO "STANDARD." Montevideo, Oct. 17th, 2 p.m.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

Twelve hundred immigrants landed on the mole-head on Tuesday. The Italo-Platense is anchored in Montevideo, crowded from stem to stern with Italians and Basques.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Vasconia has just landed her living freight of fresh hams. Such, reader, is the real news of the day. Whoever walked along the beach yesterday or the previous day, and watched the crowds of strong, stalwart men and able-bodied women trudging their way from the mole-head to the city, must be blind to every evidence did he still doubt one moment the great future opening to these countries.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

We have said it, and will maintain it—the emigration to this country for the ensuing year will in all human probability reach one hundred thousand souls, or three times the figure of the previous years. Everything points that way. The innumerable steamers now fitting or fitted up in almost every European port for South America. The splendid prosperity of the country last year, the growing wealth of the "proletariat," the independence of the mediocrity, the wealth of the sheep-farmer, the trade returns of the nation, and the account sales of the merchants, all these are now finding their way to Europe, and are silently working out results.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

The returns of the mole head are of far more import to the nation than even the statistics of the Custom House. Every fresh hand landing on our shores, we care not whether he be a shoe-black or an editor, is a new drop of life blood to the Republic that helps to give pulsation to the Argentine heart.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

And yet the powers of absorption are so mighty that only those who go to the Beach notice what is going on. 1,200 fresh hands landed yesterday 7:00 to-day, and say 1,500 to-morrow. Yet who notes the strangers in our streets, or the increased labour element in the rates of wages? Buenos Ayres is for Government purposes the same to-day it was a week ago, plus a few emigrants, and thus we jog along heedless of the fact that the nation is outstripping its institutions, that the country is in the van, and our public men in the rear. Now and then we are brought to a sharp pull up, but a few more policemen, or a push up on the tax list sets everything straight, and we forget the contretemps.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

Twelve hundred immigrants landed on one day at Buenos Ayres is news more significant than all the whole city press put together has published in the last decade. It means for a country well organized and properly governed an impetus to labor, production, consumption and national aggrandisement which no man to-day in Buenos Ayres can measure.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

We boast of our Customs receipts of 70,000 pats. in one day. We scan the horizon of shipping in the Outer Roads. We trudge through the Boca and find the very trees of the morass just in the forest of mast-heads that rear their heads around. All these are...

THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

Montevideo. Standard office, Oct. 16th. The postal diligence throws everything else into the shade, and curses loud and deep are heard on all sides as merchants rush about with letters trying to engage some friendly hand to take charge of them as far as Rio Janeiro and post them there. The British Consul, Mr. Pfeil, sent in a protest this morning to the Government, which has not yet been published, but seems to have thrown out a hint that he takes no responsibility in case Capt. Reeks deem fit to receive the mail-bags from the Correo. The captain has since notified the Government that his written instructions will not allow him to receive mails unless from H. B. M. Consul. The Correo publishes a notice throwing all the blame on the Consul and Captain, and promising to forward the mails by earliest opportunity. As the Scotch steamer Astarte, which sails to-night or to-morrow, is willing to take the mail-bags the Government think that no serious inconvenience will result, but it happens that she does not touch at Rio Janeiro and consequently the...
