rely exceed half that figure, but then the London Metropolitan or underground railway has cost £990,000 a mile...

During the 30 years between 1842 and 1872, the development of railways, especially in the United Kingdom, has been prodigious...

At present, of the numerous lines in Great Britain and Ireland there are five which stand for half the traffic of the three kingdoms...

It is not to be wondered that Argentine railways pay higher dividends than in the U. Kingdom, seeing that our lines here cost only £5,000 to £10,000 per mile...

Notwithstanding all that we read about railway accidents it is proved by official statistics that this is a much more secure way of travelling than by old mail-coaches.

MR. MACDONELL'S REPORT. REMARKS ON THE RIVER PLATE RE- PUBLICS AS A FIELD FOR BRITISH EMIGRATION.

From the preceding remarks it may be gathered that the chief obstacles to the success of the British immigrant consist in the climate, the language, habits and religion of the natives...

The inducements held out by this Republic to intending emigrants are, undoubtedly, deserving notice; but care should be taken not to be guided in the choice of a new home by the advice of emigration agents...

In 1852 Great Britain and Ireland counted only 1630 miles of railway (about double the present length of Argentine railways), and the cost of making the same was 54 millions sterling...

In 1852 the period of ten years showed an increase almost 5-fold, there being then 7,337 miles open to traffic at a cost of 245 millions, but the earnings had fallen off to £2,118 per mile...

In 1862 there were 11,470 miles in traffic, representing an outlay of 370 millions, and a steady improvement had taken place in the earnings, now £2,227 per mile, yielding a net profit of 4 per cent. on the capital employed.

In 1872 the total length of railways was 14,954 miles, which showed the enormous traffic returns of one million £ sterling per week, or £3,381 per mile per annum, by far the highest figure ever attained since the beginning...

Next in importance comes the town of Rio Cuarto, with 10,000 inhabitants. Now that the railway to this place may be said to be completed, it must undoubtedly acquire great importance in a very short time; the other towns are mere villages as yet...

The title-deeds of land already occupied are easily obtainable, are generally valid and correct, and can be made out and transferred without much loss of time...

The Legislative Chambers of Buenos Ayres have lately passed a law (see Appendix) for the sale of the frontier lands at 70,000 dol. per square league...

Referring to the manufactures carried on in Cordoba Sr. Conill acknowledges that they are in a very backward state, and complains sorely of the scarcity of capital...

LA PROVINCIA DE CORDOBA, SU PRESENTE Y SU PORVENIR. We announced, in a recent number, our having received a copy of a short pamphlet, bearing the above title...

Its author Don P. A. Conill, was commissioned by the Minister of Finance of the Province of Cordoba, to write a report making known the productions of the province...

The report first treats of the advantageous geographical position of the province, forming as it does the centre of the Republic and destined to become the chief market and commercial high-way of the interior...

The educational establishments, headed by the venerable university of San Carlos, with its staff of distinguished professors, several of them well known in the scientific world, number over 150; most of these schools are of recent formation, and already give promise of good results...

The richness and fertility of the soil in the provinces of Santa Fé, Entre Rios, San Juan, Mendoza, and especially in that of Buenos Ayres, are remarkable, and the ground offers the great advantage of being clear and ready at once for cultivation...

The repeated droughts, frosts, terrific dust and hailstorms, and the constant ravages committed by locusts and other destructive insects are apt, however, to render agricultural pursuits so precarious that a season of scant and deficient yield is regarded as a normal or even prosperous one.

Certain writers assert that such staples as cotton, silk, sugar and coffee are grown for exportation. The agriculture in the province; justly praises the quality of the soil, its varied vegetation, and valuable natural productions. Many valuable dyes and medicinal plants are indigenous...

The last section of the pamphlet treats of the means of communication possessed by the province; the Central Argentine Railway, the road across the Sierra to San Juan, the rail- road to Tucuman now in construction...

In the appendix we to be found several interesting reports by chemists, mining engineers and others, on the minerals of the province before referred to; a statement by Mr. Woods, manager of the Central Argentine Railway, showing the goods traffic on that line from Cordoba to Rosario...

The product of this tax is to be employed in promoting the education of the children of the settlers, the latter being exempt from all other provincial imposts for the term of five years.

PARIS LETTER. (Our Own Correspondent.) February, March 17th. M. Floquet—may his name be blessed, and may the success attend his report, besides an appendix with reports on the assays of ores, extracted from his mines...
