THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

To day is the national festival of morn from every fort and ship that Andrew in either hemisphere. That ing developed by railways and immiempire on which the sun never sets holds holiday on the anniversary of Queen Victoria, whose reign is the London Stock Exchange. Augustan era of English history, and whose sway extends over a vaster territory than fell to the lot of Cesar or Charlemagne.

The list of eminent men in every branch of science and art who have sive ideas, while composed of men of embellished and exalted our name and every race and clime, and we offer a literature since Her Gracious Majesty ascended the throne would form a catalogue as lengthy as their services or achievements for the good of man. of the state. kind. Forty years ago the march of progress had hardly begun: railways property the country would be such a cently set on fire the Calle Santa Mawere beginning to be spoken of, tele. paradise that, as St. James said when ria, but the fortune of war caused a graphs were unknown, printing was the Spaniards asked him for a good Carlist magazine next day to blow up almost in its infancy, sanitary improve government, the angels themselves in the church of Orba. Since then we have made 15,000 dom, besides as many more in the Coonics, and lent money and engineers o other nations for the same purpose. We have laid down the first Atlantic cable, and shewn the Americans, French and Brazilians how to do likewise. We have discovered the North-Slave-trade. We have invented Lifeboat institutions, enlarged and made uniform the liberties which form the birthright of every British subject without distinction of creed, promoted while every other State and Kingdom in Europe has passed through revolution and anarchy.

Queen Victoria has seen every throne n the world change occupants, some wo or three times, since her accession She has seen the monarchs of France, Spain, Naples, Greece, Tuscany, Hanover, Sardinia, Austria and Bayaria expelled from their dominions by their own subjects, or by the fortune of war. She has seen the Bourbon dynasty lose 3 crowns in a single generation, the sceptre of Ferdinand and Isabelia pass into the hands of a Paris pawnbroker, and the successor of St. Peter stripped of the States of the Church after a thousand years possession.

On the other hand she has seen Greater Britain spring up beyond the setting sun, where 40 millions of citithe legacy of their British forefathers in trial by jury, free press and the other blessings of the age. She has seen a new empire emerge from the unpeopled islands of Australasia, vorthy of the genius of Englishmen.

In fine she has seen the trade of Engand increased ten-fold, embracing every country of the globe, carrying in its train civilization and progress, striking the fetters from the slave, helping young nations to advance in the aits of peace, preserving a due respect for the traditions of the past, but inculcating everywhere the saving precepts of toleration and traternity. The blood-red flag of England which once led Richard and the Crusaders Ports, with the 9.45 train from the 25 de Maro, entering the laguna San Petro going up and anning down, the national steamer tree AR. glory on the fields of Creey and Agincourt, and was borne in triumph around the world by Drake and Nelson, has lost none of its brilliancy although now the ensign of commerce: it is a signal of hope to the suffering, for the little land to which it belongs is likethe Ark of Noah, offering a refuge to the exiles of every country, the orphaus of humanity, and bearing aloft through storm and sunshine the proudest flag that ever waved o'er

ANNIVERSARY OF 1810. According to the Census, there must t ten thousand persons living America. It was only fitting that the city which has always held the foremost rank in this continent for letters and public instruction should be also the cradle of South American liberties. Not only did Buenos Ayres, achieve her own independence, but her patriot soldiers, scaling mountains loftier than those crossed by Hannibal or Napoleon, hastened to liberate Chile and Peru on the fields of Maypu and Chacabuco. The Argentine flag for the first time appeared in the waters of the Pacific under that grand old Irishman, Brown, who swept the Spanish awoke the echoes of the Andes under the forts of Callao, till the Incas in their graves rejoiced at the peal of Liberty's cannon announcing the freedom of the continent from the Orinoco to Cape Horn. In 64 years the Argentine Republic has risen from nothing to the rank of 14th nation among the peoples of the earth, and with every probability that by the end of the present century this country will emulate the United States of North America. We have a population of 2 millions, a revenue of 20 million dollars, an area miles, a thousand miles of railway, a thousand of river steam navigation, six thousand miles of telegraph, 110,000 children at school, 140 public free libraries, one hundred thousand immigrants yearly, and a city fast rising to the position of one of the most important marts in the new world.

THE Glorious 25th of May

Is again come rou d, and with it all is joy and gladness. Argentines, with natural pride, claim it as their own, but Otard and Dunuy, taking a broader view of it, regard it as an "international feast." On this dry, so to spock, there was an increase in the family of na ions. Young Argentine grow up well, and on this, his 65th birth-dry, it is our pleasing duty to drink to his hoolth in a full flowing bumper of the Matchless Brandy."
