COGNAC BOVINE.

This preparation is composed of the fluest French Cognae, distilled in Charente, and highly concentrated fresh juices carefully extracted from the choicest portions of prime fed oxen, both ingredients being amalgamated and rectified by the process known as Collinardge's Patenta.

It is guaranteed perfectly free from acid, essential and empyreumatic oils, and aqueous impurities: moreover it is the only non-toxicant spirit im existence, the chief characteristic teding, that while it imparts all the stamina and support of brandy and beef tea, it does not cause any of the disagreeable effects of interpreparable from any if the disagreeable flectese indeparable from the use of redinary cognace, for while the spirit imparts strength, elasticity and vigour to the mind the powerful extract from well fed beet renders such sustenance to the body as to recist which combines more hun or, knowledge of character, high thought, deep p thos, and vigorous positical intelligence than any we have read for a long time.—" Evening Star," Feb. 14, 1868.

The story is remarkably clever, a rollicking,

It is a nov 1 in form, but in reality a rollitica

It is a now I in form, but in reality a relitica pamphlet. The revelate me contained in it startled, the country, and have ever since formed the ground for cowent on in the egislature. Although Max Havelaer may seem less attractive to many a hor read nothing but novels than the morbid and silty stories which we in domand at circulating libraries, yet by other and more judicious read rs, it will be heartly welcomed.—Daily News," Feb. 10, 1868.

A more stinging satire of the lower propensities of the butch could hardly be conceived than that embedded in the Austerdam coffee broker, Butavus Drystubble, (who) stunds out a one of the most remarkable embeddments of monog grubbing Pharise sin which literature bas 'vest produced.
