GENERAL MITRE ON THE CHACO QUESTION.

Cicero.

The Blue-book of 1400 pages just published by the Foreign Affairs Department for the past twelve months contains few subjects of more vital interest for Buenos Ayres than the history of the Mitre mission to Paraguay, 1st. That all the Chaco up to Pilco nayo is Argentine. 2nd. That Misiones is Argentine.

3rd. That Atajo or Cerrito island is Argentine.

tth. That the only territory open to liscussion is north of the Pilcomayo but that the Government is anxious to for colonizing the Chaco. keep Villa Occidental as a garrison . "4th. That it does not suit our position; although this is not a sine qua non'like the preceding.

General Mitre presented his credenon April 7th, and Baron Araguaya jedor's ultimatum about Villa Occiden latter having been sent to co-operate his instructions, Gen. Mitre retired the spirit of the Triple Alliance) to back to B. Ayres to report the failure wards a suitable and amicable ar of his mission. rangement with Paraguay.

The negotiations went on pretty smoothly for three, months, and General Mitre succeeded so far as to obtain from Paraguay the first three points of his letter of instructions, namely: a cession of Misiones, Cerrito island and which (except Misiones) had been in possession of Paraguay before the war. The Paraguayan Government would not consent to cede Villa Occidental, of to admit arbitration on any territory north of the Pilcomayo; whereupon General Mitre, under date July 8th from Asuncion, wrote to the Argentine Government asking permission to conclude a treaty on these highy advantageous terms, and urging the inexpediency of tisking a rupture of negotiations by insisting on Villa Occidental. We transcribe from Gen. Mitre's note to Dr. Tejedor as follows-

"Having therefore obtained the utmost advantages in the other frontier points and established our sovereignty ry; it adds that this news is based on he would not touch the Malt Tax, there as high as Pilcomayo I am of opinion official information (possibly through was a long loud laugh, a few cheers

Mr. Bass provided with Paraguay, and also probably involving us in a question with Bolivia.

"5th. Because it we adopt the Pilcomayo as our frontier line we can make a settlement south of it in a better locality, whither the present settlers in Villa Occidental will gladly remove at once.

"6th. Because Brazil will not join us in the demand for VillaOccidental, and when it comes to be a question of evacuating Paraguay this point may lead to difficulties with Brazil.

"7th. Because the Pilcomayo once fixed as frontier we have no more 100m for difficulties with either Paraguay or Bolivia.

"Sth. Because the Triple Alliance only had in view our limits as far as the Pilcomayo, which is the goal of national aspirations and includes more territory than we can turn to use for many centuries to come.

"I am therefore for concluding a treaty on the basis of the Pilcomayo trontier."

In a subsequent note (July 10th) Gen. Mitre writes to Dr. Tejedor that when Baron Araguaya asked him his opinion as to the result of the negotiations he (Mitre) said he hoped his Government would accept the Pilcomayo frontier. Baron Araguaya said that he had to use his influence with the Paraguayan Government to cede so much, as the Congress of Asuncion was for refusing any territorial cession north of the Bermejo.

Again, under date July 21st, Gen. Mitre reminds Dr. Tejedor of conferences be had with him after the arrangement at Rio Jaueyro, wherein he (Tejedor) admitted that the question of territory could not not be discussed solely between Brazil and the Argentine Republic, until they heard what Paraguay had to say in the matter, as reserved to her by virtue of the Preliminary Peace-arrangement, alleging her pretensions and titles to the limits in dispute- The General goes on to

" Considering that in this matter we base our claim to the Bahia Negra line merely on the Alliance Treaty it would seem as if we had no other title to go upon; while our national aspirations go no farther than the Pilcomavo and the Alliance Treaty supposes this our frontier, leaving the rest, open to dispute as far as Bahia Negra."

Dr. Tejedor replies in a lengthy note of August 2nd, insisting upon holding Villa Occidental at all cost, because it was the only Argentine trophy of the war, and valuable to secure the tree navigation of the rivers. He adds point the General must at once remove to Villa Occidental, and haul down his flag, to return to B. Ayres.

the insuran e accounts of the company had a credit ba'ance of £83,019, but by the premiums of 1873, and after allowing for the losses of the year, there had been added to the fund £107,800, making a balance of £109,819. The annual statement submitted in February last showed an estimated loss upon the year's working of £112,000, but since then further accounts had been received from the coast. In February a profit of £14,000 was expected from the coast service, but the later accounts showed that not more than £15,000 or £16,000 could be expected from that source. In October a dividend of £93,797 was paid; added to that was £143,750 on the workings of the company, which left on Decem-

Glorious 25th of May Is again come rou d, and with it all is joy and gladness. Argentine, with natural pide, claim it as their own, but Otard and Dupuy, taking a broader view of it, regard it as an "international feast." On this day, so to spoak, there was an increase in the family of nations. Young Argentine grew up well, and on thi, his 65th birthday, it is our pleasing duty to drink to his houlth in a full flowing bumper of the Matchless Brandy."
