No expense has been spated in a lopting the latest improvements in Steam-ship Building, and it is believed that these vessels combine, in an uncommon degree, the qualities essential for passenger purposes, while, at the same time, they contain ample provision for the curriage of merchandise.

The speed of the Steamers comprising their fleet, is expected to exceed the average of any other line of Atlantic Steamers, and from the fine model of the vessels, and the uniformity in their built, compled with great steam power, regular and swaft passages are anticipated.

The Vessels are divided into water-tight compartments, and overy precaution is taken to enpartments, and every precaution is taken to ensure safety. The SALOONS The SALOONS

Will be found to afford unusual space, they whole breadth of the ships being dev ted to this purpose; they are light, lofty, well-ventilated, and lavishly furnished, which the requisites so in cessary to the comfort of Passengers in the colder portions of the year, are amply provided by an extensive arrangement of hot-water pipes and capacious fire-grates. Being placed amid ships, the saloons are removed from the noise and motion experienced in the after part of the vessel.

CORDOBA IN THIRTY HOURS,

The Minister of Interior and other gentlemen composing the party for the Tucaman railway inauguration left Buenos Ayres on Sunday and arrived in Cordoba on Monday afternoon, after a journey of about 500 miles in 30 hours. The fact is so simple as hardly to merit comment, yet it is an achievement o. which Argentines take less note than we could wish. It is a proof of the progress of the Argentine Republic not to be measured by figures, not to be conveyed in a speech however eloquent tablishing trial by jury, and that he unless we compare notes with the past 'A Cordobese gentleman now beside is says he remembers in 1851 making the journey from B. Ayres to Cordoba in 35 days, in a bullock-cart, and the passengers were twice dreadfully alarmed on the road by signs of Indians. Even later than that date the family of Perez (if we rightly remember the name) were intercepted by Indians near Rio Tercero, on the journey from Cordoba to B. Ayres, when Dr. Perez and his brother were murdered, the wife carried off captive, and the rest of the party wounded: a picture of the occurrence is often seen in the shop-

In fact up to the fall of Rosas the mode of travelling over the Pampas from here to Cordoba was just the same as described by Padre Gervasoni, the Jesuit, who wrote in 1741 as fol-

"Our preparations before starting from B. Ayres were similar to those usual on undertaking a long sea voyage, for travelling over these plains is much like being at sea, and it is necessary to lay in a plentful supply of provisions and water.

"Our mode of conveyance was one of the ponderous bullock-carts with straw sides and 100f; at a distance a row of them looks like a file of houses moving. I suffered much inconvenie e at first from the motion, and could not sleep at night it was so cold. Before we got half-way, about sixteen days on the march, my cart ac identa ly took fire, and I had to take up my quarters in another. At last we reach, ed Cordoba and were received by the Fathers and many of the townfolk in themselves from the Liberal party, Mr. Stirling (son of Stirling the car. procession. My first impulse was to go to the church and return thanks to the Almighty for having completed so arduous a journey, in which the only thing that relieved the monotony was now and then an alarm of Indians."

What Padre Gervasoni wrote 150 years ago was the same as Sor. Baigorria relates of his journey in the year 1851. How long such a state of things would have continued if Rosas had not been overthrown and Mr. Gen. Urquiza and Dr. Rawson to make the Central Argentine railway it would be difficult to say. But we have the It is only right to add that both are fact staring us in the face that a jourfederation within such short reach of
