CAUTION.—Vice-Chanceller Sir W. P. Wood stated that Dr. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the Inventor of CHLORODYNE hat the story of the Defendant, Freeman, being the inventor was deliberately untrue, which he regretted had been sworn to. Eminent Hospital Physicians of London stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the discoverer of Chlorodyne, that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's.—The Times, July 12, 1864.

The Public, therefore, are cautioned against using any other than

THE REASON WHY THE HAIR FALLS
OFF.—Whenever the cuticle shrinks from discase, age, or other cause, ic presses hard around FOR ease, age, or other causes, is presses hard around the roots of the hair, thereby preventing the toloring substance and vital element from passing up from the roots. In order to f restall this difficulty, it becomes nece sary to apply the Oriental Tonic every meraing and night, combining with it a vigorous use of the brush, the object being to renovate the vital ty of the cuticles and soften the vesicles. This is soon attained, and the interrupted commanication between the bulbs and hair is renewed, resulting in a bril iant, silky, abundant, and enhanced head of hair.

CHRISTMAS.

Holly and Christmas chimes, plum puddings, boys home from school, and a thousand other joyous recollections crowd upon one's mind at the bare mention of to day. Memory runs back through a long vista of years, forgetful of the toil or dust of the road of life, and rests with unalloyed pleasure upon the scenes of boyhood and the paternal home. This is the one day in the year which brings up vividly before us all the holiest associations of domestic lite in Britain: parents long dead once more place their hands upon our head and breathe a ferveut blessing; sisters, whose voice was music in the gay old home, but who are now in distant ends of the earth or beyond that bourne whence no travelround the festive board to join the innocent festivities of the day. We oven seem to hear the blind fiddler playing the Christmas hymn, to see the robinredbreast venturing within the friendly door, to feel the icy breath of the snow drift, or listen to the merry laugh that rings around, or the pleasant greeting of "a Merry Christmas" on all sides. Other nations have their ational festivals on their anniversary of independence or other civic festival. But we of Great Britain and Ireland feast, and with a degree of splendor unknown in other countries. The Germans are almost equal to us and family celebrations shewing how other ports on Lake Titicaca open for the Americans, attach more importance to the New Year. In Italy the celebration of Christmas pales before Pres. Frias was expected at Tacna and the grander solemnities of Easter. In Cobija. the other countries of Christendom the same more or less happens. But in one respect Christmas is the same all the world over, whether in seen each other for the rest of the muskets was expected at Coro. Guzyear, friends who were half-estranged. will meet to day with a kindly smile warmth of good-fellowship, and that dez President of the Republic, but all the man who resists such influences is have been arrested.

only fit for Lybian deserts. Christmas is also in every country the season for rendering assistance to the poor or suffering. The rich man opens his purse-strings that the house. less mendicant may in a measure share in the passing festivities of the day. It is likewise a season of thankfulness towards the Almighty for the year that is done, and of hope for that which is coming.

The present Christmas in B. Ayres finds us under happier auspices than in many years of recent memory. Sometimes the holly has come to us wreathed with the cypress, in the shape of deadly disease. Sometimes the authem of "Peace on earth" has been disturbed by impending rumors of war. But at present we are in the enjoyment of peace with ourselves and our neighbors; we are free from epidemic or other dreadful menace: and the country presents a more hopeful appearance than half the kingdoms Rosa on the 7th inst. between my of Europe, that are this moment torn army and that of ex-general Arreby contending factions, or consumed dondo. by the volcanic fires of religious dis-

the entire position.

On the 5th I set fire to the fences of the enemy's left flank and cleared some obstacles to the passage of artil. lery, at the same time sending ex-Gen-Arredondo a note that Generals Mitre and Rivas had surrendered with the single condition of their lives being spared, and that be ought not to pro-remain in Sau Luis and San Juan. As I had no instructions I agreed to an armistice of some hours till I cretion Arredondo refused. I assumed hostilities on Sunday evening (6th) at 4 o'clock, pretending to assail the enemy in front. At midnight I hurried all my army by the enemy's left, till I placed myself two miles in his rear on the highroad to Mendoza. Notwithstanding the broken ground, interspersed with brushwood. swamps, fences and water-courses, I maps with soundings to be made in had the good fortune to pass my whole army within cannon-shot of the enemy without the movement being per ceived. At daybreak on Monday morning, when the rebels perceived the positiou I had gained, they abandoned their trenches as no longer tenable, and took up certain passes near the highroad till they occupied nearly the same the infantry being commanded by Col. Olascoaga, and the cavalry by Col. Timote. My entire command mustered about 1.500 men, which was also about the number of the enemy's force. After a dreadful fire of musketry and artillery the rebel army was completely routed, Arredondo surrendering to me in person, while we also captured 13 superior commanders, 100 officers, 1800 or 2,000 men, 2 revolving cannon, 3 fieldpieces, 2,000 horses, and all the arms, baggage and supplies.

My cavalry was precluded from acive co-operation owing to the broken nature of the ground, between tenced meadows and cane brakes, the troops having continually to dismount to make an opening through the fences. Moreover, the mules were thin from hunger and privation. Nevertheless the moment we essayed to charge the rebel cavalry, the latter fled entirely from the field, and we were unable afterwards to pursue them in so difficult a country.

The loss in my army consists of two commanders, two officers and 40 men killed, besides 8 officers and 108 men wounded. purchasing elsewher.

Recollect, that the purchase can be amortized every month, or every three months, or every six months.

We undertake to prove satisfactorily that the interest, at rate of 10p3 on the Capital invested in the purchase of a Plot in these Grounds, and in the Building of a saug Cottage, a ded to the Monthly Return Tickets per Rul, does rot come to more than half-the monthly rent of a very moderate house in town, thus effecting a large annual saving even wt out taking into consideration the profit that can be obtained by the sale of such property in the course of a few years, for who can doubt that Belgrane, blores, and Buenos Ayres, will yet form one city, which even then would not be half as large as the New York of to-day.

We again ask you to call at our Office for FREE TICKETS, And go see the place on Sunday Evening.
