

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS

WONDERFUL CURES OF CONSUMPTION.—The late dissections performed in the hospital of Paris, prove beyond doubt that the tubercles of the lungs can be permanently healed, thereby curing consumption. The cases, healed, were those of persons who had, in years, been a prey to lung diseases, but who recovered and died afterwards from other causes. The late dissections show that the tubercles were cured by the constant use of pure cod liver oil. The great difficulty seems to be to obtain the genuine article. Therefore it is of paramount importance that the patient should be sure of using the Lamm and Kemp Cod Liver Oil, and no other, since there are many cheap imitations sold to the public, which do not cure, but only take the life out of the patient. The best way to take the Oil is to mix one spoonful of it with two of the best of A. Scahill's.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1874.

CHILIAN BANQUET.

On Saturday evening a dinner was given at the Hotel Argentine by the Chilean residents, to celebrate the 64th anniversary of their Independence.

The Hon. Mr. Blest Gaus, Chilean Plenipotentiary, occupied the chair; and among the others present were: D. Carlos Guido Spano, M. Baudrix, L. Walls (editor of the Courrier), Santiago Estrada, Gabriel Ocampo, Dr. Luis Varela, John Clark, Dr. Bilbao (editor of the Libertad), J. McClure of Valparaiso, B. Mitre-Vedia (Oriental Consul-General), M. Lyra (Chilian Secretary of Legation), Dr. Hurtado Barros of the Chilean Bar, Luis Bilbao, ex-Minister Agote, M. Zeballos,

M. Matta of Santiago, M. G. Mulhall, and several others. The room was hung with Chilean, Argentine and other flags, and a band played during dinner.

After dinner Mr. Lyra rose and thanked the Argentine and other guests who had come to join the Chilean residents in celebrating the great day of their beloved country.

At that moment, on the other side of the Andes, there was a sound of revoly and heartfelt expansion from one end of Chile to the other, and it was indeed gratifying to Chileans in Buenos Ayres to see the friends around the festive board unite with them in the toast of the "Independence of Chile."

Band played the Chilean national anthem.

D. Carlos Guido said: The day we celebrate is as dear to Argentines as to Chileans, for our fathers fought side by side at Maypu and Chacabuco, and never sheathed their swords till the emancipation of the Continent was secured. They were men cast in a heroic mould: not content with liberating La Plata and Chile, they carried their arms beyond the snowy Cordillera of Ecuador, and left for all time an example of magnanimous devotion and fraternal sympathy. My illustrious father, the late General Guido, was one of those who bore a great part in the deeds of that time, and was the first, as Argentine representative, to congratulate the patriots of Chile on their declaration of Independence. It is, therefore, to me a double honor to toast the memory of the Patriot Fathers.

Band played the Argentine Hymn. Dr. Varela said: No Chilean has a right here to consider himself an exile in a strange country. The same cause consecrates our union. The star of Chile and sunburst of La Plata pour our respective flags were taken by our ancestors from the same sky of blue and white that covers the countries on either side of the Andes. May our love be as strong as the granite of that mighty barrier, and our peace as lasting as the eternal summits of the Cordillera. (Applause.)

Mr. M. G. Mulhall proposed the Republic which had made the first railway in South America, established the first Astronomical Observatory, laid the first telegraph wires across the Continent, and was now, in the person of Mr. Clark, about to make the first interoceanic railway in the Continent. Mr. Bilbao said: The festival of today is not merely a Chilean celebration, but a record of the advancing spirit of the age. Mankind is no longer cut up into frontier limits of distinct nationalities, but aspiring to a general brotherhood of peoples. The world may be divided to-day into two classes—those who enjoy the rights of freedom, and those who still remain under the yoke of despotism. Let us hope for the speedy regeneration of the latter, that we may all form a family of Liberty and Progress. Two thousand years ago Socrates was asked what country he belonged to. He replied, "I am a citizen of the world." This is what the enlightened spirit of the age is now tending to.

Mr. Mitre-Vedia said: I have assisted at celebrations of this anniversary amid the cloudy skies of the Northern Hemisphere, and in the clear atmosphere of southern latitudes, with equal effusion of generous and fraternal sympathies. Here is sitting beside me my friend Mr. Clark, who is going to unite Chile and La Plata in a loving embrace, and every Argentine wishes success to his efforts. He has to overcome the formidable barrier of the Andes, but he is supported by the warm wishes of both nations.

Mr. Zeballos said: There are two noble competitors in the field, Clark and San Roman, but whichever of them prove successful, the result will be the same, the union of two peoples; both rich in the variety of their products; both endowed by Nature with a glorious climate, a prolific soil, and every blessing that Heaven can bestow; both animated with a genius of enterprise, of patriotism, of mutual respect, remembering always the traditions of the past that bind us inseparably in the future.

Mr. Clark said: I am naturally proud of having united Chile and La Plata by a line of telegraph across the Andes, and whether it be in my hands or those of somebody else that a railway be made from the West Coast to Buenos Ayres, the dearest wish of my heart will be thus accomplished.

Mr. Blest Gaus, in an eloquent speech, which was frequently applauded, proposed the Independence of Cuba, to complete the family of South American Republics.

Mr. Estrada said: The homes of Chile are the greatest charm that the traveller finds there. You may admire her snow-wreathed mountains, her meadows of untiring verdure, her bay haunts of men. But no one can ever forget the kindly reception he meets with in a Chilean home, and the stranger leaves Chile with regret.

Mr. Lyra said: The friendship of the two countries can never be broken. There is at present a disputed territory; but if ever it caused a rupture between us I would pray Heaven that it might henceforth grow nothing but thistles, and be unfit for the habitation of civilized man.

Mr. Agote said: I lived 30 years in Chile, and brought up my family there. I love that country as my own. I have no fear of any rupture. We are not going to overturn the statue of General San Martin in the Plaza Retiro, which represents the glories of both countries.

Dr. Hurtado made a speech on the necessity of each country more intimately studying the institutions of the other.

Mr. Matta spoke in the most feeling manner of the reciprocity of cordiality between his countrymen and Argentines.

D. Carlos Guido said: Before we go we owe a recognition to the memory of the brave men from France and Ireland who fought by our side for Independence, and who are represented at this board by the editors of the Courrier and Standard. Lafayette's countrymen shed their blood also in South America, and our glories are inseparable from the names of O'Brien, O'Connor, Cochran, Miller.

(Mr. Clark: Don't forget O'Higgins! Mr. Mitre: And old Admiral Brown! Mr. Agote: And General O'Leary and the Irish brigade of Colombia!)

Well, gentlemen, they are so numerous I cannot repeat them all. Their good swords flashed on every battlefield of South America, and their descendants are here beside us, not with the sword, but with the more powerful men, helping us in the great work of national progress. (Enthusiastic applause.)

Mr. Walls replied in a speech of great power.

Mr. Mulhall also returned thanks, and said his glorious countrymen of the three kingdoms were always champions of the good cause. Their swords were always drawn for Liberty, and only sheathed when Independence was accomplished.

The health of Mr. V. MacKenna and some other toasts concluded the festive celebration.

MENDOZA'S MAILS. FIVE DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

Professor Tyndall's lecture at Belfast, on the "beginning of things," has created an immense sensation, not only in Great Britain and Ireland, but throughout all thinking Europe. The Times in its leader regards it as a challenge to revealed religion.

"Let it be granted that we can trace our civilization back to a chaos of matter and a hurly-burly of elements, and the more severe the reasoning which has constrained us to connect our present with such a past, the more irresistibly are we compelled to admit that the present has been a necessary consequence of the laws laid down from the beginning, and we are thus confronted with the old difficulty of accounting for the origin of these laws which have conducted the world up to this moment. Theology is apparently slain only to revive."

The Professor pays a very high compliment to Darwin, whose "largeness of knowledge and readiness of resource render him the most terrible of antagonists," and calls from the doctrines of Democritus "truths that lead to the astonishment of all have taken over 2,000 years to ripen. Perhaps the most peculiar feature of this Irish lecture is the charge made against Christianity, which the Professor says stopped the victorious advance of science, and compelled the scientific intellect, like an exhausted soil, to lie fallow for nearly two millenniums. He shows how the science of ancient Greece had begun to clear the world of the fantastic images of divinities operating capriciously through natural phenomena.

With regard to Bishop Butler the Professor says: "About the time of Bishop Butler it was seen by the clear-witted men that many of their best arguments applied equally to brutes and men. The Bishop's arguments were of this character. He saw it, admitted it, accepted the consequences, and boldly embraced the whole animal world in his scheme of immortality. Bishop Butler accepted with unwavering trust the chronology of the Old Testament, describing it as "confirmed by the natural and civil history of the world, collected from common historians, from the state of the earth, and from the late inventions of arts and sciences." These words mark progress; they must seem somewhat hoary to the bishop's successors of to-day. But only to some; for there are dignitaries who even now speak of the earth's rocky crust as so much building material prepared for man at the Creation. Surely it is time that this loose language should cease. It is hardly necessary to inform you that since his time the domain of the naturalist has been immensely extended—the whole sient of geology, with its astounding revelations regarding the life of the ancient earth, having been created. The rigidity of old conceptions has been relaxed, the public mind being rendered gradually tolerant of the idea that not for six thousand, nor for sixty thousand, nor for six thousand thousand, but for eons embracing untold millions of years, this earth has been the theatre of life and death.

As a set off against this Professor's Belfast lecture we have the Liverpool papers filled with a libel action against the "Leader" brought by the lessee of the Theatre Royal to recover damages for writing and publishing an article against the performances and songs and dances—"Oan-Can" &c. The evidence by the straight laced policeman as to how they sang the girls dance is most amusingly instructive, and as the jury called for the song the counsel in open court, read it—

Mr. Pope here read the first verse of the song, which was as follows:— I shan't forget how queer I felt When first I fell in love, I had a most severe attack Through squeezing a lady's glove.

(Laughter.) But a lovely hand was it. As I walked with her so gay, I thought myself: Paradise. It's funny when you feel that way.

I felt as though I tumbled into honey. And somebody had left me all their money. The feeling's so peculiar and funny; Oh! it's funny when you feel that way.

Mr. Pope—That was the song given to a young lady!—She is not a young woman; she is married.

The jury gave one farthing damages and the judge refused to give costs.

There is a severe industrial crisis in Germany. Official statistics show an enormous falling-off in the production of the great commercial centres. Most of the factories are closed. Government has appointed delegates to report on the situation.

The recent revolutionary riots in Italy are supposed to have been the prelude to an intended Socialist outburst in Sicily. The Pope is inclined to recognise the Spanish Republic as most of the great powers have done so. Garibaldi is still very shaky.

The financial situation of Spain is considered desperate, the negotiations for cash opened with the Bank of Paris having fallen through. It is reported that the Governor-General of Cuba will grant an amnesty, restitution of property and revocation of exile to the rebels, if they will submit.

Yesterday the marriage of the Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery with Lady Gertrude Frances Talbot, only unmarried daughter of the late and sister of the present Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot, was solemnized in Westminster Abbey. The ceremony was held in Henry VII's Chapel, a most unusual circumstance at the present day, as since Lord Hardwick's Act in 1756 marriage ceremonies have been discontinued in that portion of the Abbey. The wedding party met in the Jerusalem Chamber at about half-past 11 o'clock. The marriage ceremony was solemnized in front of Henry VII's shrine. After the ceremony the noble Earl and his bride left for Lady Shrewsbury's house in Belgrave-square, where the wedding breakfast was given. At half-past 2 o'clock the Earl and Countess of Pembroke took their departure, amidst a shower of rice and satin slippers, for Wilton house, near Salisbury, to pass the honeymoon.
