The event of the day yesterday was the grand inauguration of the new refreshment rooms in Calle Cangallo, around the corner from the Bolsa.

The highly important port of San Nicolas has been pleased to take off the unnecessary quarantine it had imposed on vessels from Buenos Ayres.

We regret very much to hear that Mr. C. Benn, the active agent of the Royal Mail Company, has been confined to his house for some days by indisposition.

We beg to advise our Scotch readers that their highly esteemed pastor, the Rev. James Smith, will perform divine service at Lomas on Sunday next, at 5 o'clock p. m.

Our colleague La Pampa, in its issue of yesterday, offers to bet $50,000 currency that the Mitre party has won at the recent elections. It seems strange that there is no effective machinery for ascertaining the real state of the poll the very day of the election.

A poor man got run over by a tram car during the elections and was left in the middle of the street groaning, no one taking any more notice of him than if he were a dying dog.

The stoppage of all the tramways on Sunday last from 9 a.m. till 5 p.m. gave the city a taste of bygone times, and showed us what we were, and would be again, without them.

Large orders for Lottery tickets were sent to Montevideo last night on the strength of the 1000 ounces drawn by some fortunate Brits last week.

The Italian squadron did splendid service off Cartagena in saving women and children from the besieged city. Our ships under Yelverton did next to nothing, and the old 'rear' made matters worse by a pompous note to the Italian Admiral.

The report that got afloat a month ago to the effect that Juige Argolo had been liberated, happily for the honour of the country, false. Mr. Justice Hudson has passed sentence on the Argentine Bacon and his accomplice Pazio.

The ghost of "The White Lady of Berlin," a deceased Princess of the house of Hohenzollern, has thrice appeared lately in the Prussian capital, and increased the popular fear for the result of the Emperor's illness.
