in holiday costume. Only a trifling accident occurred, but one which might have proved fatal: Mr. Wilkinson, the contractor, formerly so well known on the Central Argentine Railway, fell from a plank while crossing a culvert, and dislocated his arm, but as Dr. Gervon rendered prompt assistance he was soon so far recovered as to proceed to town in a carriage.

The utmost harmony and good feeling pervaded the whole affair, which is the more refreshing in these election times, and everybody agreed with his neighbor that it was a great day for Buenos Ayres, and wished Messrs. Newman, Medici and Lanus the most flattering success in the great work they have undertaken.

well in so short a time. With a few slips the opera was well given, and the public seemed satisfied that their winter amusement here at least is secure.

The rest of the troupe are not strangers. Butlerini went through his difficult rôle well, but was not in good voice; nevertheless he supplied the usual 'gritos,' which here seem expected from a tenor, with success.
